HOUSE GROUP INDORSES HOOVER DEBT HOLIDAY BUT OPPOSES REVISION

Ways and Means Body to Back Moratorium on Foreign Funds.

VOTE ON PLAN LIKELY BY TOMORROW NIGHT

Member of Morgan Banking Firm Questioned; New Inquiry Sought.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's moratorium on governmental debts emerged victorious but scared yesterday from its first tilt with its congressional judges.

It came from the closed doors of the powerful ways and means committee after three days of hearings and six hours of secret discussions adorned with an amendment to record Congress against further reduction or cancellation of intergovernmental debts.

The debt holiday will be debated in the House today. A favorable vote is expected by tomorrow night.

The no-revision amendment was attached by a vote of 16 to 9 in the face of the administration's proposal for revision of Europe's obligations to America.

Votes to Report Resolution.

Then the committee voted 21 to 4 to report the resolution to the House. Four Democrats were in the opposition: Representatives Sanders, of Texas; Vinson, of Kentucky; Dickinson, of Missouri, and Eslick, of Tennessee.

The amendment against revision was proposed by Representative Ragon, Arkansas Democrat, and received unanimous Democratic support, plus the vote of Representative Crowther (Republican), New York.

This section read:

"It is hereby expressly declared to be against the policy of Congress that any of the indebtedness of foreign countries to the United States should be in any manner canceled or reduced and nothing in this joint resolution shall be construed as indicating a contrary policy, or as implying that favorable consideration will be given to a change in the policy hereby declared."

Senate Opposition Intense.

The deliberations of the committee were brought to a close after many more hours of work than was expected had virtually eliminated the last chance of enacting the moratorium before the holidays. Opposition in the Senate will be intense, regardless of the number that may finally vote against the plan.

While House approval was a foregone conclusion; members were quick to still the impression the vote would be in the same ratio as the committee division. Democratic Leader Rainey, for example, who is ready to demand night sessions to expedite final action, voted to report the moratorium resolution but will vote against its adoption.

Meanwhile, the swelling tide of opposition climaxed in the Tuesday Speech of Representative McFadden (Republican), Pennsylvania, accusing President Hoover of having "sold out" to Germany, was reflected in the summoning before the committee of a representative of J. P. Morgan & Co., New York bankers and fiscal agents for several foreign nations.

Denies Nations Had Funds.

This witness, youthful and excellently tailored Henry P. Davison, came in reply to a telephone call from Undersecretary Mills, made at the request of Chairman Collier. He said his firm was the fiscal agent for Great Britain, France and Italy, and categorically denied these debtor nations had funds on deposit to meet payments that were due December 15.

"They did not have the funds with us and did not offer any," was the reply he gave. "Of course, they have current working funds."

Representative Rankin, Mississippi Democrat, not a member of the committee, demanded an answer on this

"Legs" Diamond Freed by Jurors

Gangster Chief Acquitted at Troy of Kidnaping Farm Youth.

Troy, N. Y., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Jack "Legs" Diamond, gangster chief, was acquitted tonight in the Rensselaer County Supreme Court of kidnaping James Duncan, 20-year-old Greene County farm youth. The verdict was reached 5 hours and 31 minutes after the jury began consideration of the case. It took an hour out for lunch.

Diamond received it calmly, but Mrs. Diamond half leaped and half climbed over the guard rail to her husband's side and kissed him. Marion Roberts, Diamond's companion on many occasions recently, was not present.

This was the second time the State has tried Diamond. It unsuccessfully tried him on an assault charge last summer. Both charges grew from the same gang episode, an attack on a pair of cider haulers in the Catskill Mountains. The prosecution's evidence at the two trials was the same.

Reich Boosted Budget By Billion, Data Show

About $375,000,000 Was Added to Pay of Public Servants Between 1926 and 1929, Young Plan Committee Reveals.

Basel, Switzerland, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Germany's budgetry expenses increased $925,000,000 between 1926 and 1929, the Young plan advisory committee on reparations reported tonight. About $375,000,000 of this amount resulted from increases in the salaries of public servants granted in 1927, the experts found.

The statistics were contained in a report of the subcommittee on German budgetary practices, parts of which were made public by the financial experts who are investigating Germany's capacity to pay reparations. The report, a communique said, was widely commented on at tonight's plenary session of the Young plan committee.

The salary increases brought the pay of lesser functionaries to the level of 1913, the communique explained. Other items contributing to the increase in budgetary expenses included unemployment insurance of $250,000,000; reparations, $125,000,000, and various, $175,000,000.

The communique revealed that the financial realtionship between the Reich and federal states was discussed by the subcommittee as well as recent measures increasing the sums the federal states received from the central government.

The subcommittee, headed by Hendryk Colijn, of Holland, also went into the cost of education and the practice of subsidizing housing enterprises from public funds. In addition, the investigators inquired into the growth of public debts in general.

Germany's recent attempts to balance the budget by drastic economies were lauded in the report. The ex-

BRITAIN PUTS HIGHER DUTY ON U. S. FOODS

Third "Antidumping" Order Hits America Hardest; 50 Per Cent Imposed.

London, Dec. 17 (U.P.).—The tariff wall, which Great Britain is raising against foreign goods, was built higher today when the board of trade issued its third "anti-dumping" order, imposing 50 per cent duties on cotton manufacturers and other articles which normally are imported heavily from the United States.

The third order, which will affect American trade more than either of the two earlier lists, was issued coincident with indications that an important political realignment is developing as a result of the Conservative party tariff policy.

Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald was said on reliable authority to be contemplating formation of a "center party" composed of the remnants of David Lloyd George's Liberal party and the right-wing Laborites. It was understood that MacDonald had consulted with prominent Labor party leaders, despite the fact the party repudiated him when he became head of the coalition cabinet.

As yet no decision has been reached, but the split is expected to develop publicly as the time for presentation of the new budget approaches. Arthur Henderson, the Laborite leader, has been ill and probably will be replaced by George Lansbury.

The prospect of a new political alignment—which would put the Con-

Culbertson-Lenz Bridge Battle

Culbertson and Lightner Win Two Rubbers and Lead by 2,685.

New York, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Ely Culbertson and his new partner, Theodore Lightner, won the first two rubbers from Sidney Lenz and Oswald Jacoby tonight and the lead of the representatives of the Culbertson system in a marathon test of systems of contract bridge increased to 2,685. Lightner had the tickets and played them well.

The rubber standing after the fiftieth rubber was 25 for each side. Point of rubber 50: Culbertson, 1,360; Lenz, 210.

Lightner contracted for three no-trump on the first hand and made

Senate Allows $30,000 For Heflin Contest Cost

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday authorized appropriation of $30,000 for completion of consideration of the contest against the election of Senator Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama.

The contest, brought by former Senator J. Thomas Heflin, had been delayed by lack of funds.

Robert E. Olds Named To Arbitration Court

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover has appointed Robert E. Olds of St. Paul, Minn., former Undersecretary of State, to be the American member of the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague. He succeeds the late Roland W. Boyden, of Boston, Mass.

Among those who urged Olds' appointment was Frank B. Kellogg, of St. Paul, former Secretary of State, and now justice of the Court of International Justice at The Hague.

Post's Toy Fund Snowball Passes $700 Mark in Drive

Store of Presents Donated to Help Santa Visit Needy Children Growing.

Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!

The Post Toy Fund Snowball passed the $700 mark last night, traveling fast from the vigorous pushes given by generous-hearted Washington, men, women and children, and is well on its way to reach the $1,000 mile post not later than tomorrow night.

Of course, The Post Toy Fund does not intend to stop when $1,000 is reached for it will take at least $2,000 and many, many toys to fill all the tasks which have been set for the fund from Santa Claus and no child must wake up on Christmas morning toyless and cheerless because somebody forgot or neglected to send in his or her contribution to this fund.

Six days more to Christmas Eve and in that time The Post Toy Fund Snowball must be large enough to cover the toy desires of every needy child in Washington.

The Post Toy Fund stood at $700.90 last night with some interesting looking mail which could not be opened because the auditor, worn out from counting up the donations, had gone home.

Speaking of homes, there are hundreds of families in Washington

RILEYS, GUILTY, AWAIT RULING ON FATE TODAY

Father, on Stand, Admits Children Had Become "Obnoxious."

GIVES CONTRADICTORY TESTIMONY AT TRIAL

Describes Wife as Being in Bad Mental Condition; Doctors Testify.

Before today is over Harry N. Riley and his wife may know the penalty they are to pay for being found guilty of cruel, abusive and inhuman treatment to their daughter, 12-year-old Edith Riley.

For today is sentence day, and should the defense waive the right to have four days elapse between the day of judgment and sentence day, Riley and his wife may again appear in the District Supreme Court before Justice F. Dickinson Letts and learn their fate.

Should the defense not waive this right the Christmas holiday of the court, in all probability, will delay sentence for some time.

The maximum penalty provided under the law is two years in the penitentiary and a fine of $250.

The case closed dramatically and suddenly yesterday afternoon after Riley had taken the stand in his own defense and when questioned by Attorney H. R. Stephenson, had given testimony contradictory to that brought out by prosecution witnesses the previous day.

Obnoxious, He Admits.

The defendant was then subjected to a gruelling cross-examination by Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins and admitted that his children had become "obnoxious" to him.

Having obtained this statement, the prosecution rested and after brief conference with Justice Letts both sides rested formally.

Justice Letts then rendered his decision finding Riley and his wife guilty.

The judge commented upon the unusual nature of the case and said: "I had hoped that it was impossible for human beings to be guilty of such conduct. But the fact remains the evidence herein produced has not been refuted. Unfortunately, the young girl and boy had to testify against their father in this case. Very little in contradiction of their testimony was offered by the defense. I must, therefore, announce my conclusions in this case now, postponing sentence until the next sentence day of this court. I find each of these defendants guilty on the counts of the indictment and order that they be committed to the proper authorities."

In his testimony on the stand before he was adjudged guilty Riley said he had never beaten Edith nor had the child been beaten in his presence.

Denies Mistreatment.

"I would be a mighty poor man to stand for any woman, no matter who

Alleged Rum Ring Chief Seized by U. S. Agents

Wilmington, N. C., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Federal officers here today said a huge liquor syndicate operating along the coasts of Florida and the Carolinas has been smashed with the arrest here of Dick Evans, alias Dick Bailey, who was described as the syndicate's "master mind."

He is under an indictment at Jacksonville, Fla., which charges he shipped four railroad cars of liquor from Florida between last May 13 and October 10; that he hired men to run liquor boats from Bimini, British West Indies; that he maintained a secret depot in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and attempted to bribe a Hollywood, Fla., officer with $1,000 and 36 cases of liquor.

Two Submarines Collide in Gulf

None in Crews Injured; Vessels Will Require Dry-Docking.

(Associated Press.)

Two submarines of the United States fleet, the S-14 and S-16, must go into dry dock as the result of a collision during tactical exercises yesterday in the Gulf of Panama.

The S-16 struck the S-14, flagship of submarine division six, while making a submerged approach to the latter ship. There were no injuries to personnel.

The Navy Department was informed by Lieut. Comdr. G. C. Hitchcock, commander of the division, that both vessels were returning under their own power to Balboa.

The S-14 was reported to have a hole two by three feet in her outer hull near the stern. The stem of the S-16 was folded back a foot to a height of six feet as a result of the impact.

The S-16 is commanded by Lieut. B. G. Lake, of New York State, and the S-14 by Lieut. E. C. Mahoney, of Maine.

RICH WOMAN'S EYES MENACED BY KIDNAPERS

Millionaire Kansas City Garment-Maker Is Seized in Auto.

$75,000 IS RANSOM; 2 SUSPECTS SEIZED

Former Senator Reed, Friend of Family, Aids Hunt for Outlaw Band.

Kansas City, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Mrs. Nell Quinlan Donnelly, millionaire garment manufacturer, was in the hands of kidnapers tonight—threatened with being blinded—while her frantic husband, Paul Donnelly, and former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, sought to effect her safe release by payment of $75,000 ransom.

Two women who said they had learned through a clairvoyant the whereabouts of Mrs. Donnelly were taken to police headquarters tonight after a telephone call from one of them sent searchers on a rush call to their address.

Reed Guarantees Ransom.

A guarantee that the demanded ransom would be paid was made public by Reed, neighbor and attorney for the Donnellys. The fiery and relentless former senator warned that if "there is a single hair of her head harmed" he would spend the rest of his life, if necessary, to run down the kidnapers and send them to the gallows.

The kidnaping was revealed today in notes from Mrs. Donnelly, political figure and leading business woman of Kansas City, who wrote her husband: "If you refuse to pay, I will be blinded and the Negro will be killed."

Detectives Work on Case.

Mrs. Donnelly was abducted at 6 p. m. yesterday while riding home with her Negro chauffeur, George Blair, also a captive.

Former Senator Reed and Mr. Donnelly did not disclose what steps would be taken to get in touch with the kidnapers. Donnelly said he did not want police interference and was "ready and willing to pay the ransom money."

"I want to get her out of danger at the earliest possible moment," he said.

Reed, who left a Jefferson City, Mo., courtroom in the midst of a trial and rushed here by automobile, said:

"If they will deliver Mrs. Donnelly safely they can have the $75,000 and take my word for it that Mr. Donnelly will see to it that it is paid."

Detectives and policemen were assigned to the case, but were acting warily in the fear that efforts on their part might lead the kidnapers to carry out their threat to maim Mrs. Donnelly and kill the chauffeur.

Notes Written by Victim.

Postal inspectors were attempting to trace the sending of the ransom notes through the mails.

Two notes in a single inclosure were received in the mail this morning by

Pola Negri Better; Recovery Is Seen

Polish Actress Obtains Her First Natural Sleep Since Operation.

Santa Monica, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—A speedy recovery for Pola Negri, Polish motion picture star, was predicted today by Dr. Leo J. Mansen, 24 hours after she underwent an operation for removal of an abdominal obstruction.

Miss Negri obtained her first natural sleep today since the operation yesterday. Although in a semiconscious condition, the patient recognized the physician and nurses and several times smiled faintly.

The doctor said it would be several days before the crisis developed. In the meantime, if complications do not set in, there is no reason why she should not recover rapidly, he added.

Several Hurt in Battle Of Police and Jobless

Stoke-on-Trent, England, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Several persons were injured this evening in a spirited fight between police and 2,000 unemployed who had gathered at the town hall where the city council was in session.

When they threw stones through the windows a large police detachment hidden inside the building charged. When the crowd had dispersed a number of injured men lay in the street. They were taken to hospitals and order was restored.

Department of Interior Cuts Forces in Alaska

Anchorage, Alaska, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The Anchorage Times said today the Interior Department had ordered drastic curtailment in the offices of the Alaska Railroad and field forces, placed shop workers on a five-day week basis and materially reduced wages.

The newspaper said those who lost their jobs were dismissed by the department without notice.

HOUSE APPROVES BILLS FOR BOOSTING DISTRICT TAX ON AUTOS AND GAS

Senate District Group Set for Budget Work

Membership of New Subcommittee Increased to 16, Including Capper, Kean and King, Ex-officio Members.

Membership of the new District subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee, headed by Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, announced foe of the plan to cut down the Federal lump sum contribution to the District, was announced yesterday by Chairman Wesley L. Jones (Republican), Washington.

Membership of the subcommittee has been increased from twelve to sixteen, including ex-officio members, Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the Senate District Committee; Senator Hamilton F. Kean (Republican), New Jersey, and Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah.

Other members include Senators Gerald P. Nye (Republican), North Dakota; Frederick Steiwer (Republican), Iowa; Henry W. Keys (Republican), New Hampshire; Porter H. Dale (Republican), Vermont; James J. Davis (Republican), Pennsylvania; L. J. Dickinson (Republican), Iowa; Carter Glass (Democrat), Virginia; John B. Kendrick (Democrat), Wyoming; Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York; Sam G. Bratton (Democrat), New Mexico; Elmer Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, and James F. Byrne, (Democrat), South Carolina.

The new Senate District committee will hold its initial hearing this morning on the plan to declare December 26 a legal holiday.

There will be six new faces around the conference table when Chairman Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, calls members to order at 10:30 in the District committee room.

The House District committee will not get under way until Monday

RITCHIE DENOUNCES CAMERAMEN ATTACK

Says Investigation Shows Police Unjustified in Molesting Newsmen.

The action of two Prince Georges County policemen in interfering with newspaper photographers appeared "inexcusable and shows their unfitness" for their post, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie yesterday wrote to the county commissioners as a mass meeting of citizens to protest against the force neared.

Gov. Ritchie's letter to the commissioners inclosed a report of the attorney general, who expressed the opinion that the two officers should be dismissed. Two of the county commissioners will speak at the mass meeting tonight, as will Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, and J. Frank Lillard.

Speaking of the two policemen, Ralph Brown and Howard Slater, Gov. Ritchie said, "If they were employes of the State I would direct that steps be taken at once looking to their dismissal from the State service." He expressed the hope that the commissioners would administer "prompt and adequate punishment." The two men already have been summoned before the board for a hearing on December 22.

"The action of the police officers was entirely officious," is the opinion of William Preston Lane, the attorney general, expressed in his report of the affair. Maj. Lane also believes that no order against picture

Moscow Paper Attacks U.S. Plan of Embargo

Moscow, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The Communist organ Pravda said today the proposal to place an embargo on Soviet imports into the United States resulted from the desire of America to forget its own troubles by crying against the red menace.

The paper discussed the matter under the headline, "Anti-Soviet Attack of American Diehards—Preelection Speculation, or Repetition of the Idiotic Charges of Forced Labor and the Red Menace."

MAN, JILTED, SHOOTS BRIDE AND HIMSELF

Sends Four Bullets Into Body as She Tries to Stop Them With Christmas Cards.

Efforts to win back his young bride failing, George F. Bruckman, 23 years old, an automobile mechanic, last night whipped out a revolver and shot her four times over the heart and then sent a bullet crashing through his own temple. Physicians at Casualty Hospital, where the girl-wife was taken said last night her efforts to save her life by placing a package of pay Christmas cards in front of her breast would probably prove unavailing.

Two of the bullets, apparently from a .32-caliber revolver, tore through the heavy four-inch packet of greeting cards and took effect in her breast. There were powder burns on the box showing how close the pistol was held to her body.

The shooting took place as the couple sat in Bruckman's automobile, parked with motor running and lights on, in a vacant lot near the Evening Star Garage, at Second and I streets southeast.

The girl, Mrs. Dorothy Fisher Bruckman, 20 years old, who is now living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Fisher, of 540 Fifth street southeast, has been separated from her husband for about four months.

The shooting apparently was the climax of an unhappy married life of twenty months. On March 10 the girl was taken to Emergency Hospital, according to police reports, after

England May Delay Battleship Building

London, Dec. 17 (U.P.).—The government announced today that construction of some warships on the 1932 naval building program may be somewhat delayed for "reasons of economy."

It was stated officially, however, that there was no question of suspension of the 1932 building program, as the Daily Herald had stated was considered probable.

Stimson's Special Envoy Flies to Salvador Revolt

Minister to Colombia Ordered to Study Situation Developing After President Araujo Fled, Although Curtis is Still at Post in Latin Capital.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Recognition or rejection by the United States of the revolutionary government in El Salvador depends on the sudden departure for San Salvador at a late hour Wednesday night of Jefferson Caffery, American Minister to Colombia, now on leave. Minister Caffery was "conscripted" by Secretary of State Stimson to clarify the situation which has existed in the Salvadorean government since the rebels seized the city and forced President Arturo Araujo to flee last December 3.

Behind the departure of Mr. Caffery is a situation upon which depends the established precedent of American and Central American relations. Mr. Caffery has been summoned from his vacation to go to San Salvador by airplane despite the fact that the American minister assigned to the country is in possession of his post. The American minister to El Salvador is Charles Boyd Curtis, whose appointment was confirmed by the Senate yesterday. Minister Curtis telegraphed the State Department the day the revolution broke out that the "rebels had taken over the city," but since that time his dispatches have apparently been inadequate to the officials of the State Department. An unauthenticated report was published in a newspaper in Mexico City subsequently charging Minister Curtis with "sympathizing with the rebels."

The Salvadorean minister, Dr. Carlos Leiva, who has been so capably carrying on his functions here, was unable to substantiate these reports.

No verification of this report could be secured at the department yesterday. The action of Secretary Stimson in sending another American Minister to El Salvador while the regularly appointed diplomatic envoy was in Third Measure Provides for Collection of Fee on Estates.

LEGISLATORS STRIKE AT FOES OF PROGRAM

Newspapers Are Under Fire as Another Step Is Taken in $4,000,000 Plan.

Smarting from city-wide criticism, the House yesterday passed the last of the four taxation measures designed to collect $4,000,000 more annually from District residents.

Two of the bills, boosting the gasoline tax to 4 cents and providing an estate tax for the District, passed without opposition. One member rose to oppose the last which would tax automobiles according to weight.

The first of the bills, proposing a local income tax, passed Wednesday.

In the final minutes before vote on the automobile weight levy, members of the special committee on fiscal relations between District and Federal governments, which sponsored the radical measures, sought to answer protests of civic organizations, newspapers and members of the Senate.

Strike Back at Foes.

One by one, Representative Carl E. Mapes (Republican), Michigan, chairman of the committee; Representative James A. Frear (Republican), Wisconsin, dissenting member of the committee, and Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, heaped coals of fire on the heads of Washington newspaper editors, and Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, who opposed the taxes.

"Congress," said Representative Mapes, "has been so unwisely lavish with the District that a landholding element has been created here that demands as a right what has been granted as a subsidy."

Representative Frear said any one living in the District who doesn't like the taxes can get out of the city by traveling just 6 miles.

"But I haven't heard of any exodus on the part of these people who are complaining," he added.

Representative Blanton directed his vitriol at the newspapers.

Attack on Newspapers.

"They give us 'H' whenever they get ready," he said. "My policy is to give them 'H' whenever they deserve it."

"What does the gentleman mean by 'H,'" asked Mr. Frear.

"They know very well what I mean," replied Mr. Blanton.

Representative Olger B. Burtnes (Republican), North Dakota, spoke in opposition to the weight tax on automobiles. Objecting that the tax should have been levied on value, he said he could not believe the committee in this bill had shown "the same sense of fairness."

"Why, any Government worker might go out and buy a car worth only what it would bring for junk," he said. "But, because it was heavy, they would have to pay $15 or $20 tax, more than the car was worth."

Mr. Burtness said there was a serious question as to the constitutionality of the bill, but his objection was based on the lack of fairness of the assessment. He said such a measure could never get through the Legislature of his own State.

Replies to Attack.

Representative Ewin L. Davis (Democrat), Tennessee, a member of the Mapes committee, replied that only two States in the Union impose a tax on value of cars. He said the trend is the other way—that the committee "had tried to hit a happy medium."

Representative William H. Stafford (Republican), Wisconsin, said it was possible the measure "might drive all of the old cars off the street."

Representative Burtness had little to say after Mr. Davis' rebuttal. He did not vote against the measure.

The bills passed yesterday by the House, which must go through the Senate and be signed by the Presi-

DEMOCRATS HIT 'GLORIFYING' OF HOOVER BY AIDS

Robinson and Harrison, in Senate, Assail Policy as Inconsistent.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The "glorifying" of President Hoover by Republican orators at a time when nonpartisan action is being asked of Congress was assailed in the Senate yesterday.

Two Democratic senators—Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the minority leader, and Pat Harrison, of Mississippi—specifically objected to the speech which Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley had delivered Wednesday before the Republican national committee.

In a booming bass, Robinson said that the voters in 1932 would not support a party "whose head one day asks nonpartisan action," and whose supporters the next day "glorify" his achievements and accuse the Democrats of playing partisan politics.

Religious Issue Assailed.

Senator Harrison referred to Secretary Hurley as "Prophet Pat," and accused him of trying to revive the religious issue by his reference to John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Aside from this oratorical flurry the Senate did little, the fact of the matter being that there is little at this time that it can do.

The "Moses marathon"—the Progressive fight to oust Senator George H. Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, as president pro tem—went two more rounds, with the usual deadlock.

In a Katzenjammer spirit Senator Henrik Shipstead (Farmer-Laborite), Minnesota, who has been voting with the men Mr. Moses called "sons of the wild jackass," cast a vote yesterday for the New Hampshire senator's colleague, Henry W. Keyes, and that conservative senator blushed furiously.

May Shorten Christmas Recess.

After this the Senate passed its first bill of the session—the King bill to consolidate the bureaus of the Federal Government which are concerned with the conservation of wild life.

It became clear yesterday that a majority of the senators are in favor of shortening the Christmas recess this year. Ordinarily, they would leave December 22 and come back January 4. This time, however, it is now proposed that six days be chopped off the recess, and work be resumed December 29.

Majority Leader James E. Watson and Minority Leader Robinson both opposed the shorter recess, saying that there is not sufficient work before the Senate to justify it.

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, insisted that the recess be limited to five days, saying that Congress "is now confronted with the most tremendous task in its history."

He criticized President Hoover for not calling Congress into special session some time ago to deal with the economic situation.

Today committees in both the Senate and House will start hearings on President Hoover's proposal for a $1,000,000,000 reconstruction corporation to strengthen the country's banking system.

Shouse Assails Lucas.

Following the attack launched by Robinson and Harrison against the glorification speech of Secretary Hurley, Chairman Jouett Shouse, of the Democratic national executive committee, sharply criticized Robert H. Lucas, who holds a somewhat similar position with the Republican national organization, for a statement that "scandal books" about President Hoover bore the "earmarks of the Democratic headquarters."

In denying the charge, Mr. Shouse said that the Democratic headquarters had scrupulously avoided casting personal aspersions on the President.

"We have neither secret agents nor disguised mediums in our work," Mr. Shouse said. "That this should seem incredible to Col. Lucas, alias John M. Fetters, is not surprising. He was exposed by a committee of the Republican Senate in his undercover campaign against Senator Norris in Nebraska, both for renomination and reelection, as using forgeries, fabricated identities and invented names in his effort to prevent the return of the Republican senator."

Republicans Remain Silent.

Ordinarily a partisan political discussion in the Senate is a lively affair, with both Republicans and Democrats taking part. Yesterday, however, the Republicans who are regarded as their party's spokesmen remained silent while Robinson and Harrison laid the lash on Secretary Hurley.

Only one Republican got to his feet—tall, slow-talking Samuel Shortridge, of California.

Senator Harrison had the floor and was indulging in one of his satirical tirades when Shortridge interrupted.

"I yield to my eucalyptus friend," said Harrison.

"Perhaps," said Shortridge, "the party of which the senator is such a distinguished member would like to get rid of the chairman of its national committee."

"The distinguished gentleman and his party colleagues would not have anything to talk about if we got rid of Mr. Raskob," said Harrison.

Thinks Raskob Great Help.

"I ask the senator if he would not like to get rid of him," persisted Shortridge.

"If the senator asks me personally," replied Harrison, "I say no; that he has been a very great help to the Democratic party."

Senator Robinson emphasized his shots at President Hoover and Secretary Hurley with resounding thumps on his desk.

"The Secretary," he said, "declared that the President has sent to Congress an economic program which, if enacted, will go far toward restoring normal conditions in the United States. * * * and that no one [illegible] President is capable or has women[illegible] capacity to ameliorate will be very distressing condi- Washi[illegible] such as [illegible] apparent to one posmoving or [illegible] intelligence that for the Christm[illegible] measures can not to call upon the [illegible] publicans retain [illegible] and the [illegible] to power. President Hoover is constantly appealing for nonpartisan action. No sooner is that action obtained, however, than his spokesman, the Secretary of War, seeks to capitalize it into a glorious triumph for Hoover policies."

The only partisan measures passed since Hoover became President, the Democratic leader said, were the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill and the Federal farm act, and both of these, he added, were legislative failures.

Hailed as Republican Triumph.

In discussing Democratic cooperation with the President, Robinson described how Democrats promised to support the one-year moratorium, and then he went on to tell how he himself helped negotiate the London naval treaty, and how he later helped ratify it.

When the treaty was ratified, he said, the White House "proclaimed the treaty as the outstanding triumph of Republican skill in the conduct of foreign countries."

And now, he said, the President has selected another Democratic senator as a delegate to the Geneva arms conference—Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia.

The truth of the matter is that Senator Robinson was severely criticized by his more partisan colleagues for the cooperation he gave President Hoover. There was even talk of displacing him as minority leader.

Will Seize Upon Mistakes.

Discussing the future yesterday, Senator Robinson said:

"It is our purpose and policy, just as far as I am capable of defining it, to make every improvement possible in the measures brought forward during the present Congress, fully recognizing President Hoover's responsibility and duty to recommend and suggest, and also his power to veto. That does not mean that we shall become nonpartisan or that we shall fail to take fair advantage of the mistakes of our adversaries. * * *"

Senator Harrison, before aiming his shafts of sarcasm at Secretary Hurley, sent one in the direction of Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee.

He said Senator Fess, in his campaign to "sell" President Hoover to the electorate, was selling him "short."

"Part of the whole scheme," he said, "was that after the chairman began to sell Hoover short, then the Secretary of War, as spokesman of the administration, should come up and make this flambuoyant speech. It is unfortunate that the speech was made. Senators on the other side of the aisle deserve congratulations for the way they conducted themselves under the circumstances. There are none of the senators who tried to play politics in this great crisis of the country.

Says Tirade Unfortunate.

"It is indeed unfortunate that just as the Congress convenes and we are about to begin to legislate to help solve some of these delicate international and domestic questions that the President should select the Secretary of War as his spokesman, and that he should begin this tirade against the Democratic party and its organization leaders.

"One can see running through the speech that he is trying to revive the old campaign issue of two or three years ago, which is unworthy of any political organization — religion in politics. One can hardly hear one of these ill-advised leaders of the Republican party but what he wants to prate upon Raskob, the same character of campaign that put them into office two years ago."

Senator Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma, told Harrison that Secretary Hurley was his "intimate friend," and he reminded the Mississippi senator that Hurley "after all is an Irishman and has a sense of humor."

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, condemned President Hoover for not having called a special session to consider the economic situation.

Tax-Building Legislators May Yet Need Sympathy

By JOHN J. DALY

EVER since Aristotle elaborated upon his idea of an ideal republic, in which sovereignty is vested in the whole body of citizens and the sole end of government is the good of all, it has been generally recognized by thinking men that human happiness is the aim of human polity.

How to bring about such happiness has always been the concern of statesmen and patriots—which is one of the reasons why the American Government was set up and now functions in the City of Magnificent Distances.

It happens that such a representative government draws its lawmakers from here, there and yon. They come from all walks of life in the hamlets, the villages, the towns and even the centers of hickdom, as well as from the great cities of the country. Some of them, looking over the Federal landscape, are awed. In their confusion, they set out to do what is not to be done in any search for human happiness.

A lame duck, sooner or later, waddles back to the scenes of his activities where he hopped, skipped and jumped before lameness overtook him. Some day, one of these gentlemen who come from the by-ways back of the Main streets of the land will, perforce, as fortune always betides, walk on crutches down Pennsylvania Avenue and see for himself the results of his small-town policies.

* * * *

THE congressman, temporarily out of a job—a Federal job—usually wants to live in Washington, the Nation's Capital, where the Federal plum trees grow. Such a man will find it mighty difficult, in days to come, to live within the confines of the District when taxes have reached their apex. He will, in a word, have legislated himself out of shelter.

So the old man and his wife—the poor, deluded former legislator looking over the scenes of his former conquests—will retire to some little suburb far outside the city limits. There, away from all former associates whose company they can not keep because they can not pay as they go, the two outcasts can only sit and meditate on the follies of fallacious politics. The old lady, a gentle soul, always, will probably look at the wreck of a former piece of timber from the Ship of State and say, maybe to herself: "What a statesman you turned out to be!"

One of the brilliant elocutionists in the great Gashouse on the Hill, in defending an unwarranted tax to be heaped upon the people who are without representation, as were their former compatriots in the Colonies about the time of the Boston Tea Party, let loose this gem of profound thought:

"Well," said he, "people don't have to live in Washington if they don't like it. Let them move out if they don't approve of the way Congress runs the city."

* * * *

IT happens that most people who live in Washington do like it.

Otherwise they would not live in Washington. It is also true that all the people who live in Washington, whether they like the way Congress runs the city or whether they do not like the way Congress runs the city—if this be called running a city—are not always at liberty to move out. For a common, ordinary citizen to move out, leaving Washington, is not quite so simple as it is for a congressman to pack his bag and go back to his old home town. All a congressman need bring to Washington is an extra shirt—if he has one.

Even when the Government is rid of his services, the people will pay the congressman's way back to wherever he came from—the money for his journey coming from the pockets of the very people he helped burden with outrageous taxes. These are people, too, who believe in the fundamental idea that human happiness is the first and last aim of human polity.

MORE DISTRICT TAX BILLS PASSED IN ACTION OF HOUSE

Provisions in Bills.

1. A graduated tax on estates, ranging from 1 per cent on estates not in excess of $50,000 to 15 per cent on estates over $5,000,000. It will provide an estimated income of $750,000, and, as the Federal Government permits a credit up to 10 per cent of the Federal estate taxes, this has been held a "gift" to the District.

2. A raise in the present tax on gasoline from 2 to 4 cents, providing an estimated additional income annually of $1,500,000, all of which would go for street and highway improvement.

3. A tax on automobiles, according to weight, repealing the present personal tax on automobiles, and the current $1 registration fee. The tax, averaging $14 a car, would apply to private vehicles at the rate of 50 cents per 100 pounds. It would increase present revenues about $1,200,000.

There were two amendments to the estate tax bill, by Representative Stafford and Representative Frear. The first provided for a deduction of $2,000 from an estate transferred to "any child born in lawful wedlock," while the last provided that the highest rate be levied on "estates over $5,000,000." They were adopted.

Mr. Davis pronounced the gas tax "simple, inexpensive of administration and easy of collecting." He said it was fair, as motorists are taxed in proportion to the extent they use the highways.

Defends Tax Weight.

He used the same argument in defending the weight tax, holding that the heavier vehicles do most damage to the streets, hence should be taxed higher. Solid tired trucks are required to pay 50 per cent more than others. A scale ranging from 75 cents a hundred pounds for cars not over 1,500 pounds in weight, to $2.50 a hundred pounds, for vehicles over 12,000 pounds, is provided for taxicabs and freight trucks.

In defending his own report, Chairman Mapes denied charges that adequate hearings were not held. He said it was "easy to understand the attitude of the District," but that nevertheless "Congress can not escape its duty." He declared there was no basis for Senator Bingham's statement that the report was a "deal" to the Senate.

Representative Frear said he didn't quite know what Senator Bingham meant by calling the report a "deal," but thought he was "just trying to keep in the spotlight."

"You can always get into the papers by befriending the District," he added. Then he continued:

Calls Measure Fair.

"But nobody can satisfy these people of the District, because the Federal Treasury's here and they've got their fingers into it."

He said that if the measures reported constituted taxation without representation, the Constitution provided for it, and there was nothing Congress could do about it. He said he doubted the States would give the District the vote if they knew how it had been faring.

When Representative Burtness protested the tax on weight of automobiles, Mr. Frear intimated the committee could move to strike out provisions of the bill repealing the present registration fee and personal tax on automobiles.

About 50 members participated in the vote on the estate and gas tax bills, and hardly a score voted on the last of the measures. The ayes on the last measure were scarcely audible, but there were no noes.

Two Thieves Rob Man of $150.

More than $150 was taken from Walter Jenkins, colored, of 209 O street northwest, while he was walking on P street between Third and Fourth streets northwest, he reported to police yesterday. Jenkins said he was stopped by two colored men, one of whom had a pistol.

Bite Disturbed Peace.

Las Vegas, Nev. (U.P.).—Chris Smith, colored, was fined $20 for biting another Negro on the ear. He was charged with disturbing the peace.

NONRESIDENT TAX MEETING IS CALLED

Montgomery Civic Group to Talk Plan's Effect on Nearby States.

Residents of nearby Maryland and Virginia who work in Washington will be subject to an additional tax burden if the Mapes income tax bill for the District passed, according to Stephen James, chairman of the committee on public finance and the budget of the Montgomery County Civic Federation, who has called a meeting of the committee for this afternoon.

The Mapes bill provides that the tax on intangible personal property in the District shall be eliminated, but this will give no relief to Maryland and Virginia residents, whose State taxes will remain the same. The District income tax will apply to all salaries paid in the District, including those of Government employes, it is believed.

The meeting of Mr. James' committee will be attended by Frederic P. Lee, president of the Civic Federation, a post formerly held by Mr. James. The meeting was called after a conference between Mr. James and Mr. Lee.

The Mapes bill passed the House on Wednesday and is now before the Senate committee.

"The committee possibly may wish to come to a policy decision with respect to this legislation and seek of the Federation or of the executive committee of the Federation authority to request a hearing before the Senate District committee to which the bill has been referred," the call to the finance committee says.

"Insofar as it affects residents of the District," Mr. James said, "this legislation is in lieu of another District tax which it repeals. The Congress can not be expected to repeal the Federal income tax for residents of Maryland employed or engaged in business in the District, and it is without authority to set aside the real estate, personal property, or other levies imposed by the counties and the State of Maryland."

RILEYS MAY LEARN THEIR FATE TODAY

she was, hurting my own flesh and blood," he said.

He said Edith had acted peculiarly several years ago, and that when she had been in the custody of his mother-in-law it had been found necessary to sprinkle water on her. He said other children in the family had seen Edith regularly, that he had never knocked the children down the stairs and that regarding the testimony of Louise that he had threatened her should she ever reveal the treatment accorded Edith, it had been "quite the contrary."

He continued that Edith was never put in the closet except when it was necessary for Mrs. Riley to go to the store. He said the child was fed "cereals, milk and potatoes" and that often he fed her himself in her bedroom. When questioned concerning his reactions on seeing Edith in court the day before he said he had expected to see "a much larger girl."

Under cross-examination, when shown pictures of Edith the day she was removed to Gallinger Hospital and recent pictures, he admitted they showed "considerable improvement."

Bad Mental Condition.

In answer to Collins' question regarding his wife's mental condition, Riley said she was of a very nervous nature and when asked repeatedly to be more definite, he said that although he would not say she was "insane," she had a "bad mental condition" which "during the past two years had grown much worse."

As Riley answered in the affirmative that his children had become "obnoxious" to him, Collins closed the case with a ringing "That's all."

Ten minutes later Riley and his wife were removed by court attaches and a few minutes afterward were being led out of the courthouse through long lines of a curious throng on their way to jail.

The morning and early afternoon sessions of the court were taken up with the testimony of three doctors, a psychologist and a psychiatrist from Gallinger Hospital, who attended Edith while she was at Gallinger, and a doctor who had attended both Edith and Mrs. Riley before the child was removed from the Riley home.

Carefully Tested.

The first called in the morning was Mrs. Edith Sutherland Elmore, the psychologist, who said Edith had been carefully tested with the Stanford Revision of the Binet Scale, but that she (Mrs. Elmore) "had never seen a child of this age fail to respond as Edith did."

Mrs. Elmore, the daughter of Justice George Sutherland, of the United States Supreme Court, said it would have been possible for the child to have been mentally deficient early in life, as was claimed by the defense, and not disclose it to psychologists.

The psychiatrist, Dr. Joseph L. Gilbert, said the child had shown marked improvement during her stay at Gallinger and that he expected considerably more improvement would be shown.

"It would take at least two years more in a favorable environment, however, to bring her to a more nearly normal condition," he said.

Dr. Robert Dugan, the third doctor to take the stand, said he had treated both Edith and Mrs. Riley, and that the latter was in an extremely nervous condition, and he had prescribed a rest for her which she had not taken.

Bowman Will Suggest Welfare Board Inquiry

Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), Connecticut, who has interested himself in the Riley child, said he will suggest an investigation of the Child Welfare Bureau to Mrs. Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, chairman of the House District committee.

Mrs. Norton has called a meeting of the committee for Monday morning. She recently criticized the bureau for failing to take action after investigating the case several years ago.

Communist Candidate Serves Jail Sentence

Detroit (U.P.).—John Schmies, former Communist candidate for mayor, is serving a 60-day jail sentence for disturbing the peace.

Police arrested the ex-candidate when he led a march of unemployed on the City Hall. Schmies, 33, considers his trial and conviction a denial of the right of free speech.

she took poison at their former home, at 1421 Twelfth street northwest.

Bruckman, according to the girl's parents, has made several attempts to get her to come back to him during the four months they have been separated.

Late yesterday afternoon the girl told police, her estranged husband met her and her sister as they were leaving the Kresge Five & Ten Cent Store, where she is employed. The sister was taken home by Bruckman, and then he drove into the vacant lot at Second and I street southeast and parked, with motor running.

Bruckman is said to have renewed his pleading for his wife's return, but she steadfastly refused. Then the man started firing. Mrs. Bruckman placed the package of Christmas cards in front of her in an attempt to stop the bullets, but they tore through the cardboard into her body.

After firing four shots at her, Bruckman turned the gun on himself. Mrs. Bruckman staggered from the car and walked toward the Star garage, about 300 feet away. The husband attempted to follow her, but collapsed after walking about 100 feet.

NEW DISTRICT GROUP READY TO OPERATE

morning. Chairman Mary T. Norton (Democrat), of New Jersey, will take up first her bill for a year's moratorium on District properties advertised for sale because of delinquent taxes.

Three bills affecting the District were introduced yesterday by Senator Capper, who proposed old age pensions for the District's poor, labels to protect union products in the District, and an amendment to the zoning law designating buildings not conforming to its requirements as common nuisances, and their owners subject to $100 fine.

Under the first bill, the District Commissioners would be constituted an old-age security board to pass on applications for assistance, which, all sources of income considered, would not amount to more than $9 a week. The applicant would have to show that his oh her income did not exceed $468 a year.

SHOALS ISSUE AGAIN IS BEFORE CONGRESS

Commission Report Urging Lease Is Transmitted by Hoover.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

In a special message transmitting the recommendations of the Tri-State Commission appointed last summer, President Hoover yesterday placed the Muscle Shoals problem before Congress again.

The commission's recommendations favor private operation of both the fertilizer and power projects and call for prompt legislation to enable the President to negotiate a lease.

Under the commission's plan, the project would be devoted primarily to the quantity production of fertilizers and, second, to chemical research and experimentation under Federal auspices for the advancement of farming technique.

"It is the definite conclusion of the commission that the foregoing public benefits can best be obtained by private operation under lease contracts through competitive negotiations," the report said. There was no dissenting report.

Surplus Energy to Be Sold.

Lessors of the fertilizer plants would have first call on the power developed in the hydro-electric plants, but surplus energy might be sold at the switchboard. The President's message transmitted the report "for the information of the Congress." The White House made no recommendations of its own.

The commission stated its hearings had demonstrated that a suitable lease could be negotiated soon after the President had been vested with full authority to negotiate.

In answer to the advocates of public operation of the electric power system, the Commission's report cited that an investment of $86,000,000 would be required for transmission lines. This would bring the total Federal investment in the Muscle Shoals plant to $127,000,000. Assuming the lower interest rates the Government would pay for borrowed money, and the freedom of the Government's plant from taxation, the public operation would involve a net operating loss of $21,756,000 during the next fifteen years, even if it charged the rates now collected by the privately operated power companies.

"The Government's power plants at Muscle Shoals and the proposed Cove Creek development are not suitably located to serve as the main generating stations of an extensive independent power system," the report declared.

"The construction of such an independent system would be an economic waste, in that it would duplicate transmission facilities now ample to serve the region.

"It may be expected that the deficit from the construction and operation of such a system, which will have to be met by the Federal Treasury and by the general taxpayers, will largely exceed any savings from lower rates which may accrue to the limited local public served."

Comparison of Costs.

As a part of its report, the commission submitted a table of average receipts per kilowatt hour in various private and public plants during 1929. Here are the comparative rates:

Alabama Power Co.	1.22 cents
City of Tacoma	1.03 cents
City of Seattle	1.80 cents
City of Cleveland	2.37 cents

The last three plants are owned and operated by the municipalities. In two of them the average rate is higher than the private rate in the Muscle Shoals territory.

"Muscle Shoals: 1931," the elaborately bound brochure carrying the findings of the commission contained also the full text of President Hoover's veto message of March 3, 1931, rejecting the Norris Government-operation plan.

Following the President's recommendation in this message that Alabama and Tennessee work out their own plan for the development of the plant the two States appointed commissioners. Thereafter two representatives of the Army, which now administers the project, and Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, were appointed by President Hoover.

Aim of Research.

Owing to the rapid development of synthetic nitrate processes during the last ten years, it is no longer possible to produce such fertilizers at Muscle Shoals at a price lower than prevailing market levels. The antiquated machinery at the Government's plant might be replaced, however, to provide gradually for the production of higher concentrates than are now available. The development of such formulae would be the principal task of the projected fertilizer research laboratory. For the present, however, the productive capacity of synthetic nitrogen in private plants far exceeds consumption.

"Unlike all previous proposals for utilizing Muscle Shoals," says the report, "the plan of the commission does not include provision or recommendation for additional expenditures by the Federal Government. On the contrary, it specifies that the Government will receive a reasonable return on its war-time investment at Muscle Shoals, and that any further investments will be made by private capital.

Benefits Predicted.

"The commission believes that this is the only way in which industry can be established, not at Muscle Shoals alone, but also at other power-production points along the river. The release of individual initiative, denied to the people of the valley for almost a generation, will be reflected in business and public welfare."

The Norris public ownership bill was reintroduced in the House this week by Chairman Quinn (Democrat), Mississippi, of the House committee on military affairs. Yesterday Representative Lovette (Republican), of Tennessee, introduced a bill asking for $40,000,000 for the construction of Cove Creek Dam, a project rejected by the Army's technical adviser to the commission.

In the Senate, Senator Kean (Republican), New Jersey, presented a bill to transfer ownership of the entire Muscle Shoals plant to the States of Tennessee and Alabama.

No plans yet have been made to take up the Muscle Shoals bills in either house.

FOREIGN LOANS QUIZ TO BE OPENED TODAY

Lamont Will Appear First Before Senate Group; Others Called.

(United Press.)

Twenty-five of the largest security companies and banks of the country are being called in the Senate's investigation of international loans and foreign bond issues.

The list, which Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), California, has submitted to Chairman Reed Smoot of the Senate finance committee for the inquiry opening today, was obtained last night by the United Press.

Johnson and the investigating committee want to find how many foreign loans were handled by these banks, how much commission was made, and how much of the loans have been passed on to small banks and private investors.

The list includes the following New York institutions:

Morgan & Co.; Equitable Trust; Guaranty Trust; Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; Ames, Emerich; Harris, Forbes; Blythe, Witter; Brown Bros. & Co.; E. H. Rollins; J. & W. Seligman; Blair; F. J. Lisman; Chase Securities Corporation; National City Bank; Dillon, Read; Halsey Stuart; Howe, Snow & Bertles; W. A. Harriman, Potter; P. W. Chapman; Lehman Bros. and Field, Glore.

Lamont to Appear First.

The committee also is preparing to call two firms from Chicago—Becker and Brokaw—and Lee, Higginson & Co., from Boston.

First on the stand today will be Thomas W. Lamont, of Morgan & Co., and Charles E. Mitchell, of the National City Bank, two of the most prominent figures in Wall street.

It is understood they are prepared to furnish the committee with a resume of their activities in foreign loans. But they are not prepared to go into their present individual holdings, according to private information in senatorial circles. Some of their friends take the ground it would be revealing business secrets to make public what the committee wants to know—the inner handling of upward of $17,000,000,000 of foreign bonds and securities.

German Loan Bankers.

The Johnson list of witnesses relates solely to handlers of German loans. It does not include loans to other allied countries or to South America, although the power of the investigating committee is broad enough to go into that subject later.

The investigation is to be conducted by the full Senate finance committee with Johnson sitting on the sidelines. He has turned over his material to Senators Robert M. La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin; James Couzens (Republican), Michigan, and Walter F. George (Democrat), Georgia, who are members of the committee. They are expected to take charge of the investigation.

If the bankers carry out their reported plan of refusing to answer, the investigation may be stumped at the outset. While there is much information to be developed concerning the handling of former loans, the main purpose of the inquiry is to develop profits of the bankers from the enterprise.

Blanton and LaGuardia Seek Pay for Job Losers

Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, and Representative Fiorella H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, who Wednesday shook hands in a pledge to oppose pay cuts, joined forces again yesterday to get a full month's pay for House employes losing out because of the shift in party control.

"I will work on this side, and you work over there," Representative LaGuardia shouted to Mr. Blanton after the latter declared he did not know of any private employer who would dismiss a man without giving him two weeks' pay.

Mr. Blanton said he didn't want their Christmas to be spoiled.

Mr. LaGuardia retorted, "If you were so sympathetic, what did you fire them for?"

Employes of the House of Representatives this year will not have an extra pay check to spend before Christmas, due to the turnover in the personnel incident to the organization of the House by the Democrats.

For the last several years it has been the practice to give the 400 employes, about five days before Christmas, their pay checks which would be due at the end of the month. But the many shifts which have been made in clerks, secretaries, elevator operators, telephone operators, and others has precluded the practice this year.

Representative Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, chairman of the appropriations committee, said that it would be physically impossible to get all the pay-roll changes fixed up in time to pay House employes in advance of the regular pay day, at the end of the month.

Lee and Meyer Renamed to I.C.C.

Veteran and Recent Comer to Group Renominated by Executive.

(Associated Press.)

A veteran and a comparative newcomer yesterday were renominated by President Hoover to their places on the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Balthasar H. Meyer, a recognized world authority on railroad transportation, has served 21 years on the commission. William E. Lee was first appointed last year to fill the unexpired term of J. B. Campbell, who resigned.

Meyer is a Wisconsin Republican. Tall and very erect, with a sharp-pointed beard, he is almost as well known as an author about railroad problems as commissioner. He was first appointed to the commission by President Taft and was reappointed by Presidents Wilson and Coolidge for seven-year terms.

Lee is a native of North Carolina, but was appointed to the commission from Idaho, as a Republican member. At that time he was a member of the Idaho Supreme Court.

Year's Salary Asked For Caraway's Widow

(Associated Press.)

No variation in the custom of paying a senator's widow a year's salary is planned for Mrs. Hattie Caraway, of Arkansas, who succeeded her husband. The President yesterday submitted to the House a supplemental estimate of appropriations, asking $10,000 for Mrs. Caraway and $10,000 for Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, widow of Senator Morrow, of New Jersey.

The two items were contained in a request for $200,000 additional Senate appropriation which also included $125,000 for expenses of inquiries and investigations ordered by the Senate and a miscellaneous item of $75,000.

Shearer's Income Is Probed by U. S.

Internal Revenue Bureau Curious About Funds He Received.

(Associated Press.)

Government scrutiny turned again yesterday to the affairs of William B. Shearer whose activities at the Geneva tripower naval conference of 1927 brought a Senate investigation.

This time it was the Bureau of Internal Revenue that became inquisitive. Its special agents were checking up on Shearer's income of 1928 and 1929.

The bureau's Boston office was understood to have launched the investigation which involved the making of photostatic copies of checks made out to Shearer and now in possession of the Senate naval committee.

During the Senate investigation two years ago, Shearer testified under questioning by Henry Allen, then a Republican senator from Kansas, that he had not filed an income tax return. Contending the money received had all been eaten up by expenses, he said he did not suppose he was required to make a return.

Further Gain in Deficit Reported by Treasury

(Associated Press.)

Another rise in the Treasury's growing deficit yesterday set congressional leaders to figuring anew on the tax increase program. The Treasury reported its deficit at past the billion-dollar mark—$1,252,631,150—on December 15. With the Government's fiscal year not quite half gone, indications are for a gap of more than $2,000,000,000 between receipts and expenditures by next July 1.

Administration spokesmen believed this showed the necessity for Secretary Mellon's recommendation to make the higher income rates applicable on this year's income on which taxes will be paid beginning next March 15. Democrats, however, are still shying from this proposal.

HOUSE WAYS AND MEANS BODY FAVORS HOOVER MORATORIUM

point. He obtained the permission to question the witness after a brusque observation from Representative Treadway, Massachusetts Republican, on such procedure.

Mr. Rankin wanted to know whether Morgan & Co. would not have made the payments simply on the notice of a telephone call even though the necessary cash was not at hand. Mr. Davidson seemed to nod in assent, but hastily added: "Assuming we had the money."

Committee Upholds Banker.

When Mr. Rankin persisted, the New York banker appealed to the committee.

"I came here to answer one question and answered it," he said. "I came on short notice and am not prepared to enter a discussion of this question."

His objection was upheld after committee members discussed the ethics of forcing secrets between a banker and his clients into the open.

While the committee labored all day, Mr. McFadden, who has been censured by his own State colleagues, attacked in the House in vitriolic language and denied by his party the customary political privilege of naming postmasters in his district, carried his attack on debt postponement another step.

He proposed an investigation by the banking committee, over which he presided for ten years, into activities of the Federal Reserve System, its relation to foreign banks and capital and open-market operations. Simultaneously the Pennsylvanian issued another broadside against the moratorium.

Declares Charges Supported.

"I desire to call attention to the fact that the Young plan committee in session at Basel, studying Germany's capacity to pay, has made a report to the effect that Berlin can pay all the annuities under the Young plan," he said. "This information is of the greatest importance in supporting charges I have made as regards the part the German-American and their associated banks and bankers have taken in bringing about the Hoover moratorium.

"It is now apparent, because of this disclosure of Germany's capacity to pay, that there was a deliberate attempt to conceal the correct amount of their reserve and short-time acceptance debts. This report * * * is confirmation of the reason why Germany did not proceed under the Young plan and use this machinery, which was created under the law, to secure her moratorium."

Mentioning by name Albert Wiggin, of the Chase National Bank, and F. A. Goodhue, of the International Acceptance Bank, "owned and controlled by Paul Warburg," Mr. McFadden said:

"It ought to be clear to any one that the New York international bankers, fearing loss of these private debts, were extremely anxious to secure priority, and just as willing and insistent to see that reparation payments were reduced or canceled."

International Bankers Active.

Mr. McFadden, who yesterday charged Government officials with playing dual roles in publicly opposing cancellation and privately cooperating to that end, added:

"It is a well known fact that the international bankers were very active in conferring with important Government officials, particularly officials of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, at or about the time of the declaration of the moratorium."

With committee action, Chairman Collier began immediate preparation of his report recommending approval of the moratorium. The four Democratic dissenters began preparing a minority report.

Secretary Simson and Undersecretary Mills were present during the committee's private discussion. Mr. Collier declined to say what part they had in the deliberations.

The Senate finance committee today will begin an investigation of the extent of American purchases of foreign government bonds and industrial securities. This inquiry was requested by Senator Johnson (Republican), California, an opponent of the moratorium.

$200,000,000 BONUS LOAN PASSES HOUSE

Christmas Spirit Invoked as Resolution Is Adopted to Aid Veterans.

(Associated Press.)

The Christmas spirit was invoked successfully in the House yesterday to obtain approval of a $200,000,000 appropriation for loans on veterans' bonus certificates.

Chairman Byrns of the appropriations committee explained that immediate action was desired so that the Veterans' Administration could accommodate former service men who wanted the bonus to fill their Christmas stockings.

The resolution was adopted unanimously and sent to the Senate. It will bring the total amount appropriated for loans under the 50 per cent valuation of $1,710,000,000 on the certificates to $1,352,000,000. Already $1,153,000,000 has been loaned to the 3,500,000 veterans holding bonus certificates, exhausting the bureau's reserve. This does not include $75,000,000 loaned by private banks to veterans.

First Democratic Funds Bill.

The measure was the first passed by the Democratic House calling for money from the Treasury. It also was the first presented by the new Democratic chairmen of the committee.

At committee hearings, Veterans' Administrator Hines said the $200,000,000 should last until June 30. But, he added, "We anticipate that if present conditions are maintained, there will be a greater demand for loans."

Up to November 30, Gen. Hines said, 72.7 per cent of the veterans negotiated loans. Of that number, he said, 65 per cent did not waste their money; 20 per cent used it for investment purposes; 8 per cent for automobiles, and 7 per cent received no benefit.

Small Number Wasted Money.

"It is surprising to find that only 7 per cent are supposed to have wasted their money," Gen. Hines said. "There was a feeling that a great deal of it would be wasted."

Gen. Hines testified that the 50 per cent bonus law was not responsible for the Treasury deficit.

Yesterday he told President Hoover he was asking Congress for authority to let contracts for soldiers' homes and hospitals totaling $19,275,000 for which money has not yet been appropriated.

He said all the projects involved have been authorized, but specific permission was necessary to let the contracts so that work could be begun or continued without interruption.

Philadelphia Marchers Are Due to Arrive Today

Another crew of "bonus marchers" was scheduled to descend on the Capital this afternoon. The commander of the latest outfit, John Alferi, of Philadelphia, where all of the marchers started, reached Washington last night to prepare things for them. He said he would see Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford about a possible parade and would arrange for their presentation of a plea for immediate payment of the bonus and repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the White House and Congress.

The marchers' ranks have become somewhat depleted since they left Philadelphia. Only 24 will be in the party reaching Washington out of the 100 who started from Philadelphia last Monday. William O'Brien, William Grushell and Harry Raines will form a committee with Alferi to present the bonus plea.

BOOST IN GERMAN BUDGET REVEALED

perts agreed that Germany was right in attaching importance to providing without delay for the reduction of floating debt caused by past budgetary deficits, despite the heavy burden this imposes during the period of crisis. The communique confirmed previous reports that another subcommittee, headed by Maurice Frere, of Belgium, had found it impossible to determine the exact total of German holdings abroad.

"The subcommittee refrained," the statement said, "from setting the total of holdings abroad but indicated that $2,100,000,000, as of July 31, 1931, was a reasonable figure.

"But this takes no account of the considerable foreign holdings resulting from the flight of capital for which it is impossible to set a figure."

Paris, Dec. 17 (U.P.)—The French and British governments brought the most vital point of the international debts controversy to a head tonight when Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, British deputy controller of finance, arrived for informal discussion of conflicting viewpoints.

Earlier a British memorandum had been received at the foreign office emphasizing the London government's contention that private debts owed by Germany must be given priority over political debts (reparations) which the Reich is pledged to pay.

France, which has little at stake in German private debts as compared to the huge sums invested by British and United States bankers, insists that reparations must be given first claim. It is generally conceded that Germany can not pay both, and it remains to be decided whether she can pay the total of either reparations or private debts.

The British note, which was a reply to a recent French memorandum on reparations, was not made public, but it was made known that it said details of the projected January debts conference can not be settled until the Young plan advisory committee at Basel reports on Germany's capacity to pay. The British government made no specific answer to points raised in the French communication.

One of the most difficult problems admittedly will concern participation of the United States in the international conference and Leith-Ross is expected to discuss that question thoroughly with the French government leaders. They will go into the problem of framing an agenda which will obtain official participation by the American Government.

CONGRESS TO SPEED HOOVER FINANCE BILL

Democratic House Leaders Promise to Consider It on Its Merits.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Quick action on President Hoover's proposed reconstruction corporation was promised in the House and Senate yesterday, with Democratic House leaders adding to their promise of speed the pledge that the proposal should be considered on its merits and not be intefered with by party politics.

The measure will be the third important matter given emergency status by the House Democrats. The ways and means committee last night reported the moratorium approval resolution, and the banking and currency committee earlier reported favorably the bill providing for a $100,000,000 revolving fund for the Federal farm loan banks.

The first of these will be brought up in the House today and passed before adjournment tomorrow, and the second may be taken up Monday. Just how soon the reconstruction corporation measure will get the floor remains to be seen. But both House and Senate committees have announced their purpose to begin hearings immediately.

Will Not Be Too Hasty.

A conference between Representative Bertrand H. Snell (Republican), of New York, Republican leader, and Representative Henry B. Steagall (Democrat), of Alabama, chairman of the banking and currency committee, disclosed the purpose of the Democratic majority not to be too hasty in giving approval to measures introduced by Republicans as necessary to carry out the President's proposals.

Mr. Snell asked when the committee was going to take up the reconstruction corporation proposal of the President and Mr. Steagall replied that the committee did not have before it any proposal to create an organization similar to the War Finance Corporation. The only measure before the committee along that line, Mr. Steagall said, was one which proposed to take in much more territory than to revive, with necessary modifications, the War Finance Corporation He was referring to the Strong bill, introduced to carry out the President's recommendation. The bill, Mr. Steagall said, proposed to create a reconstruction corporation of much greater extent than the War Finance Corporation. But, he added, it was the purpose of the committee to set immediately to work to draft a measure which would be reported to the House soon.

In the Senate, still under Republican control, the old machinery functioned a little better from the administration viewpoint. Senator James E. Watson (Republican), of Indiana, party leader, declared his purpose to see that the reconstruction corporation legislation was expedited in committee and on the Senate floor.

Introduced by Walcott.

The bill, to be considered by the Senate banking subcommittee at hearings which begin this morning, is that which was introduced by Senator Frederic C. Walcott (Republican), of Connecticut, a friend of the President. His bill has been numbered one in the official listing of the Senate.

Senator Peter Norbeck (Republican), of South Dakota, is chairman of the banking committee to whom Senator Watson confided the President's desire to rush action on the reconstruction corporation measure and, as a result of the conferences, it is thought a measure will be favorably reported soon after Congress reconvenes after the Christmas recess. Other matters would occupy the attention of the Senate between now and Christmas even if a reconstruction corporation measure could be rushed through.

The United States Chamber of Commerce added several recommendations to the growing list of panaceas for relief from the business depression. The chamber proposed, among things:

That there be set up a Government tribunal, or a series, to pass on agreements in industry to curtail production when overproduction was found to be injurious to the public interest.

The chamber also proposed modification of the antitrust laws; establishment of an economic council by industry; a private system of unemployment benefits, and some other things not so concretely expressed.

Hoover Studying Arms Delegation

Swanson Already Picked for Parley; Stimson Choice in Doubt.

(Associated Press.)

A rapidly narrowing list of names from which will be chosen America's delegation to the General Disarmament Conference was before President Hoover last night for his final selections.

The Chief Executive has definitely selected Senator Swanson, Virginia, a Democrat, for a post on the commission. Hugh S. Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, and Hugh R. Wilson, Minister to Switzerland, both likely delegates, are in Europe.

The question of whether Secretary Stimson would head the delegation was still in doubt. As recently as yesterday the Secretary told friends he did not expect to go to Geneva. Other possible delegates who have been mentioned included Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, and Henry P. Fletcher, former diplomat.

Norris Tells Leaders Senate Committee Will Consider Ideas on Amendment.

(Associated Press.)

Assurance that antiprohibitionists would get a chance to put their ideas before a Senate committee was given yesterday by Senator Norris.

The chairman of the Senate judiciary committee said he would arrange hearings promptly on resolutions for amendments to the Constitution and informed Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, that his bill providing for a referendum would be considered soon by a subcommittee.

Meanwhile, Representative Sirovich (Democrat), New York, pressed before the House rules committee his resolution for an investigation of prohibition administration in Greater New York by a special House committee. He told the rules committee he knew of "terrible corruption" in the New York prohibition forces.

Some of the committee members, he said, suggested the investigation be broadened to include districts at Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. Representative Sirovich opposed that because "it would take too long, and because it would seem I was trying to attack prohibition."

In another Capitol office a group of Democrats and Republicans for more than an hour tried to get together to work for a change in prohibition.

Five members of the newly organized "Republican reform" bloc presented their ideas to Representative Linthicum (Democrat), Maryland, who was chairman of the former nonpartisan antiprohibition House organization.

They suggested the Democrats form an organization of their own, and that the two parties work together through an executive or steering committee.

Representative O'Connor (Democrat), New York, accused Republicans of "trying to make it appear that we Democrats have not been working against prohibition."

An Illinois Republican, Representative Britten, replied that little had been achieved in the past by a wet bloc under Democratic leadership.

It finally was agreed, however, that Linthicum would call a meeting of antiprohibition Democrats, probably today, to see if a new organization would cooperate with Republicans. Lithicum said "there was assurance by men of both parties of harmony in effecting the common object."

STIMSON'S FAR EAST WORK TO BE STUDIED

Senate Decides to Call for Papers; Chinese Troops Fire on Students.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Stimson's efforts to bring peace in Manchuria won some Democratic praise yesterday as the Senate called upon the Secretary of State to submit all diplomatic correspondence on the Far Eastern war crisis.

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, praised the Secretary in seeking to have the Senate modify its request for the papers with a phrase of "if not incompatible with the public interest."

However, the Senate adopted the resolution of Senator Johnson, (Republican), California, in its original form after Johnson explained that if the Secretary felt he could not give up some papers because of public interest he had the power to refuse them to the Senate.

The Johnson resolution, approved without a record vote, asked particularly for any messages sent to the American representatives who dealt with the Council of the League of Nations on the Sino-Japanese disturbance.

Johnson Condemns Move.

The Californian has condemned that move as drawing the United States into the league.

President Hoover last year declined to give out for publication notes transmitted in negotiating the London Naval Treaty.

There was no intimation last night from the State Department of its attitude. Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, said if the Secretary wished to be heard he would be welcome.

Chinese troops fired on rioting university students who wrecked a newspaper plant and Kuomintang (Nationalist) headquarters at Nanking yesterday.

The students cleared away their own wounded and it was impossible to determine how many had fallen.

The students, protesting against what they called China's weak policy against Japan, had the city in turmoil almost all day.

The demonstration took place as southern Nationalist leaders arrived in Nanking to set up a new and stronger government.

Predicts Stiffer Policy.

Sun Fo, son of China's first president and one of the principal members of the southern group, declared the new administration would inaugurate a stiffer policy in connection with Manchurian affairs and would "exert every effort to recover our lost rights and lost territory."

Japanese civilian authorities in Mukden said prospects for a bloodless settlement of the controversy over Chinchow were increasing.

Both civilian and military officials reiterated that the Chinese Government and Army must be removed from Chinchow, but it was held that force might not be necessary to bring about the evacuation.

In Tokyo the cabinet authorized the sending of another mixed brigade to Manchuria after receiving reports that not one carload of Chinese troops had left Chinchow for home.

Discount Resignation.

Some Japanese commentators said there was little significance in the resignation of Chang Hsueh-Liang from the post of Chinese military commander in Manchuria. They asserted he still intended to wield power.

Peiping, China, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Chang Tso-Hsiang, former Governor of the Province of Kirin, succeeded today to the post of commander of the Chinese forces in Manchuria, replacing Chang Hsueh-Liang, who resigned.

Chang Tso-Hsiang has served in the army of Chang Hsueh-Liang for some time. The retiring commander was offered the place of Military Commissioner in North Manchuria, but he suggested that a council be formed to control that area, with himself as chairman.

BLINDING MENACES KIDNAPED WOMAN

James E. Taylor, law associate of Reed. The handwriting was identified as that of Mrs. Donnelly.

One of them scribbled with a pencil said approximately:

"Dear Paul: These men kidnaped me at 6 o'clock last night with the chauffeur. They want $75,000—$25,000 in $20 bills, $25,000 in tens and $25,000 in fifties.

"The car is behind the Plaza Theater. Its number is 291,035.

"Drive in front of the Mercer Hotel at 10 o'clock and stand around 15 minutes. Stand up in the car. Then go home and wait for instructions. If you do not come you will never see me again. If you do not go at 10 o'clock, go Friday morning at 9:15 and stay 15 minutes.

"If you refuse to pay I will be blinded and the Negro killed. You will be told where to take the money. They want money, and you might as well give it to them.

"NELLY DONNELLY."

Underneath had been written, "do not have the money marked in any way." It had been erased but was decipherable through the erasure.

Auto Found as Foretold.

The other note was in ink and the handwriting was identified as undeniably Mrs. Donnelly's. It said:

"James E. Taylor:

"I hereby give you power to draw the money required against my husband's account to the amount of $75,000. I sign my name in full.

"NELLY DONNELLY."

The automobile was found at the place described in Mrs. Donnelly's note. In it were found the hat she wore when she disappeared en route home from her factory, a block of blank check vouchers, and a small coil of rope. There appeared to be a bloody smear on one of the checks.

An ambition to be different and a flair for costume design paved Mrs. Donnelly's way from simple housewifery to the management of one of the Nation's outstanding garment factories and political prominence in Missouri.

A group remained at the Donnelly home tonight with the expectation that a further communication would be received from the abductors.

In the absence of further word, Mr. Donnelly said he intended to carry out the instructions in the letter from his wife, and drive in front of the designated hotel tomorrow morning in an effort to communicate with her captors.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 138

THESE young men, many of whom were destined to become prominent in Washington affairs, constituted the press committee, which handled publicity for the fifteenth international Christian Endeavor convention, held here July 8 to 13, 1896. The messengers in the front row are, left to right, Karl Fenning, patent attorney; Chester Morrill, counsel for the Federal Farm Board; Orville B. Drown and Routt Reigart. Seated are George R. Linkins, Herman C. Metcalf, Fred Hoskins, John B. Sleman, chairman of the committee and later general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and founder of the layman's missionary movement; Ben T. Webster, vice president of the Board of Trade; Charles Linkins and James C. Adkins. Standing, left to right, John C. C. Patterson, Paul Sleman, D. Fulton Harris, Fred A. Fenning, former District Commissioner, and James C. Adkins, justice of the District Supreme Court.

ATTACK UPON CAMERAMAN IS DENOUNCED BY RITCHIE

taking outside the building was ever given to the policemen, he said.

Brown and Slater prevented cameramen from taking pictures of Federal prisoners who were witnesses in the Bladensburg roadhouse shooting. While doing this, Thomas McAvoy, of the Daily News, was struck with a blackjack by Slater. McAvoy was later charged with assault on Slater and disorderly conduct, but these charges were dismissed after a trial before Judge J. Chew Sheriff. Brown seized a camera from The Post photographer.

Speakers at Mass Meeting.

The mass meeting tonight will be held in the Hyattsville Armory, with Edwin Bolte as chairman. County Commissioners Ormond W. Phair and Robert E. Brown have agreed to speak, and Mr. Lillard will apologize to the press on behalf of the county. Mr. Lillard, a local attorney, is president of the Prince Georges County Taxpayers' Association.

Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, a resident of Hyattsville, will speak on "Clean Local Government." Stephen W. Gambrill, representative of the district, and William L. Henderson, assistant attorney general of Maryland, have also been invited and may be present.

Just two weeks ago tonight the assault on the cameraman occurred, and the inquest which started it will be resumed tonight in the Bladensburg firehouse. For this reason, Alan Bowie, State's attorney in the county, will not be present at the mass meeting, as he must attend the inquest. It is expected that a resolution condemning the county force will be passed tonight. A committee to present the resolution to the governor will also be appointed.

Meanwhile a hearing on the extradition proceedings against Peter Abbott was held yesterday in Harrisburg, Pa., but no decision was rendered. Whether or not Abbott will be returned to Maryland to face charges that he shot Grover Amick will be announced today by the Pennsylvania authorities. Amick was killed during a holdup of the roadhouse, and it was after the inquest into his death that the slugging of the photographer occurred.

Text of Ritchie's Letter.

Gov. Ritchie's letter, addressed to Walter M. Grimes, president of the board of commissioners, follows:

"In response to complaints against County Officer Howard Slater and County Officer Ralph Brown in connection with the blackjacking of Thomas P. McAvoy, a photographer of one of the Washington newspapers, after the coroner's inquest in Bladensburg on December 4 last, I requested the attorney general to be represented at the hearing of the charges preferred against Mr. McAvoy for disorderly conduct and assaulting an officer.

"This hearing was held in Hyattsville before Police Justice J. Chew Sheriff on December 9 last, and Assistant Attorney General Henderson represented the attorney general.

"I have received the report of Attorney General Lane on the case. It discloses conduct on the part of County Officers Slater and Brown which appears to have been inexcusable and to show their unfitness for the responsible positions they hold. If they were employes of the State I would direct that steps be taken at once looking to their dismissal from the State service. They are not in the State service, however, but are in the county service, and the governor of the State has no jurisdiction over them.

"Accordingly, I enclose you, as president of the board, a copy of the attorney general's report to me, with the confident hope that the county commissioners will not countenance conduct of this kind on the part of their appointive officers, but will administer prompt and adequate punishment."

Maj. Lane's Report.

Maj. Lane's report, based on testimony given at McAvoy's trial, said, in substance:

"Officer Ralph Brown testified that he asked one of the United States marshals whether any picture-taking was to be permitted outside of the building and that the marshal told him no pictures were to be permitted; that he and the other officers undertook to carry out this order, although he admitted that he had received no such order from his superior officer or from the coroner or State's attorney, who were inside the building. He further stated that he ordered McAvoy not to take any pictures or he would hit him with his blackjack, and further stated that he was sorry he had not struck him, but that his attention had been diverted to other members of the newspaper party. Incidentally, it was this officer who took a camera away from one of the other newspapermen connected with The Washington Post, and this camera was not returned until several days later.

"The testimony showed that Officer Howard Slater warned McAvoy that he would strike him if he attempted to take a picture, and backed McAvoy about 30 feet away from the entrance. As the cars started away from the entrance, McAvoy attempted to avoid Officer Slater to take a picture, in defiance of this order, and was thereupon struck by the officer with a blackjack, and his scalp severely lacerated, necessitating two stitches. Several of the officers understood to say that McAvoy had attempted to strike the officer with his flashlight and had then dropped the flashlight and struck the officer in the mouth before he was struck by the officer. This statement was denied by numerous witnesses.

Antipicture Order Denied.

"A deputy U. S. marshal testified that he escorted the prisoners out of the building in company with Marshal Collier, and three other deputies, and that he gave no order with reference to picture taking, nor did the marshal or any of the other deputies give such an order. While it is conceivable that the local officers may have received an order from one of the other deputies, or that they may have misunderstood the scope of the coroner's original order, it is my belief that no order with reference to taking pictures outside the building was ever given by any one, and that the action of the police officers was entirely officious.

"I further feel that the officer was not justified in striking McAvoy under the circumstances. It was stated, without contradiction, that when McAvoy asked by what authority he was forbidden to take a photograph on the public highway, Officer Slater brandished his blackjack, and did not at that time refer to the statement now attributed to the deputy United States marshal. It was admitted that McAvoy was not placed under arrest until after he was struck and knocked down in the gutter. There was also testimony that the officer deliberately stamped upon and broke up his camera.

"Under the facts as developed in this case, I would unhesitatingly recommend that you request the county commissioners of Prince Georges County to take disciplinary measures against Officers Brown and Slater. I personally am inclined to think that they should both be dismissed from the force."

Fairbanks Sails From France.

Paris, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Douglas Fairbanks today gave up his plan to visit China and sailed for home. He plans to take an airplane from New York and fly to Hollywood to spend Christmas with his wife, Mary Pickford.

Board to Get Plans On Calvert Bridge

Commission Will Study a Proposed New Span at Meeting Today.

Plans and sketches of the proposed new Calvert street bridge for which $40,000 has been asked in the 1933 budget to draft specifications, will be submitted to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission today at the opening of its two-day meeting. Maj. D. A. Davison, acting District Engineer Commissioner, will explain the design.

The Washington Gas Light Co. will present its plan for the erection of a huge gas tank in the Northeast section in the vicinity of Fort Totten. Residents of this section have protested against the location of the tanks at this place.

Other business scheduled for the meeting includes discussion of plans for a circle at Massachusetts and Western avenues, a report on the progress of the plans for the new road from Mount Vernon to Woodlawn, Va., and further land-purchasing agreements with the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

FRANCE ABROGATES TREATY WITH ITALY

Notice of Commercial Pact's Termination Given Rome; New One Planned.

Rome, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The French government broke off the Franco-Italian commercial treaty of 1922 in a formal notification announced here today.

Both governments are agreed that a new treaty is desirable, and intend to begin negotiations for it immediately.

They hope to have the new treaty prepared before the actual termination of the present pact on a date which was not announced in the brief official statement here. Reunciation of the present agreement was thought here to have been prompted by a desire of France to protect itself against the slight depreciation of the lira and to obtain better terms.

Operation of the treaty has resulted in a favorable balance of trade for France. The French have been regarded here as anxious to increase this favorable balance. France also is understood to fear that Italy would profit under the existing treaty by the depreciation of the lira, which in relation to the franc has been running 3 to 4 per cent.

Italian imports from France for the year 1930 amounted to $75,227,000, as compared with exports to France of $61,706,000.

France is the second nation to break off its commercial treaty with Italy, Spain having filed a three months' notice with the Italian government at the end of November for termination of its treaty and the formation of a new one, negotiations for which are now proceeding.

Revision of the Italo-German treaty also has been proposed. German and Italian experts are in conference here with that in view, although neither side has renounced the pact.

Browning Exonerated By Dance Hall Hostess

New York, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—A dance hall hostess and a wealthy real estate man, slightly bald, took the witness stand today for the defense in Mrs. Frances (Peaches) Browning's divorce suit and denied having had other than proper relationship.

The young woman, Marion Jenis, 23, said she and Edward (Daddy) Browning talked about the value of eating lettuce, about books and about "dialectics" when they went riding in his limousine.

Robbers Set 2 Fires Then Raid Elks Club

Perry, Iowa, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Setting two fires to keep officers busy three heavily armed men today held up the Elks Club and escaped with $1,500 they stole from about 20 members.

One of the robbers was armed with a sawed-off shotgun and another with two revolvers. The third man lined the members against one wall and robbed each in turn. All were masked.

THREE ARMY FLIERS KILLED IN AIR CRASH

Planes Collide in Midair During Mimic Warfare at Field in Michigan.

New Baltimore, Mich., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Mimic warfare by eight Army airplanes from Selfridge Field, Mich., resulted in the death of three fliers near here today, as two of the planes collided in midair and crashed in a field.

Second Lieut. Lawrence W. Koons, 26, Bloomington, Ill., and Second Lieut. Charles W. Wilson, 22, Air Corps Reserve, Ann Arbor, Mich., pilots of the two planes, were unable to free themselves from their ships and crashed to death. Sergt. Walter Lauver, 26, Big Cove, Pa., attempted a parachute leap at a height of 50 feet. His body was found 200 yards from one of the wrecked planes, the parachute half opened.

Neither plane caught fire.

The planes were part of a group engaged in combat drill near Selfridge Field. Sergt. Lauver and Lieut. Koons were flying beneath the central formation. The crash occurred when Koons' plane nosed up, striking the single-seater ship piloted by Lieut. Wilson.

Both planes went into side-slips after the collision, and the pilots apparently had no chance to use their parachutes. The planes fell in adjoining fields, 300 yards apart. Both pilots were found dead in the wreckage.

Lieut. Koons was a regular pilot attached to the pursuit group at Selfridge, while Sergt. Lauver was training as an observer. Lieut. Wilson, a reserve officer, was drilling with the Selfridge squadron. All were attached to the Seventeenth Pursuit Group. The scene of the accident is 2 miles southeast of Selfridge Field.

Woman's Will Names Episcopal Foundation

New York, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Charity is the chief beneficiary of the estate of Miss Maud Aguilar Leland, of Park avenue, who died, December 4, her will filed today disclosed.

After making a number of bequests, the residue of the estate, valued in the papers at "more than $10,000," is to be used in the establishing of a fund, the income of which is to go to the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation of Washington, D. C., and to several charitable institutions in New York City.

7 Oil Companies Sued for $575,000.

Austin, Tex., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Suit against seven oil companies seeking recovery of $575,000 on behalf of the permanent fund of the University of Texas was filed in State District Court today by Attorney General James V. Allred. The petition alleged the amount is due on royalties from oil from university lands in west Texas.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO BE PARTY GUESTS

Kiwanis Club Plans Fete at Boys Club for Sunday Afternoon.

Arrangements for a Christmas party for crippled children to take place at 2:30 o'clock Sunday at the Boys' Club, Third and C streets northwest, were completed yesterday by the Kiwanis Club at a luncheon at the Washington Hotel.

All Kiwanians were asked by Col. Claude D. Jones, chairman of the party, to assist in transporting the children to the club. Features of the party will be a Santa Claus, music from the Boys Band of the National Training School for Boys, stunts by members of the Boys' Club, Christmas stories, carols, dances, songs and recitations.

At the luncheon yesterday, Union Mission and Salvation Army day was celebrated. Entertainment was given by Homer Rodeheaver, former musical director for Billy Sunday, who was introduced by John S. Bennett, superintendent of the Union Mission. Maj. James Asher, of the Salvation Army, also took part in the program. Songs, accompanied by guitar and mandolin, were presented by Capt. Ruth Gibbs, Capt. Lenore McMullen and Ensigns Luella Knox and Harriett Core, of the Salvation Army.

Capt. Douglas Eldrige, of the Salvation Army, presented a display of scout handicraft of the Georgetown Troop No. 4, of the Life Saving Scouts of America. Two of these scouts will appear as Indians at the Christmas party Sunday. The following, besides Col. Jones, are in charge of the party:

Edwin S. LaFetra, secretary; Alvin W. Hall, finances and ushering; Bill Scafer, gifts; John G. Scharf, transportation; A. Bargar Smith, hall and refreshments; John Bennett, Santa Claus, and C. Ralph Barker, Allen B. McDaniel, John F. Myers, Charles F. Riodon, William R. Weaver, Cleland McDevitt, Gen. Pelham D. Glassford.

Contributions have been made for the party by Mark Lansburgh, of Lansburgh & Bros.; Redford Moses, of W. B. Moses & Sons; P. D. Morrison, of P. D. Morrison Stationery Co.; John F. Myers, Christmas decorations; Mr. Jones, Christmas tree and boys' band; Supt. Fife, Boys Club, for Boys Club entertainers and donations of hall; Mrs. William F. Raymond, for Christmas skit, Renshaw School of Expression; Miss Drake, of the Weightman School; Gen. Glassford, for cooperation of the police department, and Kiwanian; Charles W. Pimper, for valuable assistance to the committee.

Mrs. Hoover Will Play Lady Bountiful Again

Mrs. Herbert Hoover will play the role of Lady Bountiful for the third consecutive year at the Salvation Army party Christmas Eve, at 2:30 p. m., at Temple Corps, 614 E street northwest, it is announced by Maj. James Asher, commanding officer of the District of Columbia division of the Salvation Army.

Besides being guest of honor, Mrs. Hoover will give the first basket, and the usual amount of rivalry is expected among those who attend the party and are eager to receive the first basket from the First Lady.

ENVOY OF STIMSON FLIES TO SALVADOR

full possession of his functions was regarded as unusual. While Mr. Curtis has only been at his present post for the last four months, he was previously to that Minister to the Dominican Republic and before that Counselor of Embassy at Havana for almost two years. He is supposed to be one of the department's Caribbean experts.

Minister Caffery was diplomatic envoy at San Salvador for 2½ years. He left for Miami, accompanied by Freeman Matthews, of the Latin-American division of the department, and will take the plane at Miami today at noon for Havana. They will arrive at the El Salvador capital Saturday at 4 o'clock.

The recognition of Central American governments has been rigorously confined to the conditions of the treaty of peace and amity of 1923. By these provisions the five Central American republics pledged themselves not to recognize any other government "which may come into power in any of the five republics through a coup d'etat or a revolution against a recognized government, so long as the freely elected representatives of the people thereof have not constitutionally reorganized the country."

Revolution Short-Lived.

A short-lived revolution in Guatemala under Gen. Orellano died of lack of recognition by the United States after the Secretary of State had notified him that his government would not be recognized in accordance with the policy established by the 1923 treaty. None of the other four Central American republics accorded the Orellano government legal status and following a constitutional election a fortnight later Reina Andrade was inaugurated as president.

The present situation in El Salvador finds the regularly constituted president, Arturo Araujo, a fugitive in Guatemala. President Araujo, according to reports reaching here, could have rallied the loyal elements of the country around him and made a stand against the youthful military junta, but he wished to avoid bloodshed and accordingly crossed the border, where he now awaits the arrival of Minister Caffery. Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., was inclined to doubt that Mr. Caffery would see the exiled president before he had first reconnoitered in San Salvador.

Headed by Officers.

The youthful military outbreak was headed by officers who had served their military apprenticeship with the famous Gen. Ibanez, who was for some time the dictator of Chile. Gen. Ibanez was once a member of the military mission which had been sent to San Salvador to train the young officers. The political doctrines which Ibanez then believed are believed to have caused the present outbreak.

Maximilian Hernandez Martinez, former vice president and minister of war, is reported to be the present head of the revolutionary government.

Wafdist Delegate Is Deported.

Jerusalem, Palestine, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Abdul Rachman Azzam, Wafdist delegate to the Islamic Conference, was deported from Palestine today because of a speech in which he attacked the Italian policy regarding Tripolitana. A government communique said his words were calculated to "embitter relations between Italy and the mandatory government of Great Britain."

wherein the fathers and mothers have been trying desperately to figure out some way in which their children may have just a touch of Christmas cheer. Many of them are figuring in vain, for no matter how they scrape and save, there will be no money for toys and the little trinkets which go to make up a real Christmas. That's exactly where The Post Toy Fund steps in and says: "Your credit is good, fathers and mothers, on Santa Claus. Tell us what you need and the money will be given you from the fund to buy the Christmas wherewithal for your children."

For such homes Santa Claus would be truly a myth if The Post Toy Fund had not come to the rescue and the citizens of the city backed up Washington's leading morning newspaper in such a gallant fashion.

The Post believes, and its faith has been justified, that every one wants the youngsters of Washington to have a merry Christmas. Empty stockings on Chritsmas morning would mean more than broken hearted children. They would mean discouraged parents and sad-faced friends, all because through misfortune they had not been able to help Santa Claus.

When The Post Toy Fund closes December 24, Christmas Eve, and even before that time, it will be quickly divided through the Council of Social Agencies to certain organizations who have needy children in charge. They, in turn, will pass on the money for toys to mothers and fathers, so they may have the pleasure of buying the gifts themselves. This will give the fathers and mothers some Christmas joy, for what parent can be happier than when they are providing Christmas for their little ones. And Christmas, remember, for children can only be spelled in one way—T-O-Y-S.

Keep Children's Faith.

But in order to take care of the needy children Washingtonians will have to "dig deep." Take a chance. Business is going to be better next year. Risk a little of that cash in the bank in this 100 per cent investment in childish joy and maintaining the faith of a little child. All of business is conducted on the good faith basis. Let's keep the faith with the childhood of the National Capital.

Send all gifts of money or toys to The Post Toy Fund. If you have toys to give, bring or send them to Miss Geraldine Frost, the Santa Claus Lady, in The Post Library.

The faith of childhood must not be destroyed, and, owing to the generosity of the people of Washington the directors of The Washington Post Toy Fund can promise that it will not be, if the toys and money continue to flow into The Post as they have during the past day or two. Yesterday was a big day for the Toy Fund and every one about The Post went around smilingly happy with the knowledge that the efforts to make Christmas a city-wide Merry Christmas would be realized. More is expected today for the word has gone out that there are children who might be forgotten by Old Santa Claus. Everybody who hears about it hurries right down to The Post with a check or cash or hurries it into the mail or dashes to the toy storehouse in every home to find just what can be spared of last year's toys.

The Washington Post Toy Fund snowball has grown to such proportions that three great, strong men have to work all day long to keep pushing it. But how pleased the children of Washington will be when it is all distributed on Christmas morning.

Letter From Mother.

One mother has written in to The Post Santa Claus Lady, impelled by the dread of having her children get up to a toyless Christmas on Christmas morning: "I have five children and have not a nickle to get them any toys for Christmas. My husband has no work and I can not get any myself. Will you please see that my children have some toys and candy for Christmas? That is all they talk about and you know how that hurts me. One believes in Santa Claus and she wants a raincoat and stockings; Olive, 10 years old, wants a new dress and set of dishes; Thelma wants a doll and a raincoat, she is 8 years old. Winifred, 6 years old, wants a raincoat, doll and carriage. Betty Jane, 3 years old, wants a doll and carriage."

The faith of childhood also has inspired a boy to write in behalf of his younger brother and sister. "My father has been sick since June and is not able to work. I have two brothers and one sister. My oldest brother is 17 years old, but he cut his right hand two weeks ago and he is not able to work either. My little brother is 8 years old and my sister is 14 years old. I am 12 years old. We do not have much clothes or food but we hope and trust in God. We hope that you will give us a Merry Christmas. We wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

Ting! aling! ling! rings The Washington Post telephone every few minutes for the people of Washington want to know all about the toy fund and some of them want to "take" a needy family to give a Merry Christmas. One mother arrived at The Post Building early in the morning with four children, all of them intent on going Christmas shopping for another mother and four children. At the suggestion of the Santa Claus Lady the mother and her merry group of children got in their automobile again and went right out to the house of a needy mother and her children and what a good time the two mothers and all the children did have Christmas shopping. What a good time they had when lunchtime came sitting up at a luncheon counter all having a nice cup of hot chocolate!

Help Santa Claus.

How pleased that kind mother and children will be as they wrap their own Christmas packages to know that this new friend and the nice children were also busily engaged Christmas shopping. Of course, the two mothers went off by themselves some of the time to help Santa Claus buy things to surprise the children with Christmas morning and some of the presents the children were able to buy will be such a surprise to mother on Christmas morning. Anyway they were wreathed in smiles and we felt that "Merry Christmas" was really on us.

A little girl of thirteen slipped into the Santa Claus room all by herself yesterday morning. She had walked just blocks and blocks because her little sister, age 9, talks so much about a doll with blue eyes and golden hair with a pink dress on, and this girl was so afraid that with all the work Santa Claus has to do with The Post Toy Fund he might give little sister a dark haired doll with a blue dress when her heart is just set on golden hair and blue eyes. "Little brother," the girl said shyly, "wants a paint box for he used up his other one and he can make such beautiful pictures."

The directors of The Washington Post Toy Fund wrote down the names of the brother and sister, but they also wrote down the name of the generous big sister who did not ask for anything for herself. Every one looked over the shoulder of the Santa Claus Lady when she underscored the girl's name so Santa Claus would know that she should have something very nice herself.

Two cheerful givers, tiny twin girls in their best blue coats and hats, arrived at the Santa Claus room with their father, each clasping a doll in their arms. Father thought they had so many dolls that they should give something to another little girl who did not have one.

The little girls' faces beamed with delight when the Senta Claus Lady assured them she would find a little girl who would be very kind to their dollies and that she was sure they would enjoy their new homes. Each twin had a dollar bill in her hand saved from their own Christmas spending to go to the needy family where dolly was bound.

CAPONE VISITS END ON GANG RULE QUIZ

Charges He Is Carrying On Work, However, Are Not Substantiated.

Chicago, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The stream of visitors to the county jail cell of Alphonse Capone was cut off sharply by the United States Government today.

After an investigation of reports that the gang czar was still directing operations of his syndicate, it was announced that there was no evidence that he was being accorded special treatment at the jail. The United States marshal's office, however, issued an order directing the warden to admit to Capone's cell only his immediate family, his attorneys and any others given passes by the marshal.

It was explained that the marshal would examine carefully all persons applying for permission to see the gangster as he awaits the appeal on his conviction as an income tax dodger.

Investigation by Government agents was started after Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who sentenced Capone to eleven years, and United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, who headed the prosecution, both received anonymous communications stating that Capone was receiving telephone, telegraph and messenger service enabling him to control his gang as well as if he were outside the jail.

Both District Attorney Johnson and officials of the Department of Justice in Washington said the charges "could not be substantiated."

Warden David Moneypenny, of the county jail, requested the marshal's office to take over the responsibility of issuing passes to Capone's visitors. Several minor politicians had asked to see the gangster and it was feared they would turn over their permits to Capone's lieutenants.

Academy to Have Long Yule Holiday

2,000 Midshipmen Made Happy by Full Eleven-Day Recess.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 17—Joy pervades the 2,000 midshipmen of the regiment of the Naval Academy over the prospect of eleven full days of Yuletide holiday, instead of nine or ten as heretofore, with the privilege of passing the festal day with the folks at home. The extra day or two is due to Christmas and New Year's falling on Friday.

Under the provisions of an order issued by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the academy, Yule liberty will begin at noon Wednesday and extends until evening roll call, January 3. On the eve of their leave-taking the middies will adhere to long-established custom of gathering around a large electrically illuminated pine tree in front of Bancroft Hall. The same evening the middies will have their annual Christmas feast in the mess hall.

Not all of the students will be privileged to avail themselves of the full extent of the liberty, for, as usual, it will be limited to those on good conduct grades and not delinquent in scholastic work. Many of the middies who live in distant States are making reservations in plane transports in order to make proper connections to reach home and return in due time.

Counties May Assume South Carolina Deficit

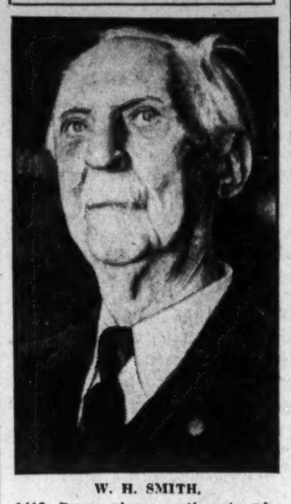

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Comptroller General A. J. Beattie said today he would propose to the 1932 General Assembly that the $5,000,000 State deficit be transferred to the counties. Such a transfer, he said, would entail no increased taxes if payments were spread over a five-year period.

The deficit would be prorated to counties and surpluses they have on hand in the form of uncollected taxes could be used to pay it at the rate of $1,000,000 a year. This would leave the State without a deficit, the comptroller general pointed out, and strengthen its credit.

Treason Laid to 154 in Jail.

Manila, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Tangulan Secret Society members, numbering 154 of the 200 arrested last week in police raids, were charged today with violation of the treason, insurrection and sedition act. The charges presented by the city prosecutor included "conspiracy to overthrow the Government of the United States." They probably will remain in jail until trial early next year. Bonds were fixed at $1,000 each.

servatives at the extreme right, the "Center party" in the middle and the Laborites on the left—was emphasized by the third list issued by the board of trade.

The list affected American exports particularly in regard to films, cotton goods and rubberized fabrics. The new list is designed to halt goods which were imported to the extent of some $5,000,000 in November, as compared to a normal seasonal monthly average of less than $4,000,000. The order also affects importations which normally are three times greater than those affected by the first list, thus apparently reflecting a nation-wide demand by manufacturers for protection.

Acting under the new abnormal importations act, the board imposed a 50 per cent tariff of twelve kinds of manufactures.

They are cotton-piece goods, household cottons, cameras, films (not cinematgraphic), radio tubes, electric light fixtures, all outer garments, lawn mowers, cordage and ropes. The list will further decrease the flow of goods which has been speeded by importers recently to escape the general tariff which the government is expected to adopt within a few months.

Chief among the manufactures which America sells in Britain are motor cars, rubber goods, smelted copper and lead, gasoline, machinery, chemicals, drugs, sawn timbers and motion pictures.

PRISON BREAK LAID TO OFFICIAL LAXITY

Penal Director Says No Individual Is Blamed in Leavenworth Affair.

Leavenworth, Kans., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The escape of seven convicts through the main gates of the Leavenworth Penitentiary last Friday was attributed today by Sanford Bates, director of Federal prisons, to laxity among the guards and weakness in the prison system.

Warden Thomas B. White, recovering in a hospital from an arm wound inflicted by one of the three convicts brought back dead, "acted in a brave and resourceful manner," Mr. Bates said in his preliminary report issued before he returned to Washington.

Mr. Bates said there was every hope of tracing and prosecuting persons who smuggled into the prison firearms used by the convicts in escaping. He held that three guards confronted by the escaping convicts were blameless. Rather, he said, the responsibility goes farther back and can not be placed upon any individual.

"It must be admitted," he said, "that there had grown up a laxity in the institution with reference to the issue of passes to go and come among the various departments, and that in some cases guards, who should have assumed a more responsible attitude with reference to these inmates, trusted in some other guard or agency to control them, and that the presence of these prisoners at places other than where they should have been, might well have been questioned and remedied."

Mr. Bates said an extra gate will be provided to protect the front office from invasion such as that of last Friday, when the seven armed prisoners gathered seven civilians, including the warden, and forced their way through the main gate.

Denver, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—F. E. Crawford was ousted as warden of the Colorado Penitentiary by an order of the State civil service commission late today. The vote was 2 to 1.

The State board of corrections charged Crawford with drunkenness, neglect of duty, and incompetency. Crawford was in charge of the State penitentiary when a fatal riot on October 3, 1929, took 13 lives.

12 Professors Refuse To Take Fascist Oath

Rome, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Twelve professors in Catholic colleges sacrificed their positions today when they refused to take the newly required oath of allegiance to the Fascist regime. The remaining 1,213 swore or will swear allegiance to the Fascist state, as well as fealty to King Victor Emmanuel and the royal family.

Pope Pius recently approved the Fascist oath in response to a request for guidance by several professors, for the reason that "Fascism is not a political party but the government of the nation."

DISTRICT TAX BILLS.

The House of Representatives never manifests such alacrity as when enacting new taxes for the District. Almost any bill to impose heavier burdens upon residents of the Capital can gain a right-of-way in the House.

The income and estate tax bills are not objectionable in themselves. They meet with stubborn resistance from inhabitants of Washington because they are part of the program to force a handful of people to support the Federal Capital. The income tax is intended to replace the intangible personal property tax, which is extremely difficult to enforce, and to ease the tax burden on real estate. But the rate on realty remains the same. The House in this one item would increase the tax burden upon the people by about $1,000,000.

With proper safeguards the estate tax will allow the District credit for 80 per cent of the estate taxes that are now collected from Washingtonians by the Federal Government. This will tap a new source of revenue without creating a great additional burden upon the people. If these measures were used to supplement the general property tax in raising the District's proper share of funds to support the Federal City the people would not object. Instead they are being passed with a view to unloading upon Washington residents a responsibility that belongs to the entire Nation.

The 4-cent gasoline tax presents quite a different situation. The only excuse the House had for passing this bill was that some States which must build extensive highways levy similar imposts. Utterly ignoring the unique position of the District, the House voted for a bill that will yield far more revenue than is actually needed for the improvement of Washington streets. In all probability this special tax upon motorists will now be used for general expenses of the District government. As if that were not a sufficiently heavy imposition upon automobile owners, the rural financiers of the House have also pushed through an automobile weight tax.

In passing these bills the House has run amuck. No committee hearings were allowed. No one, except paid agents of a biased and discredited committee, was allowed to give advice. Some of the bills were railroaded through the House without debate. The whole process of devising and passing these revenue measures is an outrageous performance for a body that is sworn to uphold representative government.

The hasty action of the House smacks of personal politics. Within a few weeks members of Congress must vote higher taxes for the entire country. To divert attention from the national tax increase weak sisters in the House will take pleasure in pointing out to their constituents what they did to residents of the District.

The Senate is not so much inclined to small-town logic in dealing with these matters. Members of the Senate have not abandoned the plan to make Washington the most beautiful capital in the world. In the past they have compromised with the House, but they have never before been confronted with such an impudent attempt to throttle the Federal City. The Senate may be expected to smash this nonsense, and to vote a reasonable sum for the District budget until such time as the question of fiscal relations may be approached from a rational viewpoint.

THE WORLD COURT.

Because of "pressing domestic business" the Senate committee on foreign relations has postponed indefinitely consideration of adherence by the United States to the world court. The committee has shown good judgment in deferring that controversial issue until Congress has disposed of measures designed to aid economic rehabilitation. Since this entire session will be crowded with domestic legislation of far-reaching importance, including taxes, appropriations and relief measures, it is probable that the world court issue will not be injected into the maelstrom of senatorial debate until after the next presidential election.

One other reason sustains the good judgment of the committee in not pressing for ratification of the world court protocol at this time. Conservative opinion in many parts of the world is turning against the court because of its recent exhibitions of political bias and because of the minor importance attached to its decisions even by the member nations. Thoughtful observers in the United States have contended from the beginning that the court is merely the agent of the League of Nations. Since the court has had an opportunity to demonstrate its methods statesmen of other countries are arriving at the same conclusion.

Eric H. Louw, Minister of South Africa to the United States, told a New York audience that he considers membership of his country in the league a liability. As a delegate to the assembly at Geneva in 1929 he learned that the league is a hotbed of intrigue. The Manchurian fiasco has proved that no nation can look to the league for protection. South Africa has no more to gain from participation in the political flimflam at Geneva than has the United States.

The political line-up of world court judges in deciding that a customs union between Austria and Germany would be illegal has caused repercussions in all countries. The court rendered a political and not a juridical opinion. Nations that adhere to the court are beginning to wonder what are the advantages of disguising European politics as international justice. They see that with the so-called world court in operation the relations between governments are still shaped by the dominant European powers. It is clear to them that the tribunal which Europe has set up as a court of international justice is in reality only a mechanism for bringing the whole world under the domination of European intrigue.

Much confusion has existed in the United States as to the nature of the world court. Since that body began actively to function the public has had opportunity to observe its character. Certainly, the record of the court is not impressive. The decision on the Austro-German customs union stands as a warning to the United States of what might be expected if a question of vital interest to this country should ever be laid before the court.

By postponing action on the protocol the foreign relations committee virtually puts the court on probation. Apparently a majority of the members are convinced that the tribunal will hang itself if it is just given enough rope.

REVEALING BANK METHODS.

The stockholders of the Transamerica Corporation may not regain any of their losses through the present controversy between Elisha Walker and James Bacigalupi on the one hand and A. P. Giannini on the other, but it may result in some valuable revelations. The tremendous depreciation of Transamerica shares is doubtless the greatest financial blow that California has ever suffered from one single source. The stock of this corporation, which was the holding company for the Bank of Italy, with its hundreds of branches, and for Bancitaly and other allied Giannini corporations, was bought all over California. The losses to stockholders in these concerns are today estimated at $1,500,000,000.

During the worst part of the decline the control of the directing company passed from Giannini to the Walker interests, who recently sold the Bank of America to the National City Bank. Other such assets, it has since been announced, will be disposed of similarly. The Giannini interests are opposing this program on the grounds that Walker and his associates are sacrificing important holdings. In reply Walker asserts that $60,000,000 of the company's money was wasted in stock market speculation.

Unfortunate as such scandals are, it can not but be of value to the public to have the facts brought to light.

AIDING THE CHILDREN.

The welfare of children is a vital subject that is receiving every year more and better attention, not only from private but governmental agencies. The work of the Children's Bureau under the United States Department of Labor has become an important factor in directing and coordinating efforts along lines that are practical and efficient. The annual report of the director of the bureau, Miss Grace Abbott, details a range of activities that is surprising to those who are not familiar with the scope of the work now embraced after the bureau's twenty years of service.

The bureau has expanded its connections with the State and local agencies in the preparation of statistics relating to child labor, delinquency, dependency and health services for children, and has continued its independent research in all these fields, as well as the useful service of preparing and distributing popular and scientific bulletins. The bureau is appealed to from all over the Nation for assistance in planning and organizing local child welfare work.

In connection with the President's emergency committee of employment the Children's Bureau has made field studies in a number of States, particularly in depressed areas, as in the mining regions, outside the large cities. Miss Abbott emphasizes the fact that children suffer the most serious permanent losses in periods of depression and should be the first to be considered in planning remedial measures. Particularly in single industry communities, where unemployment or underemployment has existed, neglect and undernourishment of children are most prevalent.

Growing demands for assistance from the Children's Bureau come not only from all parts of the country, but from foreign dependencies as well. Gov. Roosevelt appeals for expert aid in dealing with his problems in Porto Rico. The Attorney General requests the assistance of the bureau in developing measures for State and Federal cooperation in dealing with juveniles who violate Federal laws. The appropriation for the bureau during the last fiscal year totaled $368,000. Its work has taken on such wide ramifications and the demands so greatly exceed the present capacity of available force and funds that as soon as Federal income will admit this bureau should be given an increased appropriation to enable it to enlarge its important service to the youth of the land.

Probably they call the efforts to relieve the depression "programs" because programs are given out before a show starts and discarded when it is over.

President Hoover said, "We must put some steel beams in the foundations of our credit structure," and the Progressives immediately started bolting.

Italy has its "black shirts" and Germany its "brown shirts." Evidently Americans are the only people who have lost their shirts.

Members of Congress may support the proposed tax on radios on the ground that it is a luxury to listen to them on the air.

It seems peculiarly appropriate at this time that the statue of Freedom on the Capitol should be looking toward the East.

THE EXECUTIVE POWER

President Has Authority to Extend Period of Debt Payments by Executive Agreement.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Instead of ratifying President Hoover's moratorium agreement prior to the date upon which the intergovernmental debt payments are payable, Congress has set a committee to work holding meetings and listening to evidence upon which to base a report. In order to save the face of Uncle Sam as a man who keeps his word with foreign governments, the President has been obliged to let the debtor nations know that they need not make their payments on the due date as stipulated.

The action of Congress is considered necessary by the President in order to make the postponement agreement legal. The agreement was made subject to ratification, and the important governments, creditors of Germany, executed the agreement and have foregone the receipt of payments due them in reliance upon the American Congress in the matter. The President has asked the Congress to legalize the postponement of the international payments on the ground that he has been assured the cordial support of leading members of both parties in the Senate and in the House of Representatives, and on the further ground that such postponement is a practical necessity under present economic conditions in the various countries of Europe.

The question arises whether, if Congress should fail in its obvious duty to ratify, the President is absolutely helpless in the matter. It would seem that he is not.

The control of foreign relations, with the three exceptions of making treaties, declaring war and appointing representatives to foreign governments, is conceded to be an executive power. The conduct of foreign relations involves extensive intercourse, both oral and written, conferences, agreements and understandings not to be included in the term treaty as used in the Constitution. All treaties are agreements, but not all agreements are treaties. Indeed, international agreements which the President concludes with foreign governments independent of the legislature form an increasingly important element in our foreign relations. It has always been done from the early days of our independent existence, and the complications of modern international affairs have tended to enhance the importance of this power of the President.

An interesting illustration of the executive agreement is furnished by the history of President Roosevelt's administration. For a number of years the Dominican Republic had urged a treaty arrangement with the United States whereby the little republic would be placed under American protection. It was suggested in a European quarter in 1903 that this country join with certain creditors of the Dominican Republic and take over jointly its fiscal control. To this arrangement the United States naturally refused to become a party, as it has always been an American policy not to become joint debt collector with foreign governments.

Early in 1905 the President submitted a proposed treaty to the Senate, under the terms of which the Dominican customs houses were to be placed under American control in order to restore order and credit to the island republic. The President urged prompt action by the Senate in order to prevent bloodshed. But all the Senate proceeded to do was debate the question. The Monroe Doctrine was seen to be involved, as it was evident that unless America restored order somebody else would. In the end, Mr. Roosevelt, with characteristic thoroughness, made an executive agreement with the government of the island republic and then told the Senate what he had done. Thus closed an incident in which a President, upon failing to secure the proper legislative cooperation, went ahead in his own way and did what was necessary.

Perhaps the most famous executive agreement was made in the year 1817, when President Monroe, through diplomatic channels, made an agreement with the British government providing for the complete disarmament of the Great Lakes and thus laid the basis for the unprotected American-Canadian frontier, which remained from that day to the present time as an illustration of friendship between two great nations. This agreement provided for the dismantling of the American and British ships of war extending from Lake Champlain to Lake Superior, and which had patrolled the lakes ever since the War of 1812, constituting a very evident threat to the peace of the two nations. Without any formal treaty, without senatorial action, but with a firm determination to accomplish that which ought to be accomplished with a minimum of publicity, the great international arrangement was completed by a mere exchange of notes between the representatives of the two governments concerned.

Many other cases may be cited to show the growing tendency for international relations to be carried on by means of executive agreements. The subjects of agreement have been varied. Agreements to accept boundary commissioner reports; agreements to change the details of carrying out treaties, agreements permitting foreign troops to cross international boundaries, agreements looking to the joint occupation of savage islands for police purposes, agreements providing for joint international patrol to protect seals and fishing interests, agreements affecting indemnities and terms of payment, agreements affecting the admission of aliens, agreements of neutrality and alliance, and many others have been effected.

The Constitution of the United States is not violated in this way, because the powers of the President under the Constitution are broad enough to cover the procedure. Indeed, without the system of executive agreements it would seem a practical impossibility to carry on our foreign relations at all. The Senate can not be called upon to consent and advise in every case of agreement. And there have been occasions when the necessity was so great that agreements had to be made irrespective of the temper of the legislature.

President Hoover is faced with such an occasion. He can meet it as other Presidents have done legally. He can negotiate and sign a simple agreement to extend the period of international payments, supplemental to the conditional agreement already made. He can in this way save the United States Government from the charge of bad faith which will inevitably follow a failure of the moratorium agreement, and he can save Europe from the dangerous situation which such a failure would entail. Let us trust that he will take this method of proving to Congress that an international agreement is no small thing to be put aside at will, and at the same time that he will take this method of giving the peoples of Europe an opportunity to make good on their pledges of payment when and as they can, without driving them to the extremity of bankruptcy and perhaps revolution.

Hold Fast, Elephant!

The Monuments That Last Forever Are Not Built With Hands

By ROBERT QUILLEN

TWO brothers named John and Bill left the home of their ancestors and set forth to make their fortune.

At the end of a day's journey they came to a fork in the road and stopped to rest.

"We must separate here," said John, "for we wish to become great men and no city or land is big enough to divide between us. I shall take the right fork of the road, you take the left. I shall achieve great things and make my name a household word, so that countless generations shall honor me after I am gone. I hope you do as well."

"I haven't your ability," said Bill, "but I shall do my best."

The boys separated, and ambition walked beside them.

In the years that followed, each did his utmost to win renown and each yearned to do something that would influence the destiny of manknid. It is the desire for immortality that inspires men to endow institutions, make statues of bronze instead of clay and write dull books instead of cheerful ones.

John became rich and powerful and began to build a great city. Bill worked hard and unprofitably and came to his end without a dollar. As he lay on his death bed he said to his son, "My boy, it is better to lose than to cheat." Then he died and soon was forgotten.

John's city grew stone by stone, ever wider and higher, until it became the wonder of the world. Men journey far to see it and the people said one to another: "What a wonderful man John is!"

Time passed. Winter followed summer; rains fell; streams gnawed at the hills; forests burned and grew again. Century followed century and the ages were gathered into history.

One day a great prince sat on a hill to meditate. Ambition urged him to conquer a hemisphere by means of trickery; conscience bade him play the game fairly, win or lose.

Long he pondered chin in hand, and then his brow cleared:

"I see my way clearly," said he, "for I remember the saying of the ancients, that it is better to lose than to cheat."

The prince didn't know it, but the hill on which he sat—a great, green mound where goats pastured—covered the long-forgotten city that John built.

The Ely Boomlet.

New Bedford Standard.

While some Democratic leaders are lining up for Gov. Roosevelt, and Chairman Raskob, of the national committee, is giving signs that he is not yet prepared to admit that his friend Alfred E. Smith is out of the picture, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the national committee, stirs up the waters by coming to New England and launching a boom for Gov. Ely.

Boom may be hardly the word. Boomlet might be better. Whatever you call it, it is a matter of record that Mr. Shouse, after patting Mr. Ely on the back, said that he "may be drafted for the Presidency or Vice Presidency," adding that "there is a great deal of talk of drafting him." It would be unkind to ask Mr. Shouse where the demand for the drafting of Mr. Ely is being heard. But it is fair enough to suggest that it is dangerous for national committee executives to go around putting presidential bees into the bonnets of favorite sons.

Mortgage 'Em All.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, and Senator Frazier, of North Dakota, want a Federal bond issue of several billion dollars in order to build highways across the continent east and west and north and south. Sure, why not? Up to this time we have only bonded our children and children's children. While we are at it, we might just as well also mortgage our great-grandchildren, and do a good job of it.

Paying Promptly.

Mitchell (S. D.) Republican.

That nine-tenths of South Dakota farmers are paying promptly on their loans and taxes is good news which will surprise many.

Singing the Blues.

Boston Globe.

After reading the President's report on the state of the Union, a good many citizens will wish he hadn't reminded them of it.

Contributing to Depression.

Albert Lea (Minn.) Tribune.

Fairmont citizens have taken a survey of the situation in their city and find that only 33 persons are wanting jobs. In practically every town in the Northwest it is found that the unemployment stories are greatly exaggerated. No one will deny but that there are many unemployed, but some of the stories out are far from the facts. From this time on until after election we can all expect a lot of untruthful statements heralded about the country—put out with the sole object of discrediting President Hoover and the Republican administration. They will be concocted by those politicians who, thinking more of their own interest than they do of the welfare of the country and the people in general, hope to keep business conditions depressed and the minds of the pessimists in a greater state of fear and discouragement.

One Tax Not Increased.

Kansas City Times.

The morning after President Hoover's 8,000-word message to Congress was published there appeared in the Forty Years Ago column echoes of complaints about the length of President Harrison' message of 17,000 words. Whatever else Mr. Hoover may do to increase revenues for the Government, it is obvious he does not favor any additional tax on the reader's patience.

In Sore Need of Leaders.

Buffalo Courier-Express.

A few more athletes in the Senate and that great deliberative body will begin to feel the need of a cheer leader.

Question of Ethics.

Akron Beacon-Journal

Speaking of increased taxes, is it sporting to jump on an income when it's down?

Without Mentioning It.

Indianapolis Star.

The President put a stimulant in his message without violating the dry law.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Congress Not What Wise-Cracking Paragraphers Paint It—Too Much Disparagement Not Good at This Time.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Dating back to an unrecorded time in the history of American journalism editorial writers during the mental ebb tides which serve as a grateful relief from concentrated thought have poked fun at the alleged dullness of the proceedings of Congress. Having for many years found diversified entertainment in the editorial pages of sundry journals of civilization as a genuine editorial fan I venture the guess that there has never been an American editor who has not now and then printed wisecracks about the drowsy atmosphere of Congress. As an instance, read the following from the Indianapolis Star: "Instead of taking sleeping potions, the insomnia victim soon will be able to get relief from the Congressional Record." The fact is that there is much interesting political matter to be found in the Congressional Record and any citizen who is not a congenital wisecracker can find entertainment as well as broaden his view of public affairs by occasionally browsing through its pages.

To the sober-minded citizen the story of our legislative past should prove that notwithstanding its shortcomings Congress has done fairly well in serving the purpose of the framers of the Constitution. Just now, when economic depression gives inspiration to the insidious propagandists of Communism it strikes me is not a good time to disparage our national legislature. It is not one-tenth as stupid as some of the wisecracks aimed at it. We should not forget that such defects as it has may be due to the fact that it is the product of unrestricted suffrage, and that consequently the editors of the land as molders of public opinion are more at fault than anybody else for any stupidity with which it may be charged. But of one thing we may be reasonably certain, and that is that no matter how black or how soporific we may paint it we would never think of exchanging the Congress for any other legislative body under the sun. FEDERALIST.

Underground Transport Eventually Necessary in Washington—Why Not Plan for It?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I agree with your correspondent, "Citizen," that in connection with restriction of parking there should be an increase of bus and street-car facilities in order to make traffic congestion less irksome in Washington. But I don't think he went quite far enough. I think that a future underground trolley system should be visualized in any planning for enlargement of transportation facilities.

At best, it will always be impossible to please Tom, Dick and Harry in laying down such traffic rules as may be necessary for public safety and convenience. But I think it is likely that as the city grows the traffic experts will finally plan underground in addition to surface and, perhaps, overhead means of locomotion, with results satisfactory, if not altogether ideal, so far as the general public is concerned. M. C. OVERTON.

Special Tax of 25 Per Cent on Government Officials Would Be Gross Discrimination.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An increase in the taxes is necessary to meet the financial needs of our country. We all recognize this. But a special tax of 25 per cent on the pay of all Government officials in addition to other taxes they must pay is the most severe burden yet proposed. Not only would this be remarkable class legislation, but it is made even worse by a provision that this reduction in income shall be made of indefinite duration.

An increase in Government receipts being necessary, let the burden be equitably distributed among all classes, Government officials receiving the same treatment as others, and do not let an undue share of it be placed upon the shoulders of a class of citizens ill qualified to bear it. NAVY.

Says Nations Responsible for the World War Are Enjoying Themselves at the Expense of the United States.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The World War veterans' certificates are being eaten up by interest, while nations responsible for the war are enjoying themselves at our expense. Before the Government cancels or even defers just debts of big powers, pay those in need that defended this Government.

AN AMERICAN SOLDIER.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE SHELTERED PLACE.

Beside my window pane I stayed
And from my comfortable seat
I watched the wet and cold parade
Of people trudging down the street,
Braving the north wind unafraid,
Undaunted by the stinging sleet.

Safe sheltered from the driving storm
I thought it good to be secure,
To sit with body snug and warm
Where fire and food and peace were sure,
With not one deed I must perform
And nothing that I must endure.

But as I watched them come and go
Beneath the burdens they must bear,
In spite of wind and sleet and snow
And driven by the lash of care,
It seemed to me I longed to know
Once more the thrill of battle there.

I wished again at doubtful pace
To be obliged to trudge the street.
To feel the cold wind on my face
And know the sting of rain and sleet,
For after all a sheltered place
Knows neither victory nor defeat.

MIGHTY GALE WHIPS NORTHWEST COAST

Life Lost, Highways Blocked; Roads and Communications Choked in South.

Seattle, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—A crashing gale that roared along the Oregon and Washington coast today, and veered into Puget Sound, caused the loss of one life, blocked highways and interrupted communication.

Manley Smith, aged Lummi Island resident, fell into the bay and was drowned when he started to step from a dory into his gasoline boat. A churning sea caused him to lose his balance. The island is in Puget Sound near Bellingham.

Aberdeen reported a 70-mile-an-hour gale in the Grays Harbor district, while North Head had a 72-mile record. The wind felled snags and timber around Aberdeen, blocking highways and interrupting telephone communications with the Pacific Ocean beaches and North Peninsula. In the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. Aberdeen had a rainfall of 3.24 inches.

A rainstorm in Seattle was blamed for the injury of twelve persons in traffic accidents, five of whom were pedestrians.

Shipping was at a standstill at Astoria, Oreg., with several ships unable to pass to sea and a number of others held beyond the coast by heavy seas. The gale moderated during the day.

Jackson, Miss. Dec. 17 (A.P.).—High water in Mississippi, Arkansas and Alabama today blocked highway traffic, flooded farm lands and drove Negroes from their shacks.

Streams were rising rapidly from rains during the last 48 hours and heavy downpours continued tonight in parts of Mississippi. The main force of the storms was felt in north Mississippi, but around Camden, Ark., the Ouachita River had reached a 30-foot stage. Smaller streams out of their banks have closed highways to traffic.

All highways out of Camden, except the Little Rock and Texarkana roads, were reported blocked and unharvested crops inundated.

To a lesser degree the storms were felt in Alabama where every major stream was reported rising, but not enough to cause alarm. The Mississippi River also was rising from Memphis southward but the present rainfall was not regarded as sufficient to bring it to menacing heights.

In Mississippi, nine highways were blocked by the high water and many acres of unpicked cotton were destroyed in the delta.

Duke of Manchester And Actress Are Wed

Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The Duke of Manchester and Miss Kathleen Dawes, London actress, were married here today by Surrogate William C. Rungee. The simple ceremony was performed quickly, soon after the Duke and his bride motored here from New York City. They returned to New York immediately after the wedding.

A slight delay was caused by the legal technicality of Miss Dawes signing the marriage license application. She walked with the Duke across the small park to the town hall to comply with the statutes.

Akron Pays Tribute To Shenandoah Dead

Ava, Ohio, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The world's largest dirigible, the U. S. S. Akron, paid honor today to those who died in the collapse of the naval dirigible Shenandoah six years ago.

While morning mists still hung over the hills of northern Noble County to the south of Cambridge, Ohio, the ship circled, hovered momentarily above the spot where the Shenandoah crashed and dipped in salute. Then she sped away toward her base at Lakehurst, N. J.

Gold Strike Reported In Southern Rhodesia

Bulawayo, Southern Rhodesia, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—What is described as an amazingly rich gold strike has been reported at Sauerdale in the Bulawayo district.

Specimens of rock taken from a prospecting shaft were said to yield an average of 100 ounces of gold to the ton. Already prospectors have staked out many claims.

Attack on Jewish Students At Maryland U. Charged

President Directs Inquiry Into Stoning of Dormitory Windows on Home-Coming Day; College Paper Denounces What It Terms Near-Pogrom.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Dec. 17.—An alleged attack on Jewish students at the University of Maryland at College Park the night of November 21 is being investigated by H. C. (Curly) Byrd, assistant to Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the school, at the latter's request, it became known tonight. The reported attack is said to have followed a dance on home-coming day, an alumni association observance.

In the editorial in the latest issue of the Diamondback, University paper, the editors said it is believed the demonstration was directed against Jewish students.

"In Russia, similar demonstrations are called pogroms," the editorial said. "This, however, is not Russia. Here, such an affair might be characterized as a rather disgusting display of narrow-minded bigotry."

Tonight Dr. Pearson said he had not "gone into it personally," but that Mr. Byrd, who is attending an athletic convention in New Orleans, was conducting the probe. Dr. Pearson said he had received no evidence that there was an attack on Jews only, nor that the attack was perpetrated by students at the University.

The editorial in the Diamondback said:

"During what is believed to have been a demonstration directed against Jewish students, fourteen windows in D section of Calvert Hall were shattered by stones last Saturday night after the home-coming dance.

"The residents of practically the entire section were forced to move themselves from their places of rest to the attic of the Friendly Fraternity houses. One person at least was showered with falling glass and many more endangered by flying brickbats. Ring leaders of the incipient riot are known; that is, they were recognized by certain of their victims who have declined to squeal. Interesting fact.

"In Russia, similar demonstrations are called pogroms. This, however, is not Russia. Here, such an affair might be characterized as a rather disgusting display of narrow-minded bigotry.

"And a bigot has no place in the modern university. His position is that of a pest—an unwelcome and unnecessary evil to be dispensed with summarily.

"The agitators behind this unfortunate occurrence, should it develop that their intolerance can not be curbed, had best withdraw. We can do without them—their passing, to put it gently and in an aspect of subtlety, will not be mourned.

"We want no brickbats and broken glass intermingled with our education."

Calvert Hall houses about 300 students, about 40 of whom, it was said, are Jews.

Former Roommate Accuses Dr. Andre

Says Dentist Told Widow She Would Not See Friend Again.

Reno, Nev., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Bernard (Red) Underwood, former roommate of Dr. Carl Pierre Andre, on trial for the murder of Mrs. Martha Hutchinson, testified today that an hour before the young West Virginia widow was killed Dr. Andre had told her that she would never see Underwood again.

"We three were in the apartment about 6 p. m.," Underwood said. "I thought Dr. Andre and Mrs. Hutchinson were going out to the Lazy Me Ranch, and Martha invited me to go with them, but Dr. Andre said they weren't coming back this way.

"Martha said, 'I'll see you later,' but Dr. Andre said to both of us, 'No, you won't see him any more.' He seemed to be sincere about it."

Shortly before Underwood's testimony a statement that Mrs. Hutchinson feared she would be beaten by Dr. Andre was read into the evidence. Testimony given by Maxwell R. McMillan at the Fairmount (W. Va.) dentist's preliminary hearing was entered over the protests of defense attorneys.

Train Kills Woman, Hurts Mate.

Jackson, Tenn., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Overtaken by an Illinois Central train on a long trestle near here last night, Mrs. Aizella Wheeler, 25, was killed and her husband, Bonnie Wheeler, was seriously injured.

Cruiser Pittsburgh Sold for $53,588

Baltimore Concern Highest Bidder for Obsolete U. S. Warship.

(Associated Press.)

The highest bid for the obsolete second-line cruiser, Pittsburgh, now at Norfolk, which the Navy is selling, was $53,588, offered yesterday by the Union Shipbuilding Co., Baltimore.

High bidder for the U. S. S. Newport, at Puget Sound Navy Yard, former New York naval militia training ship, was M. A. Montgomery, Bellingham, Wash., at $1,232. N. Block & Co., Norfolk, Va., was the highest for the U. S. S. Rocket, harbor tug, now at Norfolk.

Shore patrol boat, No. 237, formerly Thomas W. Slocum's yacht, The Ranger, now at Charleston, S. C., Navy Yard, brought a high bid of $2,525 from A. D. Young, Philadelphia.

Yuletide Program Set For Arlington P.-T. A.

A special Christmas program has been prepared for the Arlington Parent-Teacher Association, which will hold its final meeting of the year tonight at Patrick Henry School on Bingham road, Arlington.

This group will also inaugurate a new feature in the way of a child study class for parents, which will convene at 7 p. m. The regular business meeting will follow at 8 o'clock at the close of which a pageant and cantata of Christmas music will be presented by the children of the school under direction of the teachers.

Claiming Scalding, Woman Sues Hotel

A suit against the Harrington Hotel for $25,000 damages was filed in the District Supreme Court by Celia Sterman, Brookline, Mass., because of an alleged scalding she received May 7 while, as a guest of the hotel, she was taking a bath.

The charge is that when the spigot was turned on a stream of boiling hot water and steam was emitted. Before she could shut off the tap she was badly scalded, the plaintiff said. Attorneys A. L. Newmyer and Stamen & Lewis represent Miss Sterman.

Thomas Boguess Heads Alexandria Bible Class

The Hustlers' Bible class of the Methodist Protestant Church of Alexandria has elected the following officers: Thomas Boguess, president; John L. Santmire, vice president; Evan Compher, secretary; W. Mrs. David S. Hendrick will be hostess at a tea dance today at the Mayflower to present her granddaughter, Miss Patty Warfield Edmonston, to her friends in Washington.

Miss Edmonston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Davis Edmonston, of Baltimore, made her debut on December 7th, at the Bachelor's Cotillion in the Maryland capital, and a ball will be given by her parents on December 23rd in Baltimore.

Maj. Frederick W. Huntington, U. S. A., of Columbus, Ohio, accompanied by Mrs. Huntington, is in Washington for a brief stay at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul FitzSimons, who have been at the Willard for the last ten days, have returned to their home in Newport. Mrs. FitzSimons was Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt.

While in Washington, Mrs. FitzSimons spent considerable time renewing old acquaintances and entertained a number of parties in the crystal room of the Willard. Mrs. FitzSimons represented the State of Rhode Island in the deliberations of the Republican national committee and was a promenent feminine leader at the many meetings which were held during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Lowman, of Charlotte, N. C., are at the Fairfax Hotel.

Miss Bertha Mather Is Engaged to Wed.

Mrs. Stephen Tyng Mather, of Chicago and Darien, Conn., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Bertha Floy Mather, to Mr. Edward Reynolds McPherson, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reynolds McPherson, of Harrisburg, Pa.

Miss Mather's father was for fifteen years director of the National Park Service at Washington and held that position until a year before his death in 1930.

Miss Mather was graduated from Vassar College in 1928 and from the Cambridge School of Domestic Architecture and Landscape Architecture at Cambridge, Mass., in June of this year. She is a member of the Chicago College Club.

Mr. McPherson attended the Phillips Exeter Academy, was graduated from Harvard College in 1929 and is a member of the Harvard Lampoon, the Pi Eta Club and the Harvard Club of Philadelphia. At present he is a student at the Cornell Law School.

The wedding will take place in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley F. Reed have their sons with them at the Mayflower for the holiday season. Mr. John Reed attends Harvard Law School and Mr. Stanley F. Reed, jr., is a freshman at Yale.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Parker entertained at the dinner dance at the Shoreham last night. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Branleppe, Mr. and Mrs. David Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. William Pierce and Mr. and Mrs. John Reed.

Mrs. Truxton Beale has gone to Florida and is now at the Everglades Hotel, Miami.

The Commandant of the Army War College and Mrs. William Durward Connor will leave Washington today to spend the holidays with Mrs. Connor's relatives in Memphis, Tenn. They will return on December 27.

Mr. Carson Dougherty arrived from Princeton University yesterday to spend the holidays with his mother.

PLEA AGAINST COURT MAY CANCEL LASHES

Man Convicted of Beating Wife Awaits Ruling on Takoma Judge.

Joseph C. Carlton, 36 years old, Takoma Park carpenter, who has been sentenced to receive ten lashes in the Rockville County Jail on Christmas morning, on a charge of beating his wife, may escape this punishment through the claim of his attorneys that the court in which he was convicted is invalid.

The attorneys, Whiteford and Cissel, of Rockville, charge that the act of the Maryland State Legislature establishing the police court in Takoma Park last year is unconstitutional because Judge Alfred L. Wilson, the presiding judge, was designated as a police justice instead of a justice of the peace. This is the court in which Carlton was convicted.

In attacking this act, the lawyers filed a writ of habeas corpus in Montgomery County Circuit Court in Rockville, contending that Carlton "is illegally detained and restrained of his liberty by Richard H. Lansdale, the sheriff of Montgomery County." The attorneys also asked for a writ of certiorari, giving a detailed account of the proceedings against Carlton.

Attorneys Whiteford and Cissell also filed a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Reuben D. Day, who was found guilty by Judge Wilson of violating the motor vehicle law. A hearing of both cases, which will constitute a test of the validity of the act establishing the Takoma Park Court, will take place today before Judge Robert B. Peter, of the Montgomery County Circuit Court.

Through this act, the attorneys argue, the judge of the Takoma Park Court, was not given police court powers. Judiciary power in Montgomery County, they point out, is invested only in the court of appeals, the circuit court, the orphan's court and in the justices of peace.

The Takoma Park Court was established as a convenience to the community of Takoma Park, so that arrested persons would not have to be taken all the way to Rockville for trial.

As the attack of Attorneys Whitehead and Cissell may throw the court out of existence, the municipal fathers of Takoma Park yesterday took steps to defend the act by appointing J. Bond Wilson, their corporation counsel, to assist the State attorney in defending the court at the hearing today.

Carlton was convicted on the charge of beating his wife on December 14. He was also sentenced to serve ten days in jail.

Carrier of Pistol Given Stiff Term

Baltimore Sportsman Must Serve Two Years on Weapon Charge.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 17.—Convicted by a jury in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court today on the charge of carrying a concealed weapon, Michael (Kid) Julian, well known in pugilistic circles of Baltimore, was promptly sentenced to the maximum penalty of two years in the Maryland House of Correction by Judge Robert Moss.

Julian, a married man with one child, it appeared, was a visitor to the Sleep Hollow Inn, near Jessups, this county, on several occasions. He was convicted upon the testimony of Genie Cummings and Charles Mahoney, joint operators of the inn.

Mike Gregory, alias "Mike the Greek," another frequenter of the inn, also was convicted of a concealed weapon charge. He too, was said to have been seen there with a gun. Judge Moss sentenced him to a term of 18 months.

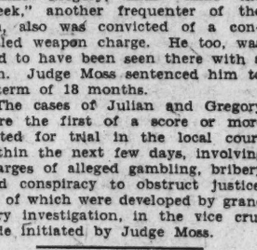

The cases of Julian and Gregory were the first of a score or more slated for trial in the local court within the next few days, involving charges of alleged gambling, bribery and conspiracy to obstruct justice, all of which were developed by grand jury investigation, in the vice crusade initiated by Judge Moss.

Powers Is Removed To State Penitentiary

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.). Harry F. Powers today was removed from the county jail to the State Penitentiary at Moundsville.

The "Bluebeard," under sentence to die on the gallows there March 18 for killing Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northboro, Mass., divorcee, was taken to the prison in an automobile by Sheriff W. B. Grimm and three State policemen. Asked by a newspaperman whether he had any statement to make, Powers replied in the negative.

Widow of Navy Man Who Killed Self Reweds

Reno, Nev., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dorothy Blount Winship, widow of former Lieut. Comdr. Emory Winship, U. S. N., who shot and killed himself in San Francisco several months ago, was married here yesterday to Lemar Washington, Nevada dude ranch owner.

Washington was divorced in May, 1929. Both gave their ages as over 21 and Mrs. Washington gave her residence as Los Angeles. The ceremony was performed by Judge Thomas F. Moran. They will live in Los Angeles. Mrs. Washington's family home is in Macon, Ga.

Roosevelt Official Dies of Heart Attack

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Herbert Knox Smith, of Farmington, Commissioner of Corporations under President Theodore Roosevelt and a national leader in the Progressive party, or Bull Moose movement in 1912, died at his home this afternoon.

He had been in ill health recently and death was caused by a heart attack. He was 62 years old.

Ruling May Delay Chicago Graft Case

Judges Told That Supreme Court Opinion Affects Present Trial.

Chicago, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The flow of testimony that hundreds of thousands of dollars of public funds were squandered by the Chicago Sanitary District halted suddenly today when the three judges hearing the trial of nine present and former district trustees for alleged graft received a State Supreme Court ruling which they said might jeopardize the legality of the trial.

Judge Harry M. Fisher, hearing the evidence with Judges John Prystalski and James Kelly, ordered a recess until Monday so that the ruling returned today, might be studied.

The nine defendants waived a jury trial over the protests of the State that a jury should hear the evidence. The Supreme Court in another case held that a nonjury trial is not legal unless agreed to by both the State and the defense.

Parliament Opens For Cairo Sessions

King Fuad and Premier Ride Together in Colorful Procession.

Cairo, Egypt, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The picturesque pageantry of the East colored Cairo's streets today as King Fuad drove with Premier Sidky Pasha through lines of troops to attend the opening of the Egyptian Parliament.

The king and the premier rode in the state coach. The Crown Prince of Abyssinia, with his retinue, clad in striking robes, figured prominently in the procession.

The premier read the speech from the throne which declared relations with foreign powers were cordial, particularly with Great Britain. He expressed hope that the time might soon come when questions now outstanding between Great Britain and Egypt would find an honorable solution "thus strengthening the cordial bonds of friendship between the two peoples and permitting Egypt to achieve her independence."

U. S. Radio Listeners To Hear Hindenburg

New York, Dec. 17 (A.P.) President von Hindenburg of Germany will make his first speech to an American audience on December 31 when his voice will be heard from Berlin over a coast-to-coast hook-up of the National Broadcasting Co., it was announced today.

The subject of President von Hindenburg's fifteen-minute address, which will begin at 3:30 p. m., Eastern time, has not yet been determined. It will also be broadcast in translation.

17 Injured in Florida In Auto-Bus Collision

Coral Gables, Fla., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Seventeen persons, including Head Coach Tommy McCann, of the University of Miami Football Team, were injured today in a collision between McCann's automobile and a Coral Gables Municipal passenger bus.

Physicians at first believed McCann probably had received a broken back, but he was discharged from the hospital tonight after an X-ray disclosed the injury was not serious.

Cosmopolitan Club Picks King as Head

Votes to Help Needy at Christmas in Place of Gift Exchange.

William L. King was elected president of the Cosmopolitan Club at the meeting held yesterday at the Carlton Hotel. Robert McChesney was elected vice president; E. E. Downham, treasurer; Michael Schaefer, secretary; Arthur W. Defenderfer and Edmund Carl, members of the board of directors; Gordon Bonnette, delegate to the international convention, with George Wyne as alternate. The elections were unanimous.

The club voted to change plans for the usual Christmas party this year, holding it next Wednesday at the Carlton and bringing clothing and toys for distribution among the poor instead of the usual presents for members of the club. P. A. Davis, chairman of the relief committee, will have charge of the distribution. Mr. Davis reported that the committee is taking care of ten persons at the present time.

"You needn't tell me —I know Camel is the fresh cigarette!"

Here's why they're FRESH!

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

THERE is of course a sound reason why the Camel Humidor Pack can deliver to Camel smokers a cigarette that is genuinely fresh.

Camels are made fresh to start with, fresh with natural moisture—blended of the choicest, delicately mild, full-mellow, sun-ripened tobaccos that money can buy.

The full natural goodness of these fine tobaccos is safeguarded at every step in their handling—they are never parched or toasted—the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we can say with every assurance that Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh—not parched or toasted—and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

The delights of a genuinely fresh cigarette are so rare and desirable that Camel popularity continues to mount daily to new highs.

Test these delights for yourself—see what true freshness means in cool, slow-burning, delicate mildness—switch to Camels for just one day, then leave them—if you can.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

THE MEN ARE WILD.

WHOOPS! The men are wild! They are still mailing us their red-hot opinions of our opinion of men! We knew it. Only some of them read very carelessly and seem to conclude that we are speaking of all men despite the fact that we drew a pen picture that we believed could leave no doubt of what type we are discussing. Many observed that our remarks were inspired by "disappointment in love," when as a matter of fact we never met personally one single solitary man of the sort we were discussing. But the girl of 18 today meets him everywhere.

Believe it or not, such men did not exist when we were eighteen. In fact, looking back through the years we can not recall a single "chiseler" or "gigolo" or "50-50" boy in any era of our long career! That is just why we feel for the girl of today who actually encounters three perfectly worthless men for every one who is worthy of consideration. In the good old days when we were trying to look like Mary Pickford almost any boy who made love was at least in dead earnest, and if it came to the worst and he was taken seriously would have made a worthy however dull or unsuitable a husband. But today! About the best one can hope for a girl is that she will meet a nice widower twice her age.

We repeat that the men available for marriage today for the girl of 18 are 80 per cent counterfeit. They lack stamina, character and all the other qualities popularly associated with manhood. They are weak-kneed and weak-willed and weak-minded. They lack ability, courage and energy. They have no ambition and no pride. For all these things they substitute conceit. They chisel their way. They panhandle. They fake. For one man who looks a girl in the eye today and tells her what's what, there are ten who know they are despised and accept the fact. They take what they can get, knowing they can demand exactly nothing. They can not marry for the reason that they can hardly support themselves, and so they meekly seek one girl today, another tomorrow, chiseling a meal where they can. A brave battalion! And from such a crew the girl of today must pick her man or go without. And the future race would be indebted to her if she would decide to go without. For the offspring of futility is futility plus. And the youth of today is the most futile the world has ever produced. His father regards him with concern, his grandfather with contempt and his great-grandfather would probably refuse to believe the evidence of his own eyes.

"What is the answer?" asks one man who admits he is the father of "two perfectly worthless boys." What is the answer? Less coddling at home. More virile associations and example at school. Boys of 18 who borrow "spending money" from their sisters are well on their way to the gigolo path, and the darling whose mamma sneaks him a dollar will let his "girl" pay the dinner check. Children are what their parents make them—grafters, gamblers, cheats and fakers. When fathers demand that their sons go without bibs and otherwise demonstrate virility instead of imbecility, when mothers stop pampering and hand-feeding, then perhaps fewer fathers will confess the fathering of "perfectly worthless boys." That is the answer. And meanwhile we repeat that if we were 18 we would scorn to accept what is offered the girl of today as matrimonial material—for the same reason that we scorn lead quarters and thin dimes. And we believe all other women who have known real men, their courage, their character and their love, share our concern for the girl of today who must take a thin dime—or nothing. Her predicament will be reflected in the ages that are to come, for there is about one decent marriageable boy today for every ten girls ready and waiting for marriage.

Is there an answer to that?

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF December 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:50 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 2:10 p. m. to 3:35 p. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Certain elements of surprise are forecast for most people on December 18, and you will find yourself doing the unexpected, or being in strange, unfamiliar places. The tide of fortune favors scientific and research workers, who will benefit by valuable experiences.

Children born on this December 18 will have many-sided natures. They will be versatile, original, intelligent and witty. They will not be afraid to exert themselves or to push themselves to the front. They will excel both in the classroom and on the sports field.

Born on December 18, you are a very noncommittal being, although your life is so lived that it could be an open book to every one. There are times when the utterance of a few simple words could prevent serious misunderstandings and prevent others from unhappiness. Your face and your moods are readable barometers of your feelings to those who know you well. The world always knows when you are pleased or displeased, but it must guess for the reasons why. You seldom bubble over with joy or erupt with fury; both emotions are bottled up, the one to sweeten and the other to sour your nature.

You have very high ideals and are very clean-minded and clean-living. You may be depended upon to keep your word and to do what you consider your duty. You are not a work shirker, and it will be your wish to die in harness. As you care little for reading and have few, if any, hobbies, you are happier when busy.

You are fond of home and are naturally domesticated. You are not adaptable enough and are too fond of your old, familiar haunts to ever become a roamer. Considerable sentiment is hidden behind your silence and reserve.

Successful people born December 18:
Sarah T. B. Bolton, poet.
Austin Abbott, lawyer and law writer.
S. Parkes Cadman, clergyman.
Lyman Abbott, editor.
Mary Nolan, film artist.
Edward A. MacDowell, pianist and composer.

Dare Interprets the Mode

This frosty blue Lyons velvet gown has a lovely white velvet flower at the decolletage, and the odd little jacket is darker blue. (Courtesy of the Maison Redfern, Paris.)

New York, Dec. 17.

LIFE would lose half its charm, I suppose, at least from the woman's point of view, if this coat question ever definitely settled itself. For instance, a few weeks ago, there was a rumor current in style circles that dress coats must be trimmed with self-color fur, or they simply couldn't be dressy. So, lots of us went forth womanfully and bought ourselves black coats with black fur, or brown coats with brown fur, or, very smartly, navy blue coats with blue dyed fur.

But now, alas! From the Maison Heim, in Paris, than which there is no whicher in the way of coat authority, comes word that your dress coat must be trimmed with a contrastingly colored fur. So, we can now indulge our dresscoat fancies with strong contrasts, such as black velvet and white ermine, or dark brown coats with light brown furs of some sort or another, or a beige coat with dark brown beaver or nutria or caracul.

This change of coat policy isn't so suprising when you figure it out, my deahs. Coats of the same color as its fur trimming doesn't form a very interesting background for its furs which, after all, have cost enough to deserve the best kind of background. 'N' then, all this monotone in dress coats lacks excitement and stimulation of the optic nerves—and what's a woman's life, my deahs, without excitement of this sort?

And the dress coat situation isn't as expensive as it may sound, either, for it's possible to buy one coat with two sets of furs, one matching exactly and the other contrasting—making it possible for Miladi Moderne to be in style, whatever the style happens to be.

There's been a new blue shade discovered, called "bleu blueut," which is a frosty-clear medium blue. It's very lovely and never more so than when made up by Redfern in the evening ensemble sketched for you today. The gown is of Lyon velvet, with a huge white velvet flower, and the little velvet jacket, short in front and with a perky basque behind, is a slightly darker blue.

This blue is good news for everyone to whom most blues are becoming, and especially heavenly for platinum blondes.

The most important part of Christmas has fashions all its own. I mean the Christmas tree, of course, and its trimmings must be of the latest style and materials if it's to hold its head up as a self-respecting tree should. Don't you want to help it? Then you'd better sit right down and send your stamped, self-addressed envelope right off to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet that tells just how these ornaments are made. For that's the surprising part of it, my deahs—made ornaments, and not bought ones are the smartest this year.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

PROLONGING THE FRESHNESS OF YOUR CHRISTMAS GREENS.

IT is said that we can have "too much of a good thing," but when it comes to Christmas greens—well, this just does not apply. In our grandmother's time, when huge rooms and hallways were heated entirely by fireplaces, the question of keeping the Christmas greens fresh from the eve of the 25th of December until after the burning of the Yule log did not have to be considered.

But today, in our smaller, overheated rooms, it is quite a problem to keep green our pines and holly until New Year's. However, with a little planning and a little time devoted each day to their care, this can be done. And when we consider the beauty of fresh greens, with their lights and shadows, where every berry and leaf is intact, surely we will want to keep ours fresh.

It is wise to purchase all varieties of green as early as possible, remembering that the first cases the dealers and street vendors receive are usually the most perfect. The branches are always shapely and well fruited or covered with cones, depending, of course, on the varieties you select. These greens rarely cost any more than those offered the day before Christmas, which have been handled by throngs of people for days.

Of course you can not bring these greens into the house several days before the happy event and expect them to keep green throughout the holidays. But you can lay them on the open ground, covering them with a sheet, a piece of burlap or a heavy paper—anything, in fact, that will keep them from blowing away. If the ground be covered with snow, so much the better. It will not injure them in any way.

And should you be a cliff-dweller in some tall apartment house, all that is necessary is to tie them into loose bunches and hang them securely—mentally underscore securely—on a window ledge. Use tape for this purpose. Never depend on soft string. No matter what the weather may be, they will not be injured, for, you know, they are quite used to the elements.

You will, no doubt, purchase ready-made wreaths for your doors and windows, and if you are wise you will hang them on the outside. There are two reasons why I suggest this. Houses so decorated lend an added note of gayety to a street and seemingly proclaim a Merry Christmas from the very rooftops. And wreaths so hung will stay green long after the holidays are over.

Cut greens for interior use will keep green for many days if about two inches of damp sand is placed in the bottom of the various receptacles in which you arrange them. This may seem like extra work at a time when every minute is at a premium. But, after all, you don't wish to have faded greens. The use of sand will also prevent the urns or vases from becoming topheavy and toppling over every time they receive the slightest jar.

AMARYLLIS.

Are you going to have one of these magnificent plants in your living room this winter? You will find that it is as decorative as a beautiful painting, and very easy to grow when you know how.

The very necessary but very simple rules for growing amaryllis are set forth in a leaflet which will be sent you gladly upon receipt of a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Please write to

Culbertson on Contract

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

185.

THEY MAY GUESS WRONG.

THE obvious advantage held by the Declarer in the play of the cards is often stated by the rough approximation that the play of the hand is worth a trick. This may or may not be true. It is, of course, apparent that the Declarer, seeing all the cards, the play of which he can control, should be better able to combine them to advantage than can his two opponents, who are necessarily ignorant as to the location of important cards. It is because of this fact that the Declarer can sometimes make a contract by the use of guile, which would fail if he simply attempted to bludgeon his way through by main force.

Today's deal is exactly in point.
Both sides vulnerable.
South—Dealer.

North: ♠ A 10 7 5; ♡ Q; ◇ K 7 6 4; ♣ K 8 7 2
West: ♠ J 8; ♡ A 6 2; ◇ Q 9 8 2; ♣ A Q 10 9
East: ♠ K 9 2; ♡ K J 10 9 7 4; ◇ 10 5; ♣ 6 5
South: ♠ Q 6 4 3; ♡ 8 5 3; ◇ A J 3; ♣ J 4 3

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♣	Pass	1♡
Pass	2♡	Pass	4♡
Pass	Pass	Pass

East found in his six-card suit the justification for a Rebid for game. The more prudent course would have been to stop at three, as East realized when the Dummy went down after South had led a spade.

North won the first spade trick and returned the suit. While it is not generally considered good play to hasten the opportunity for ruffs by the short trump hand, North had a rather difficult hand from which to lead, and he felt that nothing he could do would prevent trumping the third round of spades, as his partner was marked with four, so he decided to submit to fate rather than risk opening the diamond suit, about which he knew nothing, or making a trump lead, which might be very revealing to the Declarer.

East won this trick and then trumped his last spade in the Dummy. Three rounds of trumps accounted for all the adverse trumps and now East made the play upon which his success depended. Refusing to attempt the finesse in clubs, he led the 5 of diamonds. This was a very fine play, which could not lose and might win, the object being to deceive the opponents as to the location of one of the high honors in that suit.

South, holding A J in the suit, was given an opportunity to draw incorrect inferences as to the Declarer's holding. The play obviously located the King of clubs in the North hand; otherwise East would play that suit in preference to one in which he lacked both Ace and Knave. South reasoned that East must hold the King of diamonds and that to play the Ace would be playing the Declarer's game for him. He therefore played a low diamond and the 8 in Dummy was played. When North won this trick with the King, South realized too late the trap into which he had fallen.

North returned a spade, East trumped and led his last diamond, which South won with the Ace and led a club, but it was now too late to save the game, as the established Queen of diamonds afforded a discard for East's losing club.

Through permitting an opponent to draw incorrect inferences as to the location of an important card, the Declarer had made an unmakable contract.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: How many short suits can be counted in the Responding hand?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SEBACEOUS GLANDS.

THE skin has two sets of glands—one to produce a salty water called perspiration, and the other to produce an oil. Both are very abundant and widely distributed, being found everywhere in the skin with but few exceptions. Both serve a useful purpose.

The water glands have much to do with regulation of body temperature through evaporation and, incidentally, they keep the skin moist and pliable. The grease glands are principally responsible for the pliability of the skin and the appearance of the hair, though they contribute somewhat to the maintenance of bodily heat in cold weather. This article has to do with the grease glands and, particularly, with their secretion.

Were all of the glands of this type gathered together they would make a mass half the size of a coconut, and they are capable of producing at least an ounce of grease in a day. The amount secreted depends somewhat on the weather. Thus we have the explanation of the greasy appearance of a fat man on a hot day. Age is a factor. Adolescents are quite apt to have greasy skins, and we speak of that as the "greasy age." On the other hand, the senile have skins that are dry and harsh. This is called the "greaseless age."

Grease is liable to accumulate in their grease glands because it is too dry and solid to flow out. The secretion of the grease glands consists of liquid and solid fats in varying proportions. If there is more liquid, the secretion empties easily. If it is more solid, it tends to collect in the ducts, to form blackheads or skin worms, as the ignorant call those masses that do not have a dirt-blackened head. When the accumulation of grease and dirt becomes considerable it makes a visible "bump" which is quite apt to become infected, making a pimple, a pustule, and establishing what is called acne.

It is possible to vary the amount of grease secretions by changing the diet. It is reasonably certain that eating a diet rich in sugar and starch increases the amount of grease secreted. Probably the same is true of eating oils and fats. Conversely, a diet low in starch, sugar and fats has a tendency to decrease the amount of fat poured out on the skin and accumulating in the ducts. There are certain drugs such as bromides and iodides which increase the liability to acne.

More important than the change in the amount of grease excreted is change in its quality—increase of its liquid part at the expense of its solid part or vice versa. We know how the chemists can take a liquid or semi-liquid and change it to one that is solid at ordinary temperatures. When we get a drug that is a satisfactory cure for acne it will be one that changes the grease of these grease glands to a liquid form—one that flows freely and is not dried by dirt.

Meanwhile, the best treatment of greasy skin, large pores, pimples and blackheads is one that uses heat and cold—dissolving action of soap and warm water and the mechanical action of pinching and scraping. The first includes exposing the skin to cold rain, snow and cold showers and above all, the use of steam and hot packs locally. The second includes such thorough cleansing as the barber does when he shaves. The third includes facial massage and the scraping and handling which are incidental to shaving.

MAY NOT BE PERFECT.

K. E. B. writes: What are the causes of coated tongue, when elimination is perfect. A nauseated feeling occurs frequently, however, and gas is present a great deal of the time.

REPLY.

All of your symptoms could be caused by reverse peristalsis. It is probable that your elimination is far from perfect. Your trouble is probably in your digestive tract.

DANCE SET FOR CHRISTMAS.

It's something entirely new in a bandeau and pantie set.

Each of the legs of the panties is in six sections and scalloped at the lower edge. A yoked top gives a smooth hipline.

It's just the prettiest set any one could wish for, made of novelty crepe de chine in pale pink with pale blue crepe bindings.

Style No. 663 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. The 16-year size requires 1½ yards of 39-inch material, with 5 yards of binding.

Peach-pink crepe silk with narrow lace insertion trim along each seam of the pantie legs with matching lace edging gives a very dainty effect.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

Mr. Edward J. Lang, president of the Connecticut State Society, invites all Connecticut people living in the city to come to the Christmas card party of the society tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Thomas Circle Club, 1326 Massachusetts avenue. Miss Kathleen Burke, social secretary of the society, is in charge and has arranged for an interesting evening. Prizes are to be awarded to those having highest scores. Guests are requested to bring their own cards.

One of the features of the party will be the Christmas tree. Those coming will bring a small, inexpensive article, wrapped, to be placed on the tree. These will be distributed during the evening.

Mrs. David Kincheloe and Miss Gene Kincheloe, wife and daughter of Judge Kincheloe, of New York, will spend Christmas with Mrs. Edward Kay. As a special courtesy to Mrs. Ernest Humphrey Daniel, president of the Political Study Club, Mrs. and Miss Kincheloe are making a special trip to Washington to give the musical portion of the program at the December meeting of that organization.

Mr. Miller Hamilton, of Indianapolis, is at the Dodge. Mr. Hamilton is the executive secretary of the Indiana George Washington Bicentennary Commission.

FINE ARTS APPROVES MORE U.S. BUILDINGS

Last Triangle Structure and Memorials Pass Board's Scrutiny.

Approval of plans for the last of the Federal triangle structures, the Independent Offices Building, the wings of the National Museum, and the Cardinal Gibbons and the Massachusetts World War Memorials marked the monthly meeting of the Fine Arts Commission yesterday.

The Federal building, which will be located at Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue, was designed by Bennett, Parsons & Frost, Chicago architects. The Cardinal Gibbons Memorial, designed by Leo Lentelli, will be erected in front of the Sacred Heart Church, Sixteenth street and Park road. The Massachusetts monument, which was designed by Prof. Brener W. Pond, of Harvard University, is to be placed on the St. Mihiel battle grounds, in France.

Consideration was given to plans for the new naval hospital buildings, which were prepared by the Allied Architects of Washington, Inc., and to the central heating plant for Federal buildings, but no action was taken. The design of the National Museum wings was prepared by the Allied Architects of Washington, Inc.

Further studies relating to the Fine Arts exhibition in the Smithsonian Institution during the Washington bicentennial celebration were presented by J. W. Hewlett and Alexander Trowbridge. During the afternoon the commission inspected the interior of the new Department of Commerce Building.

Helsley and Proctor Expected as Candidates

Martinsburg, W. Va., Dec. 17.—Although they have not yet filed official notice, two prominent Democrats of Morgan County are avowed candidates for State senator from the Hampshire-Morgan-Jefferson-Berkeley district, it has been learned here. They are J. E. Helsley, former mayor of Berkeley Springs, and Col. J. A. Proctor, also of Berkeley Springs.

Under a system of rotation, it is Morgan County's turn to furnish the senatorial candidate. Senator Lewis H. Thompson, this city, is the incumbent.

Gain Is Reported In Farm Acreage

But Value of Virginia's Principal Crops Drop to $78,216,000.

(Associated Press.)

Virginia's acreage in principal farm crops this year was shown by United States Department of Agriculture statistics made public yesterday to have been larger than either last year or the year before but the value was only slightly more than half as much as it was in 1929. Value of crops followed the country-wide trend.

Total acreage of the principal crops this year was 6,832,000 and the farm value of the crops was $78,216,000. Last year the acreage was 6,263,000 and the farm value $84,582,000. In 1929 the acreage was 3,750,000 and the farm value $45,323,000. Value of tobacco this year is just a little more than a third of its total in 1929.

Based on December 1 farm prices the value of this year's Virginia corn crop was $19,808,000; wheat, $7,694,000; oats, $1,645,000; barley, $256,000; rye, $628,000; buckwheat, $108,000; tame hay, $11,916,000; wild hay, $63,000; sorghum for forage and hay, $47,000; soy beans, $314,000; cow peas, $143,000; peanuts, $3,140,000; sweet potatoes, $1,662,000; potatoes, $7,788,000; tobacco, $7,439,000; sorgo sirup, $141,000; apples, $8,756,000; peaches, $960,000; pears, $255,000, and grapes, $158,000.

Road Tax Division Called State Job

Commission Member Holds Pressing Need Is Cause for Allocation.

Wytheville, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Declaring that the allocation of highway funds is a "big problem and we have got to raise above small, picayunish problems and view the situation as a State proposition," I. Walter Truxton, Norfolk, member of the State Highway Commission, today said he hoped the time will never come when he must view the allocation of State funds to a county or district for any cause other than the pressure of existing needs. "When that time comes," he said, "it will be time to retire."

Pointing out the part the cities have played in helping rural sections secure modern highways, Mr. Truxton said there are 200 miles of paved streets in Norfolk and that the State receives the entire gas tax.

His remarks came at the conclusion of the commission's hearing on tentative allocations for the Bristol and Salem construction districts. Few protests were registered and no request was heard for funds to be moved from a specific project to enable construction to proceed elsewhere.

Larger Road Fund Urged for Virginia

$4,000,000 More Asked of Congress for Highway Relief Work.

(Associated Press.)

Bills to give Virginia an additional $4,000,000 for highway construction during 1932 were introduced simultaneously in the Senate and House yesterday by Senator Swanson and Representative Burch.

Designed as unemployment relief measures, the bills would provide a $225,000,000 loan fund for work to be performed before December 31, 1932. Each State would be allowed an amount proportionate with its regular allocations under the Federal aid act, and repayment would be made from annual Federal aid allotments over a period of fifteen years.

No interest would be charged and States would not be required to match the loans, as they now have to do with annual allotments. The first partial repayment would be made out of aid appropriated by Congress for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1934.

Thieves Slaughter Steer And Cart Quarters Off

Staunton, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Authorities of the Pastures district, Augusta County, were seeking today to discover the number, identity and motives of thieves who invaded the premises of John Greaver, near Augusta Springs, slaughtered a steer at large in the field, carried away the hind quarters and left the remainder of the carcass lying in the field.

Authorities believe that not more than two persons participated in the unusual robbery, since more would have doubtless made away with more of the meat. Bloodhounds were used unsuccessfully in an attempt to follow the trail.

JUDGE ORDERS QUIZ OF SPECIAL PARKING

Takes Action After Justice Employe Is Arraigned in Permit Case.

Parking spaces on the streets of Washington that are reserved for government officers or members of congress were the subject of an inquiry in Police Court yesterday when Julian B. Wegman, of the Department of Justice, was haled before Judge John P. McMahon for failing to exhibit the proper credentials entitling him to park in a space where he was found.

Traffic Policeman C. H. Hansboro gave Wegman a ticket for parking on E street between Thirteenth and Thirteenth and a half street northwest. Wegman contended he parked in the space on official business.

Judge McMahon questioned Stanley De Neal, assistant corporation counsel at Police Court, about the regulation which bans the special spaces to the general public. Dissatisfied with the explanation, Judge McMahon instructed Mr. DeNeale to prepare additional information. He said he would hold in abeyance until January 15 any ruling on the case.

The validity of saving the spaces and authorization of permits for the use of the spaces are questions Judge McMahon wishes to clear up.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Standard Gas & Electric Co.'s preliminary construction budget for 1932 will total $25,015,966, says John J. O'Brien, president of the company. Projects now under construction at properties in the system, amounting to $3,508,034, will not be completed this year and their costs are included in the estimate.

A membership on the New York Cocoa Exchange was sold today for $1,800, or $100 more than the last previous transaction.

Arrangements were made today for the sale of a membership on the New York Metal Exchange at $900, an increase of $170 over the last previous sale.

An amendment to the rules of the Rubber Exchange of New York, Inc., adopted today provide that transactions can not be hereafter made at prices varying more than 3 cents a pound above or below the closing prices of the previous day. The previous price variation allowed daily was 5 cents a pound.

Inquiry for copper is showing some improvement, apparently because of reports that producers are nearing an agreement for curtailment of production.

Standard Statistics Co. estimates that this year's profits of the chemical industry will be about 25 per cent under those of 1930 compared with a probable decline of 50 per cent in aggregate corporate earnings. The more favorable returns in this trade are attributed primarily to substantial operating economies and to more satisfactory prices than have prevailed in most other fields.

The New York Rubber Exchange today voted to close on the Saturdays following Christmas and New Year.

Lyman Delano today was elected chairman of the board of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway Co., succeeding the late Henry Walters. Delano was formerly executive vice president of the road. Frederick B. Adams was elected a member of the executive committee.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. had 642,180 registered stockholders on its books as of December 15, the largest total for any corporation in the world and a new high record for American Telephone & Telegraph. The figures exclude incompleted installment purchases by Bell System employes. In the first half of December the number of shareholders increased 5,337.

The International Telephone & Telegraph Co. was informed today that the bill presented by the Spanish cabinet to the Cortes for taking over the Spanish National Telephone Co., an associate of International, had been withdrawn.

Why Do You Suffer So?

MOST young women wonder why they have to suffer periodically. It was not meant to be that those awful cramps should make you "blue" and despondent, with headache or sideache, and that you should have to give up all appointments and all your work. Dr. Pierce has discovered a harmless tablet, which is not a narcotic, called "Paygon," that relieves the pain. This can be procured at any drug store in a tiny metal box easy to carry.

This is what Mrs. L. Benoit, of Webster, Mass., has to say about Dr. Pierce's Paygon: "I have suffered from periodic pains in my head and abdomen ever since I can remember. A friend advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Paygon Tablets and I have taken them only twice and I cannot recommend them enough. They have done wonders. I hope young girls and women who suffer will get relief by using Dr. Pierce's Paygon. These tablets are splendid, the wonderful way they helped me."

SYLVIA LENT STARS WITH KINDLER MEN

Washington Violinist Wins Acclaim as Soloist for Symphony.

The National Symphony Orchestra in its concert at Constitution Hall yesterday afternoon had as soloist one of Washington's most talented artists, Miss Sylvia Lent, violinist. Miss Lent has not only gained renown in this city but elsewhere in the world as well and the audience gave her a royal welcome when she appeared on the stage yesterday. The concert was under the management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

Hans Kindler's magic baton drew much beauty from the orchestra, which rises in well-won commendation each time it is heard, in the performance of Beethoven's "Overture to Egmont" and Handel's "Passacaglia," which was played for the first time in Washington. The ensemble tone was excellent.

Miss Lent, a slender girlish figure, attractive in rose silk, was given an ovation when she appeared with the orchestra to play the violin part in Mozart's ever lovely "Concerto in A Major," with its three entrancing movements.

That she is a virtuoso of more than ordinary ability was soon demonstrated. Her command of the violin is that of the master and she has the gift of vivid interpretation as well. It was noted especially that she possesses deftness of bowing so necessary to bring out the sparkling, joyous quality of Mozart.

Another orchestral number which had its first presentation here yesterday was "Two Indian Dances," by Charles Sanford Skilton, modern in type and admirably interpreted by Washington's own orchestra. "Finlandia," by Jean Sibelius, a tone poem, concluded the program to the satisfaction of all.

Oil Heads in Meeting Fear Chaos in Industry

St. Louis, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Some plan to avoid chaos in the Nation's oil industry because of overproduction and expected further crude oil price declines was being sought by directors of the American Petroleum Institute tonight after they finished the first day of their meeting with nothing definite agreed upon.

About 40 of the 72 members of the board of the institute, including some of the most important figures in the oil business, are here for the meeting. Amos L. Beaty, of New York, president of the institute, describing conditions as "the worst the industry has ever experienced," said he hoped some plan would be evolved.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THERE is balm even in frustration. My own plans for Monday early evening having, as usual, gone askew, it is a pleasure to reproduce for you here, and now, the contribution of a helpful associate whose luck was better in the matter of getting to Lawrence Tibbett backstage at Constitution Hall than mine was in achieving the same end at the Mayflower Hotel. From this point on, it is the voice of my informant speaking:

"The Merry Widow" with Lawrence Tibbett and Gloria Swanson! A dazzling, but, as yet, indefinite, prospect according to Tibbett himself, told at 7:20 Monday evening, after having held the stage of Constitution Hall in concert since 4:30.

He had just sung 27 songs! A full program almost twice over, and he sang whatever his enthusiastic (greedy, is a better word) audience called for. He sang "Mandalay" with a Cockney accent, he lamented over Ernest Torrence's "Sweet Kitty O'Shea," he showed his great acting ability and almost forgot he was unpainted, uncostumed and on a concert stage in "Glory Road" and "Edward," and then (by demand, not just request) he sang his movie songs —"Without a Song," from "The Southerner;" "Looking at You" and "Cuban Love Song."

Finally, at 7 o'clock, he stopped singing and began signing programs, after being mobbed in his dressing room. And, after all that, at 7:20, already overdue at the Mayflower for the signing of that momentous radio contract, he had time to talk to one of those pushing movie-chatter people.

Temperament? High-hat? Etc., and etc., Tibbett doesn't seem to know what they mean.

He plans to make a picture next summer. That picture is not yet decided upon, he says, but "The Merry Widow" is being most seriously considered.

"Swell," say we. "And the Widow?"

The widow, he admits, is very important. There are Gloria Swanson, Irene Dunne and Jeanette McDonald, he says, "and who else?" We opine that Gloria as the Widow would be rather sweet. He agrees, stating, "Of course, to me, Gloria would seem the perfect Widow." So maybe, we can hope.

Of his four pictures to date, he likes "Rogue Song," as a picture, but his own work in "Cuban Love Song," best. The latter picture was, he believes, mighty thin as to story but good entertainment and his work, he thought, seemed smoother than before.

Asked about the cutting of "Glory Road," from "The Southerner," Tibbett told of "the perfectly awful time" they had with that picture. It was being made just about the time Hollywood was frightened to death of everything in general, and musical pictures in particular. "I considered myself fortunate, to hang on through that period," Tibbett said.

Even in the original film, he cut "Glory Road" somewhat, for it is as long as it is lovely, but notwithstanding that the moguls and powers that be, terrified at a 5-minute song, chopped it off some editions, so that some of us heard and saw what Tibbett thinks was "the perfect ending" of the picture, some of us didn't and many of us, who went more than once, saw both.

We apologized for the badly-behaved audience. Tibbett laughed. "I love it," he said, and he seemed to mean it. "A well-behaved audience is, well, there's nothing worse. I loved the way you called out for what you wanted."

Then he had to sign more programs, and a little boy appeared with a drawing of Tibbett to be signed. It was. He presented another. It was signed. This went on for some time.

After that, Larry Tibbett had to explain to a young friend in a green dress that he had loved the gardenias she had sent, but couldn't wear them during the concert because their heavy fragrance is bad for the throat. The 10-year-old sniffed back her disappointment, and said rather disdainfully, "I knew it would be a sensible reason."

So he signed her program too, and she told him his signature got better each time he signed, and their friendship was renewed.

Then very pleasant good-byes, including regrets that he's not coming here in opera this year, and off he went to the Mayflower and the radio contract and more newspaper people.

DOROTHEA LEWIS.

Well, the secret is out! and you'll never in the world guess what RKO-Keith's Christmas present to the theatergoers of Washington is to be! That is to say, you never will unless you have been reading Variety for the last month and the local press for the past several weeks.

Yes sir, you DID guess it, after all—vaudeville! Who'd have imagined?

Letters, it seems, have been passing back and forth between Joseph Plunkett, general manager of all Radio-Keith-Orpheum theaters in the United States, and Hardie Meakin, manager of the local RKO-Keith house, in which much stress has been laid upon the sentimental interest that attaches to vaudeville in the National Capitral by reason of the late Woodrow Wilson's devotion to this form of theatrical entertainment and for other good and sufficient reasons. The boys apparently have had a pretty swell time tossing nosegays back and forth.

I have copies of some of the letters before me. In addition to making the inauguration of the vaudeville policy certain for Christmas day, this paragraph from Mr. Plunkett's last communication strikes me as being the gist of the whole merry business:

"As to the policy to be pursued, we fully realize that, with such traditions to live up to, the programs must be the best obtainable not only one week, but every week. The selection of acts will be confined to the high standard obtainable only through RKO. This I assure you most definitely will be the policy adhered to. In addition, I assure you the feature pictures, which will naturally be a very important factor in your program, will continue to be selected under the same high standards as heretofore maintained."

Pardon my soiled gloves, gentlemen, but how do you mean, "UNDER the same high standards?"

It is going to be quite a scramble for business that will get under way on Ohristmas Day, incidentally.

RKO-Keith's will have Harry Langdon, former screen comic, as the headliner of its initial stage bill; the Earle will have Joe Penner, a favorite with local audiences, in the same capacity, and at the Palace Conrad Nagel will appear in person.

Miss Joan Marsh, who was to have accompanied Mr. Nagel, will not be seen in Washington at this time, according to late advices.

It will be the same combination at the Earle, by the way, that held the house record prior to the personal engagement of Joe E. Brown that will be seen there again week after next—Joe Penner on the stage and Winnie Lightner on the screen. At that, they still hold the record in point of number of paid admissions, but not in money, since Joe Brown enjoyed the benefit of a holiday, when night prices prevailed all day.

Alice White, at the Earle last week, was right up there among the leaders, too, with the number of paid admissions crowding close on Joe E. Brown's heels, but no intervening holiday to bring up the gross receipts.

Hope you are as well organized as this department in the matter of this Xmas shopping business.

As per habit of years, I'm all ready to do mine early—next Thursday afternoon!

FRIDAY DECEMBER 18, 1931 SPORTS

7 S. CONFERENCE SCHOOLS FORM 'PURE' DIVISION

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

SEVEN prominent members of the Southern Conference yesterday banded in an "inner circle" to take the lead in drastic football reforms. They have already been dubbed the "Holier Than Thou" League.

The limit in "All-this-and-that" football selections was reached yesterday with the suggestion by Walter Haight that an all-South Atlantic Professional League team be picked from among the players of the four teams who used their right names in the series.

Alan Gould, sports editor of the Associated Press, is quering member papers for answers to four questions from which compendium he will announce the greatest developments of the year in sports.

His questions and the opinions of this column follows:

What was the greatest individual achievement of the year?—Pepper Martin's performance in the world series.

What was the greatest team achievement of the year?—Southern California's victory over the Notre Dame eleven.

What was the greatest upset of the year?—Southern California's 16-14 defeat of Notre Dame after trailing by 14 points in the final quarter.

What was the outstanding sports story of the year?—Knute Rockne's tragic death in airplane accident last March.

The reported engagement of Jim Londos and a former Greek prize beauty winner is the latest version of what happens when Greek meets Greek.

Chick Meehan will return to his desk as vice president of a contracting firm despite his coaching experience at New York University and the change of heart by N. Y. U. authorities on "big time" football, which was more than he had contracted for.

Bozeman Bulger, writing currently in the Saturday Evening Post on Babe Ruth, is the author of the best quip following the sale of the New York World on which he was a valued member of the sports staff for 29 years.

"I never thought it was a permanent job, anyway," said Bulger.

The figure filberts estimate that members of the Curley wrestling troupe which operates in Washington may be cross matched 244 times before it is necessary to repeat any given match between two given wrestlers.

Washington race fans are anticipating the installation of the "daily double" feature of the mutuels at Maryland tracks next season. In conducting the "daily double" at New Orleans, the track designates two races on the program and the money bet goes into a separate pool to be divided among those holding tickets on the two winners.

But the safest way of playing the races was illustrated during the Bowie meeting by a member of The Post's sports staff who picked up two $20 bills in the betting ring on his way to the mutuel window.

Figures may not lie but they must do a lot of explaining to show how Bump Hadley was fourth in point of effectiveness in the American League last season and able to finish only 2 of the 15 games he started.

And those who found fault with Buddy Myer's fielding last season with the admonition that he would never make a big league second baseman can cast an eye over the averages which show him tied with Max Bishop at the top of the league with a .984 average.

Southerners in Washington can ponder the fact that Tulane, which meets Southern California on New Year's day, was able to beat Georgia only 20 to 7, while Southern California defeated the same team, 60 to 0. Then they can take consolation from the fact that comparative scores in football mean less than nothing.

As a matter of fact, it was pointed out at one time this season, when the debate was raging over the respective merits of Tulane and Notre Dame before the Irish were beaten by Southern California, that comparative scores showed Tulane something like 46 points better than Notre Dame, and by the same method of figuring showed that Tulane was 27 points better than itself.

The very title of Sam Hardy handicaps that gentleman in his controversy with young Sidney Wood, the prize disappointment of America's 1931 international tennis team. If there is any term that personifies a fifth wheel in all its usefulness, it is the nonplaying captain of the Davis Cup Team, which title is owned by Hardy, otherwise an estimable gentleman.

Gallaudet Host Tonight To Shenandoah Five

Gallaudet College's five looks for a strenuous argument tonight when it engages the Shenandoah College quintet from Dayton, Va., in the Kendall Green Gym, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. The Virginia Club is concluding a three-day sojourn in the Capital.

Though victorious in their inaugural against Strayer College last week, the Blues showed some faults in shooting which Coach Krug has endeavored to correct in hard practices the past four days. The Blues' attack bogged down in the second half and Strayer all but overhauled them near the finish.

Brown and Jensen, who scored most of Gallaudet's points in the Strayer contest, will start at forwards tonight, with Walnoha at center and Rayhill and Monaghan at guards.

Capital Boys Return With Duke Five

Thompsons, Jim and Herb, to Oppose G. U. Tonight.

Former D. C. Youths Have Notable Record With Invaders.

COMING to Washington tonight for a two-day campaign with District teams, Duke University's basket ball outfit once more finds much of its bone and tissue in a brace of local boys. This time it is the Thompson brothers, Jim and Herbert, just as previous Duke teams have been dominated by Bill Werber, Chalky Councilor, Joe Croson, Ted Capelli and Nelson Colley.

Jim and Herb Thompson, who are sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Thompson, 1692 Thirty-first street, went to Duke after entrenching their athletic reputations in basket ball and baseball at Western High. Herb was an all-high infielder, and Jim an all-high forward and leading point scorer of the 1929-1930 high school series.

Jim Gains Fame as Brilliant Shot.

Both will see service tonight against Georgetown at Tech gym, Jim from the start of activities and Herb at strategic moments. At Duke Jim has earned the reputation of being one of the greatest shots ever to matriculate at the Durham school. Herb is a guard, and considered as good a floor man as there is on the squad. Tomorrow night they will be in the line-up against Catholic University.

The Washington influence in Duke sports, particularly basket ball, began in 1928 and broke out in full flower in 1929, when Werber, Councillor and Croson, former Tech High boys, carried their team to the final of the Southern Conference championship at Atlanta. Werber was chosen all-Southern guard for two years, and is still claimed by Southern fans as the best guard ever to play college ball. Councillar, wily forward, now teaching classes and basket ball at the Y. M. C. A. here, captained Duke in his last year and, as Werber, twice was all-Southern.

Croson, six-foot-four of basket ball center, averaged 10 points a game in three years of varsity play. He is now helping to coach the Devils.

Capelli and Colley, of Eastern and Central, respectively, rallied well when Werber and Councillor graduated, and earned fame aboard the 1930-31 outfit. Capelli, at present out of school, will return to Duke in February and see service. Both Thompsons are sophomores, as is the bulk of the team.

Mesmer Drives Hilltoppers.

Georgetown anticipates a hard game from Duke tonight and with this in mind drilled intensively yesterday for an hour and a half at the Hilltop under Coach Freddie Mesmer. After sending his men through a session, including a brisk scrimmage and winding up with a speedy passing drill, Mesmer called them aside for an old-fashioned "pep" talk in which he stated, among other things, that he was not pleased with the spirit shown by a certain few. He also asserted that every position on the regular team was still open for competition.

Facing the Blue Devils at the starting whistle will be Capt. Dick King and Bill Connors, forwards; Jim Murphy, center, and Tommy Carolan and Joe O'Neill, guards. All but King are sophomores. Carolan takes the place filled by Jack Crowley against Mount St. Mary's in the Hilltop's winning debut last Tuesday.

Little to Captain Fives Next Season

Charlottesville Grid Team Finishes Season With 11 Wins, 2 Defeats.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 17.—Crowell Little, of Asheville, N. C., quarter back, has been elected captain of the 1932 eleven at the Charlottesville School for Boys, better known as The Fives.

Under the coaching of Headmaster Bob Osborn, the Fives had a remarkable record the past season. Of fourteen games played, eleven were won, two lost and one tied. A total of 359 points were scored, as against 75 by their opponents. Average points scored per game, 25 9-14. The record:

Fives, 31; Staunton "Y," 6.
Fives, 41; Staunton High, 0.
Fives, 28; Fredericksburg High, 0.
Fives, 28; Culpeper High, 6.
Fives, 27; South Boston High, 6.
Fives, 53; Waynesboro High, 0.
Fives, 19; Alexandria High, 7.
Fives, 32; Thomas Jefferson High, 0.
Fives, 27; Emerson Prep, 7.
Fives, 0; Hopewell High, 0.
Fives, 14; Hargrave Military Academy, 20.
Fives, 7; Hampden-Sidney Freshmen, 10.
Fives, 26; Randolph-Macon College "B" Team, 7.
Fives, 26; Central High, Washington, 6.

Football letters have been awarded to the following members of the 1931 squad: Richard Payne, captain; Mac Roy Gasque, Ralph Little, Gordon Marshall, Clyde Barnet, Leroy Strickler, Cosby O'Neill, Harold O'Neil, Harry Dinwiddie, Ralph Breeden, An Davis, Johnny Roberts, Mike Williams, Lindsay Barnes, Marion Brooks and Crowell Little.

These boys were all given purple sweaters, with purple and white "Fives" acros sthe front.

Ingram Warns Bears Of Georgia Tech Game

Berkely, Calif., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The University of California Bears, preparing for their first invasion of the Southeast, were warned today by Head Coach Navy Bill Ingram against overconfidence in the post-season contest with Georgia Tech at Atlanta, December 26.

Ingram, whose first year as head coach at California was crowned with a triumph over Stanford, traditional rival, indicated he expected to "shoot the works" against the Southerners in an attempt to gain revenge for Tech's victory over the Bears in the Rose Bowl game January 1, 1929.

Law and Brill Out Of Coaching Posts

Former Quits Manhattan Post; Latter Will Not Return to Columbia.

New York, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—John Law, captain of the unbeaten 1929 Notre Dame eleven and head coach of football at Manhattan College for two years, announced his resignation today.

Law indicated he had no other coaching position in view at present.

At the same time, Marty Brill, who was assistant coach at Columbia this year after winding up his gridiron career at Notre Dame, disclosed he did not intend to return to this job next season.

At Columbia, Reynolds Benson, graduate manager, said Brill was working under a one-season contract only and had not discussed a renewal of it. Benson said Columbia would regret losing Brill, who specialized in teaching the fine art of blocking.

1931 NATS TIE MACKMEN IN FIELDING

Two Clubs Lead With .976 Average, Table Shows.

The complete table of American League fielding averages for 1931, will be found on Page 14.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

HAD the Nationals' pitching been as effective as the other half of their defensive play—fielding—last season's race would have been much closer than it was and the members of Walter Johnson's staff probably would have drawn at least a second-place share of the world's series pot if not actually participating in the October handicap themselves. Official fielding figures have just been released and they show the Nats and Athletics in a tie for leadership, with averages of .976.

Both teams smashed the previous record with respect to making the least number of errors, the Mackmen being charged with 141 while the Nats made 142. The Yankees held previous low figures when they "booted" 144 back in 1923. In this respect, the Washingtonians, while making one more miscue than did the Athletics, accepted 139 more chances.

Oliver's 448 Chances Set Outfield Mark.

Two other records were broken, Tommy Oliver, of the Red Sox, accepting 448 chances in the outfield and the Yankee catching staff being charged with no passed balls, while Oscar Melillo, St. Louis second-sacker, came close to another. The latter accepted 971 chances, coming within 17 of Larry Lajoie's mark whih has stood since 1908.

Taking the figures by positions, the Nationals furnished two leaders and the same number of runners-up. Bluege topped the regular third-sackers, with a mark of .960, while Buddie Myer tied with Max Bishop, of the A's, for honors among the second basemen. Jimmy Dykes, of the Mackmen, actually topped the Nat hot-corner guardian, but played in only 87 games to 152 for Bluege.

Joe Cronin and Sam West were Nats who finished second. Hal Rhyne, of the Red Sox, beat Cronin, .963 to .950, among the short stops, while West was runner-up to Oliver among the regular flychasers. The latter had the exceptional average of .993, making but three errors in 451 chances. West's record was nearly as good. He miscued but four times, while being credited with 402 putouts and 13 assists.

Burns, Browns, Tops First Basemen.

Irving Burns, of the St. Louis Browns, showed the way to the first basemen with a .993 rating. This was surpassed by four others, including Joe Judge, but this quartet played in only a few games. Joe Kuhel, Nat regular, finished in a tie for fourth with Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, this pair having an average of .991.

Twelve pitchers finished with perfect fielding averages with Lloyd Brown trailing this first group with a .986, while Roy Spencer was third among the regular back-stoppers, being topped by Bill Dickey, of the Yankees, and Mickey Cochrane, of the Athletics. Spencer's rating of .985, is 11 points lower than that of the leader.

While Meyer and Bishop had better averages than Melillo, the latter proved himself the most valuable of the trio. He had 428 putouts, 543 assists, and only 32 errors, while taking part in 118 double-plays. Meyer was second in taking part in twin-killings, with 87, three more than Bishop figured in.

Cronin participated in more double-plays than did any of his rivals, Kuhel figured in the third greatest number for first-sackers, while Bluege

Southern Coaches Elect Harry Gamage

New Orleans, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The Southern Conference Football Coaches Association tonight elected Harry Gamage, head coach at University of Kentucky, as president for the coming year. He succeeds oCach H. C. Byrd, of Maryland.

J. Y. Hughes Reelected Head of D. C. Umpires

James Y. (Shorty) Hughes was re-elected president of the District of Columbia Baseball Umpires Association at the regular monthly meeting of that organization, held last night. Hughes has long been identified with the diamond sport and is well-known in local sporting circles.

ther officers elected were G. Harris (Doc) White, who succeeds James R. Green as vice president, and John C. Ahearn, who assumes the secretarial duties reliquished by E. G. Purdy. The new officials will serve for one year. Last season was one of the most successful ever enjoyed by the association. Its members officiated in all games played by teams in The Post's Capital City League.

Grid Is Raked By Fire of Reform

Scarcely Day Passes Without Charge of Overemphasis.

N. Y. U. Explosion Is Loudest; Changes Already Effected.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Football which for the last golden decade has extracted unestimated millions from an admiring public, appears to have come down with a painful, if not serious, attack of indigestion.

From far and wide today tidings indicated the well-known king of American sports, like a warrior after the feast, is in need of some expert medical attention. At any rate, he is getting it, whether he needs it or not.

Scarcely a day has passed since Thanksgiving that some coach or athletic director or athletic system has not received a broadside. Charges have ranged from simple overemphasis to direct accusations of professionalism, many of them possibly inspired by football's heavy death list for 1931.

N. Y. U. Explosion Is Loudest.

The loudest explosion thus far emanated from New York University, where Coach "Chick" Meehan handed in his resignation and declared he was through with "high pressure" football forever. His resignation came on the eve of the university's announcement of a "new era" in sports, where there would be no proselyting, or emphasis on football and the game would be given back to the boys.

Columbia, a sister institution, likewise has been in an uproar as a result of charges and rumored charges of professionalism, but these stood repudiated today by athletic leaders.

Columbia has reorganized its athletic structure within the past year, as has Pennsylvania and Syracuse.

Since the big upheaval began two years ago, changes in coaching, as well as other features of the athletic systems, have been effected at California, Penn State, West Virginia, Harvard, Princeton, Minnesota, Georgia Tech, Alabama, Duke, Washington, Oregon and Ohio State.

Legislature Probing Wisconsin U.

Athletics at the University of Wisconsin are under the scrutiny of a legislative committee, which is investigating the cause of a financial deficit for the last two years. George Little already has resigned as athletic director and it is reported Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite is none too sure of his job. Wisconsin's sport budget for next year already has been cut by $40,000.

Burt Ingwerson, of Iowa, was another coach to relinquish his post as a result of unrest in the athletic department.

Yale, without waiting for the season to end, announced a reorganization of its athletic structure, designed to take all branches of sports out of the hands of alumni and vest the faculty with supreme authority.

Colrick, G. U. Coach, In Chariyt Grid Game

Johnny Colrick, assistant football coach of Georgetown University, and a former Notre Dame end, will participate in a charity game at St. Louis this week-end. He will play on a team of Notre Dame "old timers" against an all-star team. Christy Flanagan and Johnny O'Brien, assistant coaches of the Naval Academy and also ex-Irish star, will also perform.

MIRACLES OF SPORTS. —By Robert Edgren

GARDENHEAD MAY BLOCK CHICAGO

Carey Aims to Stage Walker-Schmeling Bout in Miami.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—It does seem as if there can't be a sports story anywhere today without a tale of controversy.

First, it was tennis and football. Now comes prize fighting and the championship defense Max Schmeling seems determined to wage against the pudgy middleweight, Mickey Walker, to break up a beautiful friendship and line up a couple of old comrades in legal debate.

Out in Chicago George Getz, a wealthy citizen with a flair for fight promotion, apparently has won a tricity struggle for what may be the booby prize of boxing. The Illinois Legislature will lengthen to fifteen the limit of rounds imposed on championship tilts. Schmeling and Walker will meet in the Chicago stadium in February.

Carey Wants Match In Miami.

But Bill Carey, president of Madison Square Garden and a close friend of Getz, wants to stage the match in Miami, if it has to be fought anywhere, and, to a lesser degree, Los Angeles, where the Olympic spirit is riding high. He has one contract on Schmeling's services which the champion now believes has expired.

Many pinochle hands in Carey's lavish offices in the Garden have failed to convince Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, that this contract is still in force, or Carey that there is any real reason for such a match at all. But Carey will call in the law to prevent any promoter from employing the Teuton while his own contract is in force.

Getz at War With Former Partners.

So the Chicago issue finds Carey glaring at his old friend and promising injunctions and other legal measures that never fail to fail, but always increase the box-office receipts. Getz, who fought at the side of the late Tex Rickard in promoting the second Tunney-Dempsey match in Chicago in 1927, finds himself warring now against former partners in behalf of the Illinois unemployed.

Schmeling will be guaranteed $200,000 for his effort on behalf of charity, and Getz says the stadium can be scaled at $25 tops to take in $400,000. From there on the details are a trifle vague.

Runner Races on Snow Mile With Bare Foot

Pullman, Wash., Dec. 17 (A.P.). A few little things like snow, ice, mud and a bare foot didn't bother William Shye, Po Ell, Wash., in the annual "Turkey Trot" three-mile track race here recently.

One of 160 to start, Shye finished in sixth place, although he lost his right shoe and had to run the last mile with a bare foot through the icy snow.

James Anderson, Spokane, finished first in 15 minutes 2 seconds.

Walker Remarried To Dispel Illegality

Shewsbury, N. J., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Mickey Walker, former middleweight boxing champion of the world, for the second time was married to Clara Helmers, December 5, it was revealed today.

Justice of the Peace Elmer C. Wayn Right, who remarried the couple, said Walker had the ceremony performed "to eliminate any doubt" that his marriage March 23 might be illegal, because final decree of divorce from his first wife had not been granted at that time.

PROS TO TEST NEW BALL TODAY

Heavier Pellet Will Be in Use in $4,000 Pasadena Open.

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 17 (A.P.). On the same course where the 1931 "balloon ball" had its tournament play inaugural, the new golf ball, same size but .06 ounce heavier, will get its first real test in the annual Pasadena $4,000 open tomorrow.

One hundred and eighty of the Nation's ranking professionals and amateurs, including holders of the 1931 open and P. G. A. championships and the defending titleholder, will participate. The 72-hole tourney terminates Sunday.

The Pasadena open marks the beginning of the annual Southern California trek down the golden trail of the winter season—a journey which promises to be somewhat less lucrative than last season—due to the trimming of prize money in the two major events, the Los Angeles open and the Agua Caliente open, and the absence of one of last year's championships, the motion picture tournament.

Burke and Creavy On Scene.

Billy Burke, national open champion from New York; Tom Creavy, Albany, N. Y., national P. G. A. titleholder, and Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., defending titleholder, are already on hand, not to mention Walter Hagen, Macdonald Smith, George Von Elm, Johnny Golden, and Wiffy Cox, who recently annexed the San Francisco match play title.

Horton Smith, 1929 champion, who suffered a fractured left wrist at San Francisco, after leading the qualifiers for the tournament there, expects to be a member of the gallery.

There is much comment as to what effect the new ball will have on the play. With the heavier but smaller ball in vogue in 1929, Smith toured the long-range course in 280 for 72 holes, but Manero's winning total was 287 last year with the lighter ball in fashion.

The professionals touring the Brookside course here in practice with the new large and heavy pellet are of the opinion that it will better the scores this season, as their drives are longer and the putts appear much easier to sink.

Hired Players Condemned By Group

Commissioner to Seek Out Violators Is Proposed.

Prominent Members of Body Take Lead in Reforms.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Pledged to pure amateurism in sports, seven Southern Conference colleges to day organized the long discussed inner circle in the conference, with a program to curb the recruiting of prospective athletes in secondary schools and to eliminate any appearance of athletic subsidies.

"The public is getting tired of going to see supposedly amateur games and having to watch hired athletes perform," Prof. L. C. Glenn, faculty chairman of athletics at Vanderbilt and chairman of the new group, said between sessions of the circle.

"The trend in college sports is reflected in smaller gate receipts and the attitude of the student bodies themselves. Students don't root like they used to, because they can't get enthusiastic over hired players."

North Carolina Not Represented.

Kentucky, Vanderbilt, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Florida, Auburn and Tulane are the schools definitely committed to the inner circle program. North Carolina, which had indicated it would affiliate when the group was tentatively formed in Atlanta last September, was not represented.

Prof. Glenn said it was not the intention of the group to split the Southern Conference, which holds its annual meeting here tomorrow, but rather the hope that the more stringent regulations would be adopted by the whole conference.

The group will not be known as the 'Big Ten" as it has been unofficially dubbed. Prof. Glenn explaining it was inappropriate since there were not ten members and some of those in it were not among the biggest schools in the conference.

A name was expected to be decided upon later today. Prof. Glenn said the inner group will give preference in schedules to each other and to such nonaffiliated schools as will adhere to their standards.

"We propose to work out of games with schools which do not adhere," he said, "our object being to induce the conference to join us in carrying out these measures."

"We want to curb the recruiting of prospective athletes from the secondary schools," Glenn said. "As things stand now, a promising prep man is pulled in a half dozen directions by alumni and representatives of large schools.

"We want to curb, minimize, or eliminate the glaring evil of athletic subsidiaries we are hearing so much about in the South and all over the country."

Heated Arguments Seen Today.

Heated arguments were predicted tomorrow as delegates arriving early, made public proposed amendments to the constitution and by-laws to regulate football.

The score of proposed amendments includes the creation of the position of commissioners empowered to enforce the rules and to report infractions to the executive committee, a prohibition against broadcasting football games, limitation of a season's games to eight and stiff control over scouting and recruiting of student athletes.

The text of some of the proposed amendments follows:

"All personal scouting by anyone connected with a member institution is prohibited.

"Motion pictures and still cameras shall not be used for scouting purposes or team instruction during the current year.

"No one employed by or officially connected with the Athletic staff, the alumni, or other association of a member institution, or in any way employed by the institution shall engage in recruiting athletes.

"All scholarship and loan funds for which athletes are eligible must be placed in the hands of the university officer or committee that usually administers such funds. Full record shall be kept of the source and distribution of such funds. The use, for recruiting and maintaining athletes, of funds whose existence is supposed to be kept secret is entirely reprehensible, since it violates the entire spirit of true sportsmanship.

Commissioner to Seek Out Violators.

"The executive committee of the conference shall employ and fix the compensation of a commissioner whose duties it shall be to visit member institutions in the interest of the enforcement of the rules of the conference. He shall report to the executive committee any infractions of the rules of the conference. The salary and necessary expenses of the commissioner shall be prorated among the member institutions.

"Freshman football teams of this conference shall be allowed to play a maximum of four games only, one of which shall be away from the college campus."

It was announced that C. L. Hare, of Auburn, president of the conference, is ill and can not attend the meetings and that Vice President C. P. Miles of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, will preside.

Hear Ye! Hear Ye! Pegler Plans New System for Nation's Craps Shooters

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—A force of detectives raided an apartment in a big New York hotel the other night and arrested a party of sportsmen who were playing a game with dice and using money to keep the score. The name of the dice game was craps and, under the scoring system, the sportsman who accumulated the most money was to be regarded as the winner of the contest and some sort of champion.

In another hotel, not a mile from the first one, another contest of a similar nature has been going on for some time. The game is played with cards and is called cohtract bridge. There are two sides. One is composed of Sidney Lenz and Oswald Jacoby. The other side is composed of the Ely Culbertsons, Mr. and Mrs. The Lenz side is playing the standard, or official, system of this game and the Culbertsons are playing their own system, known as the everybody-is-out-of-step-but-me system.

Only One Recognized System.

In one respect there might appear to be a radical difference between this card game and the game of craps. In craps, the shake-rattle-and-roll system is the only recognized system, and any one who attempts to use any other system, such as the slide-roll system, is deemed guilty of unsportsmanlike conduct and is likely to be tossed out a high window.

However, I am told that the difference between the standard system and the everybody-is-out-of-step-but me system is largely imaginary because they are absolutely parallel to the extent of about 85 per cent and each system borrows from the other at will for the other 15 per cent, making them practically interchangeable. Thus it would seem that the parties engaged in the sedentary Battle of the Century in a suite at an expensive hotel are taking a lot of time and trouble to argue the difference between one fish and the same fish.

But far be it from me to interfere with another man's business when he is doing a good business and I am about to borrow Mr. Culbertson's idea and promote myself a little business the same way.

I have always wished to live, rent-free, in a large suite in an expensive hotel.

Will Always Wager Dice Are Wrong.

My first step will be to announce the Pegler system in craps and write a book about it. This system will be exactly the same as the shake-rattle-and-roll system except that I will always refuse to shoot and will always wager that the party having the dice is wrong, using the standard odds at all times. There are devotees of the game who believe it is better to handle the dice at every opportunity and to wager on the party having them when somebody else is shooting. I have not yet developed the details of my contention but that will be a matter of only a few nights' work and the book will be out soon, selling for $5, under the title, "That's Right; He's Wrong."

In this book I will attack Mr. Abe Attell, one of the great exponents of the opposite, or optimistic, system of crap-shooting, who will also get out a book under the title of "That's Wrong; He's Right." Mr. Culbertson stimulated the sales of his book and his syndicated articles on the difference between one fish and the same fish by denouncing Mr. Lenz as an old whist player. In my controveray with Mr. Attell I shall denounce him as an old parchesi player.

"Mr. Attell attempts to enforce upon the great body of free American

Loughran to Fight Levinsky Again With Bitter Memory

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Another youngster, wired for sound, has appeared out of the Midwest to challenge loudly the baffling skill of Tommy Loughran, most scientific heavyweight of the present fistic era.

He is King Levinsky, a confident, talkative 190-pounder from Chicago who lays them among the daisies with right hands that come all the way from the floor. One unfortunate experience with Loughran in the past has not dimmed his eagerness. They meet tomorrow night again in the ten-round final bout at Madison Square Garden.

Floored Loughran In Last Meeting.

When Levinsky, best of the Jewish heavyweights since Joe Choynski and the answer to a promoter's prayer, first tackled the Philadelphia Phantom in Chicago, Loughran outpointed him in ten rounds, but he had to get up from the floor in the second after a right to the jaw and a nine count to do it.

Levinsky, born in New York but fighting here for the first time, has added 20 pounds to his weight since then and bowled over a lot of heavyweights with his wild right hand. Loughran has piled up a string of decision conquests that sets him up again in the front ranks of the title contenders, with victories over Ernie Schaaf, Max Baer, Victorio Campolo, Joe Sekyra and Paulino Uzcudun among others.

California Heavies In Semifinal.

Two California middleweights, Benny Miller and Chick Devlin, will meet in a ten-round semifinal and Stanley Poreda, Jersey's promising young heavyweight, will test the latest German importation, Hans Schonrath, in another ten.

SIS ESTHER REPEATS AT JEFFERSON WITH STRETCH RUSH

3 to 1 Favorite Scores Over Interior

Polyfon Other Victor in "Daily Double" Which Pays $157.

Noah's Pride Shows Liking for Mud in Opening Sprint.

JEFFERSON PARK RACE TRACK, New Orleans, La., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—A featureless card was offered at the Shrewsbury oval this afternoon, but the fields were well balanced and well filled. The third race, decided over the mile and one-sixteenth distance, was for fillies and mares exclusively, and A. P. Canale's Sis Esther won her second race in a row, coming from behind to win going away from Interior. Aurica completed the picture.

Sis Esther covered the distance over a slow track in 1:51 2-5 and paid 3 to 1, giving favorite players their first score of the afternoon.

Sis Esther Rated Off Pace.

All Columbia, Aurica and Banal Girl ran closely bunched in their battle for the lead while Sis Esther was kept in a contending position off the pace to the head of the stretch. There Jockey Elston called on the filly and she bounded forward willingly, taking the lead from the tiring Banal Girl late in the stretch to win by three lengths. Interior came from far back to take the place by five lengths.

Noah's Pride, well handled by J. Battista, showed great fondness for the soft going and led home a capacity field of 2-year-olds in the 6-furlong opener. The son of Noah scored by two lengths over Open Hearth, while the latter nosed out Dizzy for the place. Noah's Pride was rated in fourth position behind Open Hearth, Lorraine S., and Cotton Time and went to the front when urged after straightening out in the stretch to draw clear handily. The winner paid $12.20.

J. Simpson's Polyfon was much superior to ordinary rivals in the second race, sweeping past the judges with four lengths of daylight over Silver Wave. Runmaid lost the place by half a length. Cockrill was the heavy favorite, but he broke very slowly and made up enough ground to finish fifth. Polyfon sprinted into the lead in the first furlong and never gave his backers cause for apprehension once he took command, paying them $19.00 for $2.

The finish of the fourth race, a 6-furlong dash for members of the older division, brought the crowd to its feet when Whileaway and My Hobby, both well played, reached the goal line noses apart as named. Participate was third a length and a half away. A perfect start found all ten leaving almost on a line and they did not spread out until they reached the far turn. Alamae led the field into the stretch, but she was swallowed up in the final furlong. Whileaway came wide turning for home, but closed gamely in the best going and outlasted My Hobby at the end. The winner paid $8.60.

Matthew Wins in Mud, Paying $38.20.

The fifth race, run through a driving rain and over a muddy track, resulted in an upset victory for Matthew, which paid $38.20 and won by four lengths from Zalla. Dar-Fur came from far back to finish third, eight lengths off Zalla. Zalla cut out the running, but Matthew, which forced the pace, easily took command in the stretch and galloped away at his rider's leisure.

Mutual Friend, at $18.80 for $2, made every post a winning one in the mile and a furlong of the sixth number, splashing home by six lengths. Jeff O'Neil beat Erin Go Bragh by a length for the place. Viola Stinson tried to overhaul the winner, but stopped after turning for home, Jeff O'Neil taknig up the task, but with no success. Erin Go Bragh made up many lengths from a sluggish beginning.

Chatson, at $11 for $2, romped away with the seventh race, beating Uncle Charlie by four lengths. Louisville was third, a head farther back. Jockey J. Hernandez, who rode Tommy, was given 30 days' suspension for rough riding in this event. The boy interfered with Sally's Hour at the head of the stretch.

NO CONFLICT IN FIGHT DATES

Elks and Day Nursery Groups to Alternate at Alexandria.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Dec. 17.—Charity boxing shows sponsored by the Elks and Day Nursery chapters of Alexandria are to alternate weekly hereafter. Through mutual agreement these organizations last night agreed to function harmoniously and cooperatively.

Originally scheduled to sponsor attractions on Monday and Tuesday nights of next week, a compromise effected last night found the Day Nursery program proceeding on schedule, the Elks moving back their presentation to December 29. Furthermore both factions are to make use of the same arena, Portner's.

Originally intending to shoot their next attraction at Armory Hall, involving "Reds" Barry and Herman Weiner next Tuesday night, the Elks agreed to postpone their card when a further delay of Day Nursery's show was found impossible. Since Bob Godwin, who fights Sam Weiss here Monday night, is traveling here en route from Florida, the Elks consented to the change.

Contribute Substantially To Charity.

That the clubs, clicking on the above mentioned arrangement, may continue operations through April, was a hope expressed last night. Since both are contributing substantially to charity and are to feature topline bouts, there is every indication that all friction will be eliminated.

Within the next few days the Elks will announce their complete card, one that likely will take rank with the best of the 1931 season.

In the interim, Herman Weiner, who twice floored Sam Weiss before losing a close decision in Baltimore recently, has resumed training in the Oriole City. Sharpening a two-fisted attack carrying plenty of potency, is the objective of the Baltimore heavyweight at present.

Barry, in company with several spar-mates, will get down to intensive training at the Mohawk Club today.

NEW SYSTEM FOR CRAPS IS BORN

Pegler, a la Bridge, to Write Book on Best Style.

crap-shooters the antiquated principle that the dice are righter than they are wrong." I will say in one of my lectures before the Men's Club of Pelham Manor, N. Y. "Mr. Attell is nothing but an old parchesi player."

This will annoy Mr. Attell and all devotees of the That's Wrong; He's Right system, and there will be controversial letters to the editor from the corresponding secretary of the Evanston, Ill., Craps Club, the Germantown, Pa., Cricket Club (Craps Division) and the Wednesday Afternoon Ladies Acey-Deucy Club of New Canaan, Conn.

I have not yet picked out the hotel in which Mr. Attell and I will shoot it out, but I have been seeing a lot of publicity about the new Waldorf-Astoria and I think I would like to live there. I am going to try to make a deal with the Waldorf-Astoria for a whole floor for myself and family and the newspaper boys who will be hanging around to cover the contest.

"Rubbers" to Denote Pay-Off in Checks.

Mr. Culbertson has no bar in his suite, but I think we ought to have a bar and perhaps the management will provide one and keep it stocked when I point out that people who shoot craps are very, very rough on a dollar and will be likely to spend a lot of money there while watching the long contest.

As to the distance, I am in favor of 5,000 rubbers, and I think the term "rubbers" a very fortunate one for this contest because we will be paying off in checks.

I notice that a distinguished young Army officer, Lieut. Alfred M. Gruenther, an instructor in chemistry and electricity at the United States Military Academy, is serving as referee in the contract bridge contest, commuting between West Point and the scene of the battle every day. When the terrible strife of the evening is over, young Mr. Gruenther bundles up in a sleeping-bag and nightcap, turns in on a mattress in the rear end of his family sedan and sleeps while Mrs. Gruenther drives him back to the academy in time to teach his classes in the morning.

Sing Sing to Provide Referee.

I seem to be borrowing from Mr. Culbertson all the way along and here again I am adapting an idea of his for I am going to retain as our referee one of the best crap-shooters in Sing Sing, which is just across the river from West Point. We will be holding our rubbers—again that excellent word—at night, too, so the duties of the referee will not interfere in any way with his official work at Sing Sing. In fact, I am going to go Mr. Culbertson's plan one better in this respect. I am going to get Mr. Mulrooney, the police commissioner, to let us have a patron wagon so the referee can stretch out and feel perfectly at home.

I shall also give lessons in the Pegler system at the nominal price of $50 an hour to a few selected clients, not with any idea of monetary gain, but merely to keep the game on a high plane, and I am sure our game then will not be subjected to any more ill-mannered intrusions from common policemen.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—NOAH'S PRIDE, $12.20, $6.60, $3.60; OPEN HEARTH, $4.80, $3.60; DIZZY, $4.60.

NOAH'S PRIDE, kept close up from the start, took command from OPEN HEARTH entering the stretch and held a safe lead through the last furlong. OPEN HEARTH showed a fine effort and held on well. DIZZY, away well, met with interference in the stretch, but finished with a good rush and close up.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:35½. Off at 2:43½. Winner, J. S. Simpson's ch. g. (4), by Polymelian—Chiffon. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:15.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—POLYFON, $19.00, $8.00, $5.60; SILVER WAVE, $33.60, $11.80; RUNMAID, $12.00.

POLYFON, showing good speed from the start, raced BOGAN into defeat and, shaking off SILVER WAVE, drew out in the last furlong. SILVER WAVE held on well all the way. RUNMAID saved much ground and finished stoutly and came fast from a slow beginning. ROYAL SON held on gamely in close quarters.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:05½. Off at 3:06½. Winner, A. P. Canale's ch. f. (3), by Ambassador IV or Campfire—First Witch. Trained by A. Thomas. Value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:51 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SIS ESTHER, $8.00, $4.80, $3.00; INTERIOR, $7.00, $3.60; AURICA, $5.40.

SIS ESTHER, given perfect handling, was held off the early pace and then sent through on the rail with a great saving of ground, passed AURICA and drew away from INTERIOR'S rush. INTERIOR made up ground steadily after the start and was finishing with a rush when he swerved badly. AURICA tired after racing ALL COLUMBIA and BANAL GIRL into defeat. MARY M'CLAIN closed full of run.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. (Substitute for original fourth declared off). Purse, $600; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:31½. Off at 3:32. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WHILEAWAY, $8.60, $3.80, $2.80; MY HOBBY, $4.00, $3.60; PARTICIPATE, $4.20.

WHILEAWAY, hard ridden from the start, lost ground going wide, but was in the best going and, holding on gamely under a drive in the stretch, outgamed MY HOBBY. Latter, a keen factor from the start, fought it out gamely all the way, but could not withstand the winner. PARTICIPATE, in close quarters in the turn, held on well. ALAMAE tired.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:53½. Off at 3:55. Winner, Mrs. B. Hernandez's b. g. CHATSON, held off the early pace, came at his rider's call entering the stretch, took command and drew out to win as he pleased. UNCLE CHARLIE, poorly ridden, was taken far out of it and then finished with a belated rush. LOUISVILLE closed a gap while saving ground. TOMMY tired from racing with SALLY'S HOUR and then bore over sharply on SALLY'S HOUR.

ALEXANDRIA WILL BACK FRATERS

Capital City League Champs Work for Celtic Clash.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Dec. 17.—Alexandria Fraters today began active preparation for their game Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, in Griffith's Stadium, with the crack Northern-Celtic football team.

The Fraters Club will present their strongest team in this battle and all players will be boys who reside in Alexandria and were eligible to play in the Capital City League.

Last Sunday the Alexandrians won the District of Columbia loop title when they easily defeated the Dixie Pigs at Seat Pleasant. Much rivalry exists between the Fraters and the Northern Celtics. Only two Alexandria players, Billy Padgett, center, and Les M'Menamin, half back, are in the present Celtic line-up.

Two Leagues Are Represented.

"Buck" Grier, manager of the Northern-Celtics, consented to the playing of the game Tuesday night when he went into a conference with Head Coach Doc Dreifus and Manager Ralph Scrivener. Grier offered the locals the game to settle the difference of opinion in the caliber of the South Atlantic loop games and those in the Capital City League.

The Fraters played the Northerns in their initial game this season and defeated the Washington outfit, 13 to 7. Clinton Price, captain, of the Northern Celtics; Joe Sweeney, coach; Admiral Dewey, Hensley brothers and others with the team performed against the Dreifus Club in this fray.

Also, in the first game, Les McMenamin was playing with the Fraters, but he later jumped into the semipro division and has played with the Northern-Celtics in most of their games, being one of the big threats. It has been "Mac's" kicking and passing that has aided the Grier combine in victories.

Fraters Drill Each Night.

Doc Dreifus, head coach of the Fraters, and Rube Hayman, line coach, have called special drills for the team each evening this week at Daggett's Stadium, to be in the pink. There is a possible chance that these two players may be seen in action. Dreifus starred for Georgetown and Tulane in his college days, while Rube Hayman was an All-South Atlantic tackle while at the University of Virginia.

Bostwick Rides Mount Of Brother to Victory

Windsor, England, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—C. H. (Pete) Bostwick, American amateur rider and polo star, today rode his brother's horse, Herewith, to victory in the December 2-mile handicap hurdle race at Windsor. Capt. R. M. Thomson's Harem Guard was second. Eight horses ran.

In two recent victories Bostwick rode his own horses to first place at long prices, but Herewith was held at 6 to 5. Herewith is owned by A. C. Bostwick, himself a good amateur rider and owner of Mate, one of America's leading 3-year-olds last season.

—Jefferson Park Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS

JEFFERSON PARK RACE TRACK, New Orleans, La., Dec. 17.—A program of seven races, the customary claiming variety, graces the card at Jefferson Park tomorrow. From a class standpoint, the fifth event, 1-mile gallop for 2-year-olds, which received an overnight list of eight starters, appears the best offering.

In this event, THUNDERTONE, a consistent juvenile which carries the silks of Knebelkamp & Morris, with an impost of 106 pounds, should carry off the honors. KAY FRANCES displayed high speed in her last victorious effort and is favored for the place. JACK B., from the Whitney string, has trained well and should share in the purse.

FIRST RACE—The opener, a test over the 6-furlong distance, attracted the usual limit field of 3-year-olds, with OUTCRY the most fancied. DELCO DEL and FLEETING GOLD are expected to furnish stern opposition.

SECOND RACE—LOOP, from the C. V. Whitney stable, closed considerable ground last start after a slow beginning, with better handling the colt figures to outfoot his rivals in the second event at six furlongs. MY INVER and HARRY KUHNS should battle it out for the remainder of the purse.

THIRD RACE—A well-matched group of routers have been entered in the 1 1-16 miles of the third. DELMONICO has attained his best form and under the conditions holds a slight edge over WAYFARER. The latter has been freshened up and is reported working well.

FOURTH RACE—The cheapest grade of platers will face the barrier in the 6 furlongs of the fourth, which is fashioned for maiden 2 and 3 year olds. ARRAY has not been out in some time, but judging his recent splendid trials may graduate. SCANDAL SHEET is given the place call, with BONNIE L. favored to gain the minor award.

SIXTH RACE—The consistent OTILLA, carrying the L. M. Severson silks, finished second last outing and off that effort is fancied to gain the honors in the 1⅛ miles of the sixth. HARASS is on the improve and should finish in the runner-up position, with OPEN GO SHUT best of the others.

SEVENTH RACE—A field of 4-year-olds and upward, fillies, have been entered in the concluding event, which will be decided over the 1⅛-mile route. GOLD HANDLE showed a clever effort last start to finish third, and against this group of fillies should account for the major portion of the purse. COL. CAMPUS, from the E. B. Shipp Stable, and a recent winner at this track, is the place selection.

THE POST'S CONSENSUS AT JEFFERSON PARK

CAPITAL'S SCHOLASTIC COURT TEAMS IN SIX GAMES TODAY

Three Series Fives Face Contest

Eastern to Play G. U. Frosh; Western to Meet Poly.

Business, St. John's, Emerson, Devitt to See Action.

THE busiest day of scholastic basket ball this season crops up on the calendar today with six games scheduled, involving Eastern, Western, Business, Devitt, Emerson and St. John's.

Eastern stacks up against some choice competition in the Georgetown University Freshman, and will have to show even more form than they have shown to date this year to earn a verdict. The Frosh outfit has a scoring demon in Hardigan, but otherwise possesses no great shots. The Hoya Yearlings handed Western a jolting Tuesday night.

Eastern again will resort to using something in the neighborhood of seventeen players, but the most basket ball of the afternoon will be played by Waters and Finneran, forwards; Lieb, center; Kane and Zola, guards.

Western Engages Poly Five.

Western engages one of the toughest opponents on its schedule in Baltimore Poly this afternoon at Western. The Baltimoreans always have a fine team, and Western is somewhat weaker than ordinary this year.

Business' crack little squad, the victim of two consecutive hard-working losses this year, should get back in the winning column against Washington-Lee High, at Ballston.

St. John's fine passing and shooting outfit engages an alumni team tonight at 8 o'clock at St. John's. Pitted against the current Cadet team, whose leading lights are Scanlon, the Scheele brothers and Hartnett, will be such former Saint stars as Augusterfer, Quigley, Smith, Bruton, Mulvihill, Batch, Morris, Cooper, Gallagher, Hudson, Sherman, Webb, Dolan and Hickey.

Emerson has a large order to fill today against Episcopal, at Episcopal.

Furman Names McLeod New Athletic Director

Greenville, S. C., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Paul "Dizzy" McLeod, freshman coach, today was made head football coach and athletic director of Furman University, succeeding T. B. "Dad" Amis.

McLeod is a native of Greenville County and starred in fotball and baseball at Furman a decade ago. He played a tackle on the football team and was a pitcher with the baseball team. After his graduation he engaged in professional baseball for a number of years and played at various times in the Piedmont, Cotton States and Southeastern Leagues.

J. E. Sirrine, head of the athletic council, said McLeod was engaged for an indefinite period, the athletic council retaining the right to dispense with his services at any time. Amis was at Furman under a similar arrangement. McLeod's salary was not announced.

Amis came to Furman in the fall of 1928 from Howard Payne College, Tex. He was a center for Georgia Tech during his football playing days.

Wilson Normal Bows To Eastern Five, 43-12

With every member of the squad seeing action, Eastern High School's Basket Ball Team encountered little difficulty in trouncing the Wilson Normal quint by a score of 43-12 at Eastern yesterday. Coach Charley Guyon's charges were too clever for the future teachers and scored almost at will. The steady scoring eye of Summers, Wilson center, accounted for nine of his team's points. None of the Easterners were in the fray long enough to score any large number of points, although Essex and Phillips chalked up 7 and 8 respectively.

NATS AND MACKS LED IN FIELDING

tied for second with Marty McManus, of Detroit and Boston, among third-basemen, with 24.

In the catching division, Rick Ferrell, of the Browns, had the most assists, 86, and tied with Bennie Tate, former Nat, for most double-plays, with 11. Ferrell, along with Cochrane and Charley Berry, of the Red Sox, also was charged with the most passed balls, 6, one more than is shown in Spencer's record.

CAGE TEAM TO TOUR.

Corvallis, Oreg. (A.P.).—The Oregon State College basket ball team has scheduled a barnstorming trip to California during the Christmas holidays.

STADIUM ICE OPEN TO PUBLIC

Chicago (A.P.).—The ice of the Chicago Stadium, heretofore used only by teams of the professional hockey leagues, this fall has been opened to the use of skating clubs and to the general public on certain days and evenings.

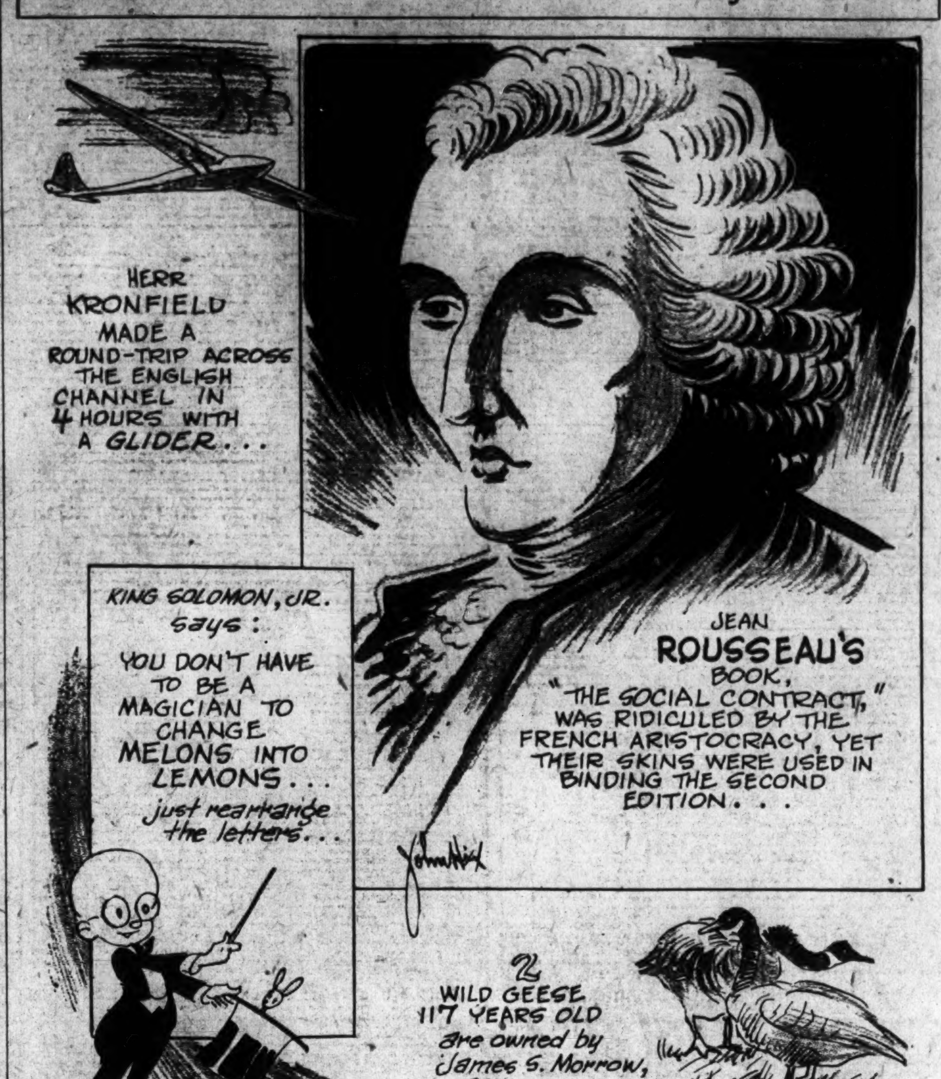

SPICER NOW CAGE COACH.

Georgetown, Ky. (A.P.). — Carey Spicer, all-Southern basket ball forward last season, will build a team of his own around four letter men from last year's squad at Georgetown University.

BOLLING FIELD DEFIES.

Boasting a winning streak of eighteen games, the Bolling Field unlimited quint issues a challenge to all strong unlimited basket ball teams in the city. Teams interested should call Manager Underwood at Lincoln 3387.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

THE stories in most books are told on the pages between the two covers, but there are other books whose covers themselves, could they speak, would unfold a tale far more astounding and interesting than the pages they embrace.

There are books bound in metal, wood, oilcloth, in snake and fish skins, and books bound in feathers and glass. But although they are not the rarest of oddly bound volumes, the books bound in human skin are by far the most romantic—grewsomely romantic.

Not the least interesting of these skin-bound books is the "Memoirs of James Allen," notorious New England highwayman, who willed that his own skin be used in the binding.

Camille Flammarion, French astronomer, admired the lovely skin and complexion of a beautiful woman whom I met at a dinner party. In her will the charming woman left her skin to the astronomer, and it was used in binding one of his books.

In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, in England, the skins of many criminals were tanned and used in binding of law books. During the French Revolution there was at Mendon, France, a tannery especially equipped to tan the skins of murdered aristocrats for the purpose of making them into book covers. Jean Jacques Rousseau's "Social Contract" was ridiculed by the French aristocracy, but a short time afterward those same aristocrats were murdered and the second edition of Rousseau's book was bound with their skins.

G.W.U. FROSH PRESSED BY BUSINESS

StenogsBeaten, 35-21, by Larger Opponents in Fast Game.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY'S freshman basket ball team, good enough to hand frequent lacings to the school's monumental varsity squad, found trouble galore yesterday afternoon in trimming a pesky little Business High outfit with a couple of shooting guards and a ball-passing attack which seemed to pass through the legs of the tall G. W. yearlings.

The score was 35-21, not particularly close as such things go, but it was a determined battle from start to finish, and not a scoring duel until the latter stages of the second half. The score at the half was 14-7.

Using the same system of play as the varsity team, the university cubs occasionally looked like a first-rate college team, passing hard and true, and shooting with accuracy and confidence.

Best G. W. Combination Never Together.

The best G. W. combination was never on the floor at the same time, either because of seasoning tactics on the part of the team's crafty coach, Len Walsh, or because of the four-penalty traditions.

Bill Noonan, center, and Dallas Shirley, guard, were the bulwarks of the team, just as they were with Eastern High last year. Weingartner, a former Hyattsville High boy, long, lean and deadly, took high-scoring honors and showed great promise. G. W.'s remaining players, hot off the gridiron, had more brawn than finesse and seemed unable to grasp, consistently, the gist of the G. W. plays.

Huck Cavanaugh and Shore, Business guards, broke well to bring themselves into good scoring positions frequently, and amassed 15 of their team's points. Handicapped by their stature, more than anything else, Business trailed by a reasonably close margin from start to end.

Catonsville Annexes State Soccer Crown

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., Dec. 17.—Catonsville won the soccer championship of the State here this afternoon by defeating Chestertown, champions of the Eastern Shore, by the score of 8 to 2. The Western Shore champions had an easy time from the start, scoring a field goal and one from penalty in the first quarter. All this time Chestertown could not score. In the second period two more field goals and one from penalty was added to Catonsville's tally, while Chestertown was still held scoreless. In the third quarter, Bland registered the first and only tally for Chestertown when he got the ball through the posts after a hard scrimmage.

Catonsville failed to tally in the third or fourth quarter, but their margin was so great that they put up a strong defensive game and held the Chestertown boosters at bay until the whistle blew.

Asheville Club Sought By Louisville as Farm

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Two Louisville baseball moguls will leave for Asheville, N. C., tonight in hopes of purchasing that city's baseball club of the Piedmont League for a Colonel farm.

W. F. Knebelkamp, president, and William Neal, vice president and general manager of the Louisville American Association team, hope to complete the deal Friday or Saturday.

Dayton, Ohio, of the Central League, was a Louisville farm in 1929 and 1930, but suspension of that league's activities left Louisville without a pasturage last year.

Takoma Five Checked By Georgetown Prep

The previously undefeated Takoma-Silver Spring High School basket ball team came to grief at Garrett Park yesterday when its winning streak of four games was broken by a smooth-passing Georgetown Prep quint's 28-to-19 victory. It was a well played game, but the Prepmen held the upper hand all the way, leading at the halfway mark by an 18-to-7 count.

Takoma rallied in the second half, outscoring its opponent by a small margin. Nee and Keating led the Georgetowners in scoring, while Pritchard's ability to make good on the numerous penalty shots accorded him enabled him to top the Takoma scoring list.

Capital City Soccer League To Decide Leader Sunday

British and Marlboro in Feature; Rosedale Plays Brandywine; Heights Meets Rockville; Concord Faces Gaithersburg.

A LEADER of the Capital City Soccer League will be established Sunday when four games are listed to be played. At present, Concord, British United and Columbia Heights are closely bunched and none can afford to lose any ground at this stage of the schedule.

The feature game will be between Marlboro and British United on Monument Field No. 2. The Maryland lads took a couple of bad lickings early in the season, but came back a few weeks ago to 1930 form. Columbia Heights was handed a surprise 7-to-1 trimming last Sunday and if the Prince Georges County kickers can take the British into camp they still have a chance to win the title. Harold Bennett will referee.

Rosedale to Entertain Brandywine.

Rosedale will play Brandywine at Rosedale and should not be extended to win. The Northeast team has struck its stride and has its eye on second place in the final standing and expects to give other clubs a battle all the way to the finish. Ed Kruse will officiate.

Monument Grounds No. 1 will also be the scene of a stellar attraction. Columbia Heights will battle the fast-coming Rockville eleven and some of the best action of the season should be on tap. Jack Caldwell will call the fouls in this tilt.

Gaithersburg has had but few tastes of victory this season, but Concord is not going to let this cause overconfidence Sunday when it plays in the Maryland town. The Montgomery County kickers can always be depended upon to put up stubborn opposition and are apt to take a fall out of the best. Melly Carleton will referee.

Cup Tie Tourney Planned.

The annual cup tie tournament, sponsored by the Washington and Southeastern District Soccer Association, will start on January 10 and the second round is slated for January 24. All teams in the Capital City and Recreation Leagues and the Newport News eleven are eligible to play in the series. Entries are to be in by next Tuesday to the secretary, room 2, District Building.

Marines, in Debut, Defeat Collegians

Quantico Quintet Led by Zeher and Locke in 59-12 Victory.

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., Dec. 17.—Flashing a powerful, speedy attack, the Quantico Marines opened their basket ball season auspiciously here tonight, easily defeating the Fredericksburg (Va.) Collegians, 59 to 12. The game was marked by a free use of Marine reserves, who, like the regulars, were much too strong for their opponents.

Locke at center, and Zeher and Bauer at forwards were the leading scorers for the winners. The trio amassed a total of 35 points among them and did not play the entire game.

Zeher, a star of the Marines football team, indicated that he is to be rated as highly on the court as he was on the gridiron, while Lieut. Bauer, former Naval Academy star, was another to transport his athletic success from the football field to the gymnasium.

The Marines were pressed at no stage of the contest and led at intermission, 16 to 5. Peyton, Fredericksburg center, was the mainstay of his club, securing five points on offense and doing a good job on defense.

Williams Leads Co. F In Overtime Triumph

The Company F Team, of Hyattsville, won its first game of the season last night, but was forced to travel into an extra period to carry off the honors. Incidentally it was the second overtime game for the Guardsmen in three starts. The Kenilworth Church Team was the victim by a 19-to-17 margin, with J. Williams in the hero role for the winners. With the Guardsmen trailing by 8 points with five minutes to play, Williams sank four straight field goals to tie the score and then came through with the winning basket in the extra period.

Lauri Defeats Camp As Tourney Nears End

Philadelphia, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Onofrio Lauri, of Brooklyn, N. Y., defeated Marcel Camp, of Detroit, in the first afternoon match of the world's championship pocket billiard tournament today, 125 to 46, in 25 innings.

Lauri had a high run of 41 and Camp's was 14.

The victory was Lauri's sixth, against five defeats. Camp's record now stands at five victories and six defeats. Both have finished their tournament play of eleven games each.

The ending scores:

Bennie Allen, of Kansas City, completed his play in the tournament today with a 12-inning 125-to-52 victory over Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y. Allen had a high run of 29, Taberski of 27.

J. C. C. GIRLS BOOKING.

The Jewish Community Center girl's basket ball team is angling for games with strong girls' quintets in Washington and vicinity. Teams interested should call Manager Betty Kronman at Adams 4169 in the evening, or North 4082 during the day. Gladys Mills is again coaching the team, which is usually one of the best in the city.

CASEY TEAMS TO PLAY.

Two Knights of Columbus basket ball teams will see action tomorrow. At 11 a. m. the 115-pound quint will engage the Western Flashes on the Caseys' floor and at noon the 85-pounders will stack up against the Georgetown Boys' Club tossers on the latter's court. The Columbus quints have made great progress since the start of the season and expect to win tomorrow.

DIXIANA FIVE AHEAD.

The Dixiana Barbecue tossers defeated the Mercury quint by the lopsided score of 23-6 last night. Harris, Murray and Fox led the victors.

CONFERENCE BERTH AIM OF W.-M.

William and Mary to Make Move Today at New Orleans.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Athletic Director W. S. Gooch, jr., of William and Mary College, is in New Orleans to attend the Southern Conference tomorrow and Saturday which, he hopes, will lead to William and Mary's representation in the conference.

John Kellison, W. & M. football coach, admitted tonight that the Indians are hopeful of entering the conference and said that Mr. Gooch is representing the college's interest at the session.

The Indians of late have shown their ability to play on even terms with Virginia's "Big Four" members. In football this season W. & M. earned a tie with both Washington and Lee and Virginia Polytechnic Institute. The preceding season the Indians lost to V. P. I. by the margin of 7 to 6.

Mr. Kellison did not disclose which conference members would sponsor W. & M.'s entry into the Southern body, but indicated that the Indians are hopeful of ultimate success.

In baseball, basket ball and track W. & M. has appeared to good advantage in clashes with Big Four members. In intersectional competition the Indians, perhaps, have shown to best advantage and have to their credit a 13-13 tie with Harvard last year, as well as several close games with Harvard in which they lost by one-touchdown margins.

Saks Clothiers Ahead In Frederick Contest

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Dec. 17.—The Saks Clothiers Basket Ball Team, of Washington, D. C., tonight crushed the Alsatia quint before a large crowd by a score of 47 to 23. It was the worst defeat ever suffered by the local team. The Clothiers exhibited a smooth-passing attack that completely smothered the Alsatians and left them trailing by a score of 23 to 14 at the end of the first half. Noonan, lanky sharp-shooting center for Saks; Jones and Fisher, a pair of clever forwards, played important roles in the victory.

TWO FOR ST. MARTIN'S.

Two St. Martin's quints were returned the victors in games played on the home floor last night. The unlimited team turned back the Wovernes with little difficulty, winning by a 41-16 count and the 130-pounders downed the Capital Towers Pharmacy tossers by a score of 31-27 in a heatedly contested fray. Wanley led the unlimited quint in scoring, while Robertson was the most consistent point-getter of the 130-pound tilt.

2 VICTORIES ADDED BY CENTRAL

Emerson and Potomac Boat Club Bow to School Teams.

CENTRAL HIGH'S big basket ball squad added two more victories to its season's total yesterday afternoon at Central. In the first contest the secondaries beat Emerson, 34-21. The regulars swamped the Potomac Boat Club 56-21, in a scoring spree of a nightcap.

Central's reserve strength showed good all-around form, and an equal division of scoring merit, in downing the one-man club Emerson is carrying around this year. Moulton, Bryant and Smyrnas, of Central, gave promise of placing their names on the box scores of Central's biggest games this year by their performances yesterday.

Rabbitt, veteran Emerson forward, again shone for his side, scoring 10 points and working the ball well. Whelan, the other Emerson forward, is an improved player.

Capt. Burke Leads Regulars To Victory.

In the feature game the Boat Club boys held Central to 8-7 at the end of the first quarter, but once the Blue and White's big gun began to bark it was all over. By half-time the score was 19-8 boosted by a scoring expedition engaged in by all Central hands. The second half was a runaway, developed for the most part by the shooting of Capt. Bill Burke, who scored 21 points.

V. M. I. Adds Kentucky To '32 Grid Schedule

New Orleans, La., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Virginia Military Institute completed its 1932 football schedule today with the addition of a game with the University of Kentucky.

The game was signed by representatives of the two schools attending the meeting of the Southern Conference here.

The schedule follows:

September 17, King's College, at Lexington, Va.; September 24, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, Ky.; October 1, Duke, at Lexington, Va.; October 8, Citadel, at Charleston, S. C.; October 15, Davidson, at Lexington, Va.; October 22, University of Virginia, at Lexington, Va.; October 29, University of Maryland, at Richmond; November 5, William and Mary, at Norfolk; November 12, University of Richmond, at Richmond; Thanksgiving Day, V. P. I., at Roanoke.

FOUR YEARS, NO INJURY.

Blacksburg, Va. (A.P.). — Harry Stark, Virginia Polytechnic Institute tackle, has played football four years without an injury. He is known on the campus as the "boy who eats, drinks and sleeps football," and is one of the outstanding linemen in Virginia.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

A DEPRESSION YEAR INTERVIEW WITH MR. KRISS KRINGLE.

Q. MR. KRINGLE, in view of general conditions, your views on the outlook for Christmas would be welcome. How do you find things?

A. Not so bad. I've had to lay off a few deer, and I've put up the big sleigh and am using the smaller one this winter, but I think Christmas will be quite satisfactory.

Q. Is there any truth to the rumors that you are in such straits this year that you recently had to kill and eat Donder and Blitzen, two of your best reindeer?

A. Not the slightest.

Q. How about the story that your credit has become so exhausted that you have been in desperate need of new financing?

A. Nothing to it, absolutely nothing. You may say for me that I look forward to this Christmas as one of the best in my career, and from more standpoints than one.

Q. Just what do you mean by that?

A. Well, for one thing, I have grown a bit fed up these Christmases that have been taken so much for granted by the human race; these Yuletides that have found the rank and file so blase in the face of great luxuries. I think that the people are getting back where they'll appreciate me more.

• • • •

Q. You think there is a changed attitude now?

A. Decidedly, and it makes me very happy. As I said before, I don't think the situation is nearly so bad as it is painted, but it is sufficiently changed to make people much more appreciative of small blessings. The attitude toward me had become more humiliating. If something hadn't happened, little children would have been telling me to go away and not bother them as they had presents enough.

Q. You feel you were losing prestige then?

A. EXACTLY. Everybody was living in such a fool's paradise that I was looked upon in many quarters, particularly in the United States, as a big fat Pollyanna who scattered luxuries about indiscriminately. After all, I'm sot quite like that, you know.

Q. You are not inferring that you will cut down your gifts drastically?

A. No, but I shall be able to get back to discriminate and sensible distribution, making for a more general appreciation of gifts and restoring the old-time Christmas spirit of humility, joy and gratitude. It was very much needed, you know. I had begun to fear that I would be done away with entirely and my work taken over by an investment trust or something.

Q. You had begun to feel, say, up to 1929, that you weren't adequate?

A. Not the type, as it were. That is why I am very happy about this Christmas. It is going to be a wonderful Christmas. People will even hang up their stockings again. Adults will regain something of the old-time yuletide joy and little children will thrill to the old, old story. There will be a very genuine revival of Bethlehem, if I am not mistaken.

• • • •

Q. A very merry Christmas is your prediction then, Mr. Kringle?

A. The merriest Christmas in many, many years. Yes indeed, the very merriest.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE TRANSACTIONS OF YESTERDAY

STOCK PRICES DROP UNDER HEAVY SALES

Standard Issues Sell Down to Lowest Level in Years; Copper Firmer.

New York, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Securities were pressed for sale in larger volume today, while wheat contributed a decline of about 2 cents to the long list of minus signs in the financial markets. Stocks dropped 1 to 5 points under a steady stream of selling, but managed to reduce their losses in the final hour.

There was no news to influence either junior or senior securities; doubtless the absence of constructive developments affecting the broad business picture contributed to the persistent desire for liquidity. The copper outlook assumed a brighter aspect, with prices firmer and prospects for a curtailment accord improved, but otherwise the markets lacked help from the outside.

Standard Stocks Decline.

In stocks many of the old investment standbys sold down to the lowest quotations in years before the late advance brought support. United States Steel common, for example, hit 36½, the lowest since 1908, if the stock dividend of 1927 was not taken into account. It firmed to 37⅝, making the net loss exactly 2 points. American Telephone was freely offered by year-end liquidators. Its low of 115¼ had not been duplicated since 1922, although there was a recovery to 117. Consolidated Gas sold at a new low for the present shares. The average net decline for 90 stocks was 1.7 points, while the turnover of 2,993,321 shares was the largest of the current decline.

The weekly Reserve Bank statements mirrored the huge December 15 turnover of approximately $2,500,000,000 attendant upon the December tax payments and the Treasury's financial operations. Government security holdings of the twelve banks expanded sharply, although both discounts and bill purchases were off. Total Reserve Bank credit outstanding increased $94,000,000.

Currency Circulation Rises.

Currency circulation in the week ended December 9 rose $71,000,000, which undoubtedly reflected the seasonal demands of the Christmas shopping peak. The small decline in the previous week had been contrary to the usual trend.

In foreign exchanges there were firmer rates for the French franc and the Dutch guilder, although both movements were eclipsed by a jump in Canadian dollars, which profited by reports of prospective government support, although there was no indication of how this aid might be extended. The yen was heavy.

Larger exports from Argentina and Russia, rain in the Southwest and a bearish Kansas State report, reacted on wheat, which lost 1⅞ to 2⅜ net. Corn was off ⅞ to 1½ cents. Cotton held up more successfully and closing quotations represented declines of only 1 to 4 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Stop-loss selling that was largely associated with lameness of the New York Stock Market pitched grain values downward today. Larger Russian shipments of wheat than had been looked for counted as an additional bearish influence. Corn tumbled with wheat, making only a transient upturn responsive to announcement of 117,000,000 bushels decrease in official estimates of the country's 1931 corn crop.

Wheat closed shaky, at about the day's bottom level, 1⅞@2⅜ cents lower than yesterday's finish. Corn, ⅞ to 1⅝ down, Oats, ¼ to ½ off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10 cents.

At no time were wheat price rallies either extensive or durable. From the outset, wheat was under the shadow of stock market unsettlement, and especially in the closing hour developed acute weakness. Assertions that a big export trade had been done late yesterday in Canadian wheat gave little, if any, stimulus to buyers here, no quantities being specified and overseas demand today appearing moderate, with United States wheat practically ignored by foreigners. Heavy snowfalls in domestic winter wheat territory Southwest added to handicap of bulls.

Renewal of increased wheat exports from Russia attracted sharp notice, the total this week being 1,328,000 bushels, against only 520,000 last week. Furthermore, the enlarged wheat shipments from Russia were emphasised by word that the Soviets had also exported 1,568,000 bushels of rye this week, despite reiterations in some quarters that Russia's 1931 grain collection campaign had been a complete disappointment. On the other hand, primary receipts of wheat in the United States, and of all other grain as well, remained light, contrasting sharply with a year ago.

Corn advanced about a cent a bushel at one time today, but the weakness of securities and of wheat proved finally to be more of a burden than corn could hold up against. Oats followed corn.

Provisions sagged with hog values.

Eastern Utilities Investing Corporation
Sixty-One Broadway
New York

To the Holders of 5% Gold Debentures, due 1954, of Eastern Utilities Investing Corporation:

Included in the portfolio of this Corporation are amounts of the following securities:

Associated Gas and Electric Company 5% Convertible Certificates.

Utilities Power & Light Corporation 5% Gold Debentures, due 1959.

Holders of the 5% Gold Debentures, due 1954, of this Corporation are hereby given the opportunity to tender all or any portion of their holdings on such basis as they may determine, in exchange for either of the foregoing securities. For the purpose of fixing the exchange basis, the foregoing securities are to be taken at the arbitrary figure of 100.

Adjustment will be made for accrued interest as of December 24, 1931, so that it will be continuous but not overlapping. Fractional amounts of the securities deliverable will be adjusted in cash at the market. No tenders will be accepted on the basis of a price in excess of $103, the call price for the Gold Debentures of this Corporation.

Only a limited amount of one of the above listed issues is available to fill tenders. It is suggested, therefore, that holders indicate a second choice of the securities offered, in the event the full amount of securities available for their first choice is taken by lower tenders. Tenders, on a price basis acceptable to the Corporation, will have precedence according to the priority of postmarks thereon. The undersigned reserves the right to accept or reject any tenders in whole or in part.

We are advised by Counsel that if the market value of the securities received is less than the price paid for the Eastern Utilities Investing Corporation 5% Gold Debentures, the difference represents a capital loss and may be treated as a deduction from income under the present Federal Income Tax Law.

Tenders will be accepted until the close of business December 24, 1931. They will be tabulated immediately thereafter and notice given to all holders whose tenders are rejected and accepted, stating to the latter the time and other details for delivery of the Eastern Utilities Investing Corporation Debentures.

A circular describing the Associated Gas and Electric Company 5% Convertible Certificates, a form for your convenience in making the tender (though it is not required) and information respecting the earnings, etc., of the Corporation will be forwarded on request.

Very truly yours,
EASTERN UTILITIES INVESTING CORPORATION,
M. C. O'KEEFFE, Vice-President.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—A slight opening advance in cotton today was followed by setbacks under a little Southern and local selling inspired by the unsettled action of the grain and stock markets. Comparatively light offerings were absorbed on slight setbacks, however, and the market showed a generally steady undertone. January contracts after selling up to 6.12 at the start, declined to 6.05 and closed at 6.07. The general market closed steady at net declines of 1 to 4 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 4 points on trade buying and covering which may have been promoted by an idea that rains in the South would further delay the movement and restrict offerings from that quarter. The advance met some realizing and Southern selling on the easier opening of the stock market, and prices worked a few points lower during the middle of the day, but without developing any increased selling pressure. Trade buying and covering was supposed to be absorbing contracts on a scale down and after selling off from 6.31 to 6.22 for March and from 6.51 to 6.41 for May prices stiffened 2 or 3 points from the lowest in the late trading.

Trading was quiet during the entire day, but the steadiness of the market in the face of the easier ruling of wheat and stocks, seemed to make a favorable impression on sentiment as to the technical position of the futures market and the continuance of the holding movement in the South. Liverpool was credited with selling some cotton here during the early trading, but brokers who frequently operate for Japanese interests were said to be among the early buyers and, on the whole, orders appeared to be quite evenly divided as prices fluctuated within a range of 8 or 10 points. The gains reported in the South were considered unfavorable for such cotton as might still be in the field, and some thought recent weather conditions might be partly responsible for comparatively small offerings and the absence of hedge selling in any appreciable volume.

Liverpool cables reported liquidation on the steadier ruling of sterling, but said there were fair sales of cotton cloths for shipment to Egypt and South America.

Exports today, 56,599, making 3,592,737 so far this season. Port receipts, 48,754. Port stocks, 4,641,693.

BOND PRICES SLUMP IN WAVE OF SELLING

Turnover Is $18,790,000 as Federal Issues Decline to Low Levels.

New York, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The bond market today experienced the heaviest selling wave in the past two months and only the recently humbled rails held their heads slightly above the receding waters of liquidation.

Led by United States Government obligations, industrials and utilities were dumped overboard in exceptionally large blocks. It was noticeable, however, that the higher grade domestic issues gave but little ground under the onslaught. Sales totaled $18,790,000.

Federal loans at first were inclined to steady, but these obligations soon started downward and seven of them, including three of the liberties, established new low records for the year.

Investors Aid Carriers.

The transportation section began with numerous declines, and generally sagged until near the close when investors came in with new bids and saved the carriers from attaining their usual, of late, daily bottom record.

At the finish the average for 20 rails was a fraction above that of yesterday. At the same time there were individual issues that established depth figures for the past several years.

Among the rail bonds that indicated renewed hope of recovery were some of the Atchisons, Baltimore & Ohios, Canadian Nationals, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Pauls, Chicago & Northwesterns, Rock Islands, Denver & Rio Grandes, Grand Trunks of Canadas, Illinois Centrals, Missouri Pacifics, New York Centrals and Readings. Most of these pulled up from their lows of the day and some gained over yesterday's prices.

Industrials Join Decline.

In the other division, American Telephones dropped from fractions to 2 points. Armour & Co. loans lost all the way up to 4 points, while International Telephone, Western Union, International Match, Paramount Publix, Standard Oil of New York, Sinclair Consolidated and a host of other issues were sold for various losses.

There were several, however, including Consolidated Gas of New York, Postal Telegraph, Corn Products, Detroit Edison, New England Telephone and Standard of New Jersey, that resisted the downward movement.

Foreign bonds were irregular, with German loans being heavily sold at declining prices. British and French obligations also were off, as were South Americans. Japanese government and Oriental Development obligations were higher in thin trading.

EARNINGS AND DIVIDENDS.

New York, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The Canada Dry Ginger Ale Co. today declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents, making the annual rate $1.20, as compared with a former rate of $3. In a statement, President P. D. Saylor said the reduction was due to the company's desire to fix a rate for the coming year that "could reasonably be expected to be paid."

Directors of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. today took no action on the common dividend due at this time. The company paid 25 cents three months ago.

Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co. omitted the semiannual dividend of $2.50 on the preferred stock. A statement said that although earnings for the full year would be sufficient to cover the payment, it was thought best to conserve cash.

The Columbia Pictures Corporation today deferred action on the common dividend. Three months ago ago a quarterly dividend of 18¾ cents was paid. Salaries of all employes above $50 a week will be cut, effective January 1.

Directors of the Truscon Steel Co. today deferred action on the common dividend due at this time. The company paid a quarterly dividend of 15 cents a share three months ago.

The Abitibi Power & Paper Co. today deferred action on the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock due at this time.

Curb Review

New York, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Prices on the curb market today gave ground in more active trading.

Exceptions to the general trend, which caused a number of stocks to lose 1 or more points, developed in Bell Telephone of Canada, which rallied 2 points to its closing price of 98, and International Cigar Machine which rebounded 4 points upward from its previous low for the year at 25.

Transactions crossed the 600,000-share mark for the second time this week. Total transfers were 640,000 shares against 470,000 on Wednesday.

Activity in the utilities was brisk. American Gas & Electric reacted 1¼ points to 34¼. Insull Utilities Investments declined 2⅛ points. Public Service of Northern Illinois went to a new low at 121. Electric Bond & Share sold off to a new low at 8¾, but rallied to its closing price of 9 for a net loss of only ⅜ point. The company's preferred stock was up nearly a point.

Standard Oil issues worked lower with stock of the Indiana company declining ¾ point to 14⅝; Kentucky ½ to 12¾, and Standard of Ohio, 1¼ points to 23¾.

Declines of 1 to around 3 points occurred in Aluminum Co., American Cyanamid A, American Hardware, Fajardo Sugar, New York Steam, United Verde extension and Glen Alden Coal.

Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, an inactive stock, recorded a new low for the year at 95.

POLITICIANS CALLED TRADE-AID FACTORS

Recovery Awaits Their Grasp of Realities, Bond Club Is Told.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Duration of the world depression depends on the length of time required before politicians begin to grasp economic realities, Hugh Bancroft, financial journalist and publicist, informed members of the Bond Club of Washington at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the Carlton Hotel.

Speaking on "Fighting Economic Law," Mr. Bancroft said if normal business be regarded at 100 points we are at present down to 60; but, irrespective of the condition of the rest of the world, there is no good reason why we should not be back at 90. The reason we are down to 60, the speaker reminded, is because we have been attempting to solve economic problems with our hearts, while the only use we have made of our heads is to butt them against stone walls.

Recalling that it has taken two years to begin to face facts about wage scales, Mr. Bancroft asserted that prices of everything must be brought into more reasonable relationship with the new price levels of basic commodities and that prices to consumers can come down, if business is to exist, only by reducing costs.

Taxation Called Factor.

Taxation, he declared, has become a major factor in costs; and if taxation is not to be reduced, its proportion of the inevitable cost reduction must be absorbed by wage scales. Government, he said, while having enormous power to harm the economic situation, has practically no power to help it, the reason being that Government has nothing of its own, but only that which it takes from the people.

In spite of the fact that all politicians and most people believe government can help us out of our economic difficulties, government, he emphasized, is inherently an economic liability and functions accordingly in times of economic stress. Therefore, if the Federal Government is not to add to the difficulties of economic recovery, it must balance its budget, as he sees it, and at the same time not increase Federal taxes.

Hundreds of millions of dollars, he deplored, are being spent for purposes entirely beyond the scope of government and other hundreds of millions for the purpose of harassing, destroying and competing unfairly with business, citing that the government is competing with its citizens in 97 separate activities.

Dealing with the situation from an international standpoint, he said we can not expect to attain real prosperity until world conditions are much improved, saying that the immediate critical condition of world economics results from a credit collapse, a major share of responsibility for which rests with this country.

Movement of Gold.

The postwar financial settlements, he recounted, set up an arbitrary force which for the years 1921-31 directed in round figures $500,000,000 a year in gold toward Paris and New York in roughly equal proportions. As a result, nearly half of the monetary gold of the world has been drained by this force from the localities where it should have remained if the business world was to go on, to be lodged in the two centers where it is economically useless. While this force has been temporarily suspended, nevertheless, for world conditions to recover, it is essential that this arbitrary movement of gold be stopped forever, he concluded.

The board of governors of Washington Stock Exchange at a meeting yesterday adopted until further notice minimum quotations on all securities. Minimum prices quoted do not necessarily mean bids, but do mean that no sale can be recorded on the exchange below the established minimum.

Similar action has been taken during the past several months by a number of other stock exchanges throughout the country. The action of Washington Stock Exchange yesterday is not without precedent, since in 1914 minimum quotations were established for a period of several months.

Extra Dividend Declared.

Directors of National Metropolitan Bank have declared an extra dividend of 2 per cent on the capital stock of the bank, payable January 1, it was announced yesterday. Books will be closed for transfer of stock from December 22, to December 31, both dates inclusive.

Directors of Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Bank have declared the usual dividend of 3 per cent payable to all stockholders on January 15. At the same time a bonus of one-half month's salary will be given to the employes of the bank.

Directors of the Bank of Bethesda, Md., at their latest regular meeting declared the regular semiannual dividend of 3 per cent payable December 31 to stockholders of record December 15.

PLUS SIGNS

+++ NOVEMBER, 1931, BUILDING PERMITS of the following cities exceeded November, 1929; November, 1930, and October, 1931: Miami, Indianapolis, Providence, Nashville, Troy, Brookline, Mass.

These cities show healthy increases over October of this year: Baltimore, Milwaukee, Houston, Yonkers and Cambridge.

+++ THE STATE OF OHIO will construct 654 miles of highways during 1932 at a cost of $24,111,000.

+++ COMMERCIAL SOLVENTS CORPORATION will place its Peoria plant on capacity operations about January 1.

+++ AUBURN AUTOMOBILE CO. has placed orders for more than $11,000,000 worth of materials to be used in production operations during the first quarter of 1932.

+++ THE UNION CARBIDE & CARBON CO.'S plant at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., will begin capacity operations January 1, after being on half time since last May.

+++ GRAIN SHIPMENTS from Pacific Coast ports show an increase of 400 per cent over last year.

+++ ACCORDING TO DUN'S REVIEW holiday buying has resulted in an estimated 5 per cent gain in department store sales.

+++ THE NOXZEMA CHEMICAL CO. reports sales 36 per cent ahead of last year and profits 80 per cent ahead.

+++ BUSINESS BOOKED by Baldwin Locomotive Works in November amounted to $2,126,000, compared with $1,018,000 in October, and $1,104,000 last November.

+++ LUMBER ORDERS exceeded the cut by 19 per cent during the week ended December 5.

+++ DOLLAR SALES of the Walgreen chain of drug stores showed an increase of 5.4 per cent for the first eleven months.

+++ NOVEMBER SALES of Maxwell House Coffee were larger than for any November since the product was taken over by General Foods Corporation in 1928. The increase is credited to aggressive advertising of the new vita-fresh pack.

+++ THE NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE CO. in November reports 3,500 more applications and $8,000,000 more new business than in November last year.

+++ HOLIDAY BUYING in the Middle West has brought about the sudden appearance of many old-sized bills of currency—the large size bills that were replaced by the new currency almost 2 years ago.

+++ THE MELVILLE CORPORATION, owners of four chains of retail stores, reports a gain of 2.6 per cent in the number of pairs of shoes sold for the first 9 months of this year, and 16.6 per cent increase in women's shoes. Because of better business they are expanding the number of stores from 478 to 530.

+++ THE ALLIS CHALMERS CO. has received an order for $1,000,000 worth of equipment from the Pennsylvania Railroad to be produced in their Milwaukee shops.

+++ FOR THE FIRST TEN MONTHS of this year the Plymouth Motor Corporation did 145.4 per cent of its comparative 1930 business, as contrasted with 73.3 per cent for the industry as a whole.

+++ THE DEISEL-WEMMER-GILBERT cigar factory in Detroit has increased production from 90,000 cigars daily to 120,000.

+++ RETAIL DEPARTMENT STORE SALES in the Richmond Federal Reserve district showed a decrease for the first eleven months of only 6 per cent in dollars from last year, as against 11 per cent for the entire nation.

Colombia Gets Credit.

Bogota, Colombia, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The Bank of the Republic today extended a credit of $15,500,000 to the government in return for ten years' revenue from the national salt mines. The money will be used to cover the $5,000,000 budget deficit and to finance the public works program. The credit bears 3 per cent interest and payments through the salt revenue begin three years from now.

Phone Company Expects Gain of 10,000 in 1932

A gain of 10,000 telephone stations is expected next year by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. despite depressed economic conditions, John A. Remon, general manager of the company, said yesterday in a talk before the Advertising Club luncheon at the Raleigh Hotel. Remon said that the average yearly gain for the last five years has been 8,400 telephone stations.

The numerous types of services available to subscribers were described by Remon. Figures of the company, the telephone executive said, show that although the population of Washington has increased 11 per cent since 1920, the number of telephones has more than doubled.

LEGAL NOTICES

PAUL J. SEDGEWICK, Attorney.

IN THE MUNICIPAL COURT OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia. W. W. Shackleford, Plaintiff, vs. H. E. Simmons, Remington, Va., Defendant. No. 239208. Order of publication in attachment. The object of this suit is to recover the sum of eighty-five dollars ($85.00), with interest, attorney's fee and costs, for merchandise sold and delivered by the plaintiff to the defendant, and to have judgment of condemnation of certain property of the defendant levied on under an attachment issued in this suit to satisfy the plaintiff's claim. It is, therefore, this 2d day of December, 1931, ordered that the defendant appear in this court on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, after the date of the first publication of this order, to defend this suit and show cause why said condemnation should not be had; otherwise the suit will be proceeded with as in case of default. NATHAN CAYTON, Judge. A true copy. Test: BLANCHE NEFF, Clerk. 4,11,18

BOTH SIDES PROTEST TRIPLETT WILL CASE

Action Taken to Open Way for Appeal Regardless of Court's Decision.

Special to The Washington Post.

Woodstock, Va., Dec. 17.—Arguments in the Triplett will case were brought to a close today at noon when both sides filed objections to portions of the will. This move was made to open a way for an appeal to the Virginia Court of Appeals regardless of the decision of Judge Philip Williams.

Counsel for the will objected to the probating of the fourth codicil to the will, which stipulates that Joseph Triplett, of Florida, one of the trustees as well as a nephew, would receive a larger sum than that mentioned in the original will.

This codicil was produced the day before the trial opened by the demand of the contesting attorneys. Its existence was known by the trustees but was not probated since it was written after the main body of the will and made several changes in the original instrument. Counsel for the contestants wish to have this newly produced codicil probated, since they then think they have a stronger claim for breaking the purported will.

Judge Williams has allowed attorneys for the will fifteen days in which to file their brief. After that the contesting attorneys are given thirty days to answer this brief. Finally the attorneys for the will are allowed another fifteen days in which to make their reply in brief to the briefs of the contesting lawyers. Altogether forty-five days will be required before Judge Williams is in possession of all written arguments from which he will decide which if any is the true will of Dr. J. I. Triplett.

Under the provisions of the purported will the bulk of the estimated $750,000 is to be used in establishing and endowing a business school at Mount Jackson, Va., the home town of the testator of the will. Trustees named in the will are, Herbert Trotter, F. S. Tavenner, jr., V. L. Vehrencamp and Joseph Triplett.

3 in Prince William Appointed Deputies

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., Dec. 17.—J. L. Hinton, of Minnieville; D. H. Herndon, of Manassas, and J. Preston Smith, of Waterfall, have received their appointments from Judge Walter T. McCarthy, as deputy sheriffs of Prince William County. They were recommended by Sheriff John P. Kerlin, with whom they will serve for the term beginning January 1, 1932. Sheriff Kerlin was reelected for a four-year term in the general election in November.

Two Men Hurt as Truck Wrecks in 100-Foot Drop

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—J. R. Bullock, 29, and J. A Floyd, 37, of Fairmount, N. C., were hurt this morning at 5 o'clock when they drove their two and a half ton truck and trailer, laden with tangerines, through a barrier at the foot of Fifth street and dropped 100 feet to the Norfolk & Western Railway right of way.

Bullock, who jumped suffered a fractured leg, and Floyd, who went over with the truck, had a broken arm. The truck was wrecked beyond repair. They said the car was going too fast to make the turn.

Montgomery Play For Charity Ready

"Trial of Mary Dugan" Is to Be Staged Tonight at Rockville.

The Montgomery County Players will present the "Trial of Mary Dugan" tonight and tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock in the police courtroom in the old courthouse at Rockville, Md., for the benefit of the Montgomery County Social Service League. The presentation is under auspices of the Inquiry Club and Women's Club of Rockville.

Mrs. J. Somerville Dawson is chairman of the joint committee in charge, aided by Mrs. Edwin Brcome, Mrs. F. Barnard Welsh, Mrs. E. L. Smith, Miss Elizabeth Keiser, Mrs John Henderson, Mrs. Albert Boulc and Miss Willie Greene Day. If necessary, the show will be repeated Monday night. The courtroom was provided through the interest of Lacy Shaw, president of the Montgomery County commissioners, and Judge Robert B. Peter of the circuit court.

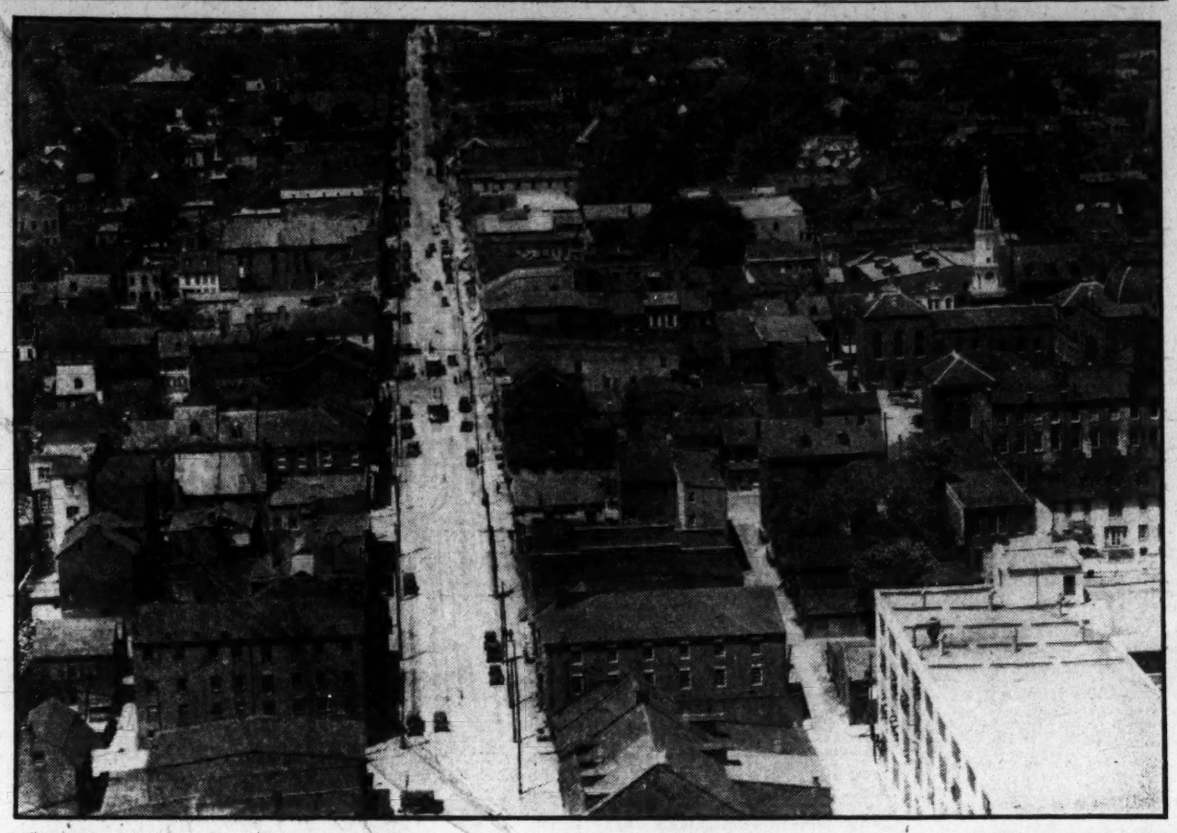

Eleanor Teitman will portray Mary Dugan, on trial for the murder of her lover. The attorney for the defense is played by Hubert Teitman, and Harrison Hathaway is prosecuting attorney. Others in the cast are Jane Plummer Rice, Ralph Fowler, who portrays Mary Dugan's brother; Marjorie Hathaway, Cynthia Hathaway, Irving M. Day, Martha Williams, Pauline Whitacre, Doris Davidson, Carey Quinn, Thomas Dowd, Lucy Prettyman, Alma Ramsay, Ruth Greenman, Bashford Bishop, Alton Sanford, Capt. Guy Kinman, Doris Day, Mrs. Charles Moon, Mary and Austin Swartout, Martha Robers, and Mahlon Selby. Maj. Lee S. Tillotson plays the part of judge. The play is directed by E. Barrett Prettyman and Allene Sanford, and E. W. Chapin is stage manager.

Virginia Plans Fight On Hoover Job Plan

Richmond, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—John Hopkins Hall, jr., commissioner of labor and industry, is asking Virginia representatives in Congress to fight President Hoover's new employment service and to support the plan to expand the present Federal-State employment service as set forth in the Wagner unemployment bill.

In a letter to Virginia senators and members of the House, Mr. Hall charges that the President's new employment service under the so-called Doak plan seeks to set up "a Republican political organization at the expense of the United States Government in the several States."

Skyviews of Capital Suburbs—No. 5

Fairchild Aerial Surveys, Inc.

The spire at the right of the picture marks the city hall, with the old town clock set in the tower. In this building is the present Masonic Temple, with priceless relics of Washington. These will be moved to the fireproof New Masonic Temple. Below the city hall is the police station and court building.

Near the lower left corner is a white house with three dormer windows, facing the torpedo station. This is the Carlyle House, built in 1752, and one of Alexandria's most famous houses. In this house the conference of colonial governors was held in 1774. It was from this as headquarters that Gen. Braddock started his ill-fated trip to Fort Duquesne. Above the Carlyle House is the Braddock Hotel, now the Wager apartments. This was built about 1800. In a front room is the oldest bank vault in the United States built into the house in a room which was to be used as a bank.

CHEESE MILK ACID PROBLEM IS SOLVED

V. P. I. Experiments Show Method of Importance to Dairymen.

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—One of the cheesemaker's most troublesome problems, making cheese from milk of high acidity, apparently has been solved through a method developed by Prof. W. D. Saunders, cheese specialist of the Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

The development of this method benefits both the cheesemaker and the dairy farmer as it enables the cheesemaker to use milk which he formerly was forced to reject. Prof. Saunders' method has created national interest from cheesemakers, and large commercial manufacturers have requested details of the method.

Prof. Saunders recalled that in 1915 when he began the study of cheese in Virginia, cheese experts of the United States Department of Agriculture told him that cheese could be produced only in certain favored sections of the State. Prof. Saunders disagreed with the contention, and at present, he said, marketable cheese is produced in all sections of the State.

Formerly it was considered that milk containing as high as 0.20 per cent acid was unsuited for cheese making, but by the method developed by Prof. Saunders, milk containing as high as 0.35 per cent acid has been made into satisfactory, marketable cheese.

By his method, water is added to the cheese vat immediately after the curd is cut, and this reduces the acid in the whey to 0.10 per cent or less. The cooking is done at a temperature not above 100 degrees, and the curd is allowed to lie in the whey about two hours or until the acid in the whey has risen to about 0.18 per cent. This method has been applied successfully under factory conditions as well as in experimental tests.

Professor Saunders believes that with further tests of this method a greater control of undesirable bacteria in cheese can be obtained through the use of milk of high acidity, and thus make the present pasteurization unnecessary. If this can be accomplished it will enable the cheese-maker to save in the cost of equipment and amount of time needed. Further tests are being conducted along this line.

Besides making investigations in manufacturing cheese from high acid milk, Professor Saunders is working on standardization of milk for cheese making. The object is to equalize the content of butterfat and casein in the milk so as to produce cheese of uniform composition.

Professor Saunders is also studying the question of controlling mold on cheese, as paraffin is not always a satisfactory control measure. He has been working with certain solutions which, judging by early results, will control mold better than paraffin.

Illinois Disbars John J. Gorman

Former Representative Gets Boomerang on Work With Thompson.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The "America first" crusades of William Hale Thompson turned into a boomerang today, bringing the disbarment by the supreme court of John J. Gorman, former representative and one-time ally of the former Chicago Mayor.

Gorman, the supreme court ruled, did not conform to the "standards set by the legal profesion" while corporation counsel in one of the Thompson administrations. The disbarment was asked by the Chicago Bar Association as an aftermath of Gorman's prosecution of Mayor Thompson's ouster suit against William McAndrew, then superintendent of schools.

Thompson repeatedly had charged McAndrew with pro-British leanings and permitting the use in city schools of history books filled with propaganda for Great Britain.

6 Men and Paraphernalia Are Seized in Gaming Raid

Sergt. N. O. Holmes and his headquarters vice squad yesterday raided an alleged bookmaking establishment at 1104 Vermont avenue northwest, near the Department of Justice Building, and confiscated reputed betting paraphernalia and arrested six men.

George W. Shettel, 29 years old, of the Ohio Hotel, and Julius Naiman, 26 years old, of 1745 Lanier place northwest, were charged with permitting gaming and held for $500 bond each. Edward R. Sweeney, 34, of the Annapolis Hotel; Roy S. Hart, 35, of 1332 I street northwest; Elvin C. James, 35, of 233 G street northwest, and Philip Davis, 34, of 919 Twelfth street northwest, were held for $100 bond each as United States witnesses.

The establishment, on the second floor of the building, was operated under the subterfuge of an agency for Smithfield hams. It also advertised on its windows "Old Virginia Brunswick Stew," wholesale only.

The lookout evidently thought members of the raiding squad were customers, for the electrically operated door was opened immediately for them. Betting slips, forms, charts, a radio, the door and a table were confiscated and taken to headquarters.

Youth Confesses Mail-Pouch Theft

Arrested After Attempts to Cash Checks Taken From Sack Fail.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 17.—A colored youth of North Garden confessed after a cross-examination by Police Chief Maurice F. Greaver, that he stole a mail sack after it had been tossed from a southbound Southern Railway train at North Garden, cut it open, and later tried to cash Government checks which he found in the mail. He was turned over to a postal inspector yesterday.

The youth, Joseph Tunsler, 19, who at first gave an alias of Amos Harris, was arrested by a local patrolman soon after a futile attempt to pass one of the checks made out on the United States Treasury to inhabitants of the North Garden section. From North Garden came the information that Tunsler lived with Clarence Reed, colored, a mail messenger whose duty it is to pick up the mail sacks as they are thrown from passing trains; that he carried out the robbery singlehanded by simply beating Reed to the spot after the mail had been thrown from train No. 25.

Tunsler admitted that he took $3 in cash from the sack, and left the remainder of the mail near the tracks. One check, made out to Stonewall Jackson Brown, North Garden, for $10 was found on Tunsler, with $9.98 in cash. He maintained he tore up the remaining six checks when he found that he could not cash them.

Lauded by Virginian Guinea-Fowl Hunting

Covington, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—T. M. Gathright will not worry unduly if quail become scarce—a condition which the State commission of game and inland fisheries does not anticipate. Guinea-fowl hunting, he says, is great sport, and to prove it he has already purchased more than 100 of the fowl for his large game preserve in Bath County.

The fowl soon become wild and can be hunted with dogs in the same manner that quails are sought, Mr. Gathright explained. He intends to add to his stock.

W. C. T. U. in Loudoun Will Hear Reports

Special to The Washington Post.

Hamilton, Va., Dec. 17.—A feature of the program for the quarterly convention of the county Women's Christian Temperance Union, which will be held Friday at the schoolhouse in Hamilton, will be the report of the regional conference in Washington. Those on the program are Mrs Henry J. Hoge, Mrs. N. C. Nichols and Mrs. John Ward.

Business sessions will be held in the morning and in the afternoon. A medal contest also will be held in the afternoon.

Paroled Slayer Contests Will.

Port Huron, Mich. (U.P.).—George Bearss, paroled after serving sixteen years of a life sentence for slaying his aunt, has filed suit contesting the will of his father. The father, James Bearss, bequeathed the paroled slayer the sum of $1.

House Body Backs Confederate Bill

Measure Makes Hospitals Available to Veterans of Civil War.

(Associated Press.)

Extension of hospital and home facilities to veterans of the Confederate army and navy yesterday was approved by the House military affairs committee.

Representative Hill (Democrat), Alabama, chairman of the subcommittee which drafted the legislation, pointed out that the bill is exactly the same as one favorably reported to the last Congress, which failed to reach the calendar in time for consideration.

"A gracious gesture," was the way the report characterized the bill, "signifying to all the world that all differences and dissensions of the war of 1861 to 1865 are forgotten."

Winchester Protests Apple Rate Advance

Winchester, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Protests against the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in advancing the rate on apples for export from 30 to 34 cents per 100 pounds from Winchester to New York have been voiced here by commercial growers of the Winchester district. The growers said they have been made the "goat" of trade rivalries between large Eastern cities.

Protests have also been filed with the commission against its action in approving reduction of rates on Pacific Northwest apples for export. In the protest against increased rates from Virginia to New York, the growers charge discrimination by the commission between the Northwest and

Bank Department Urged in Virginia

Organization of Separate Unit With Broader Powers Is Advocated.

Stanley, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—A separate State banking department was advocated today by Delegate C. C. Lauderback, representing Page and Warren Counties in the General Assembly.

Discussing matters before the Assembly to be convened in the capital next month, Mr. Lauderback said today that some "very practical" laws relating to banking were presented in the 1930 session. He added, however, that "but few passed that materially improved some of the weak features existing in our State banking laws."

"As important as the banking business is to the life of the State and Nation, I think it very necessary that we have a separate banking department, to be composed of a well-rounded organization of men experienced in banking, clothed with broader supervisory powers than now exist," Delegate Lauderback said.

HOUSE AUTHORIZES VIRGINIA HOSPITAL

Passage of Veteran Medical Treatment Bill by Senate Is Expected.

(Associated Press.)

The first deficiency bill passed by the House yesterday contained an authorization under which a veterans' hospital is expected to be built in Virginia next year. The measure went immediately to the Senate, where early passage is anticipated.

The veterans administrator would be authorized by the bill to make contracts for new hospitals and additions costing $17,877,000. Upon receiving a report that the contracts had been consummated, Congress would appropriate the amount so obligated.

Allocation of hospital funds is made by the Federal hospitalization board, which meets in January. By that time, it is expected the Senate will have passed the bill and the board will have power to carry forward its extensive construction program.

Included in this program, Virginia members of Congress have been assured, will be a Virginia hospital of from 150 to 200 beds and to cost from $500,000 to $600,000.

Because of the concentration of Government hospitals around Hampton Roads and at Washington on the northern boundary of the State, it has been indicated the new hospital site will be west of a north and south line drawn through Farmville and south of the east and west center line through the State.

Virginia lacks a hospital exclusively for veterans, but former soldiers and sailors are cared for at Government hospitals in Norfolk, Portsmouth and Hampton and several other institutions by contract.

3 Students Injured As Auto Overturns

Two University of Virginia Men Are Hurt in Crash Near Palmyra.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 17.—Three students, two of the University of Virginia and the third studying aviation at Wood Field, airport of the Dixie Flying Service, were injured when their automobile overturned near Palmyra, Fluvanna County, about 35 miles south of Charlottesville. They were brought to University Hospital. Two other students in the car were unhurt.

It is understood that the five young men were on their way to the University of Florida to spend the Christmas holidays. The injured are Edward Lee Clarke, of Hauppage, Long Island, N. Y., a second-year student in the law school; F. Hamilton Seeley, of Chicago, first-year student in the college department, and his brother, Stuart Seeley, 17, of the Dixie Flying Service.

The car was owned by Roger Gelason, first-year student, of Rochester, N. Y. Gleason and G. S. Jackson, first-year student, of Bainbridge, Ga., were not hurt. Hamilton, Seeley, Clarke and Jackson are members of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. Clarke is a half-brother of the Seeleys, it is understood.

New Trial Is Granted Man Facing Electrocution

Kinston, N. C., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Herman Casey, 46, truck driver, convicted of killing J. C. Causey, wealthy lumberman and sportsman of Suffolk, Va., and under sentence to die in the electric chair tomorrow, was granted a new trial today by Judge Clayton Moore.

Judge Moore granted the new trial upon motion of attorneys for Casey, who said they had discovered new evidence which might materially affect the case. The attorneys also presented affidavits from several men and women and three of the jurors who tried Casey had expressed opinions before the trial.

FARM AGENTS MEET IN SESSION AT V.P.I.

Relations Between Extension Workers and Cooperatives Is Discussed.

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The relationship existing between extension workers and cooperative associations was discussed this afternoon at the county agents meeting at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

J. R. Hutcheson, director of the Virginia Agricultural Extension Division, said the extension administration is willing to help cooperatives educationally, but said it is impossible unless such associations make available to the extension workers full knowledge of their activities.

Paul Fletcher, extension specialist, reported a movement to organize a cooperative live stock marketing association to serve the Eastern States. He said stock and membership sales are being made.

K. A. Keithly, of the Federal Farm Board, said the National Wool Marketing Association is operating on a firmer basis this year than last.

Technical problems in connection with growing crops were considered this morning. The home demonstration agents discussed markets.

The value of Lespedeza, wheat, clover and alfalfa and how to get farmers to grow these were discussed by S. F. Grubbs, Rustburg; J. R. Lintner, Leesburg, and L. M. Walker, jr., Richmond, county agents. Prof. W. B. Hutcheson spoke about the kind and how much fertilizer farmers can afford to use at present prices for principal crops.

P. E. Bird, county agent at Marion, told about securing and using pasture improvement demonstrations. Prof. C. W. Holdaway gave some suggestions for cheapening dairy ration, and Prof. H. L. Moore gave suggestions about poultry rations.

Desire to Hunt 'Possum Leads to Jail Cell

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 17.—An overpowering desire to hunt opossums proved the undoing of Lyall Pritt, of Lyall Run, Braxton county, according to a police report received here today from Burnsville.

Pritt was sought about a year ago on charges of forging checks. Learning that officers were after him, he fled the county. For some time he roamed through Arizona and other Western States, but finally there came upon him the urge for one of his favorite West Virginia sports, a 'possum hunt. At Glenville, he was picked up by Sheriff Blair Gainer. Constable D. W. Burnsville went over to Glenville, took Pritt in charge and lodged him in the Sutton Jail, where today he was awaiting trial.

Publicity Parley Is Set in Virginia

Fifth Annual Conference to Be Held January 9 in Charlottesville.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—The State Chamber of Commerce today announced plans for the fifth annual all-Virginia publicity conference to be held in Charlottesville, Va., January 9. The George Washington bicentennial celebration, historic garden week and Virginia Shrine week will be discussed.

Robert Lecky, member of the Virginia State Bicentennial Commission, will discuss methods for coordinating the numerous events planned for the State during the celebration, and W. J. James, secretary of the Washington Guides' Association, will discuss plans for influencing visitors to Washington during the celebration to visit Virginia.

Mrs. Thomas S. Wheelwright, chairman of the garden tour committee of the Garden Club of Virginia, will talk on Garden Week at the conference.

KIZER CASE SUICIDE VERDICT IS UPHELD

Coroner's Jury Reaffirms Its Ruling; King Death Is Called Accident.

A coroner's jury yesterday reaffirmed its verdict of a week ago declaring Harry D. Kizer, 53 years old, a War Department accountant, a suicide in connection with his death from monoxide gas poisoning. The jury deliberated for more than an hour after hearing three hours of testimony in relation to Kizer and his death.

Relatives of Kizer had asked for reopening of the case in an effort to prove that Kizer had not intended to take his life. Mrs. Grace Kizer, wife of the War Department auditor, who was ill at the time of the first inquest, told of finding her husband unconscious on the floor of his garage and said that on the morning of his death "his mind seemed to wander." She said he had been suffering from a stomach disorder.

C. M. Marshall, secretary of the board of trustees of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, testified for the relatives' claim as did Ben T. Webster, a real estate dealer and friend of the Kizers, and Earl Taggart, personnel chief in the General Accounting Office, under whose supervision Kizer was employed.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by the jurors in the case of John T. King, 59 years old, fatally injured early Wednesday when a car driven by Millard E. LaFontaine, 21-year-old nephew of "Jimmie" LaFontaine, struck him as he proceeded along Highway Bridge on his way to work as operator of the draw mechanism of the span. He died in Emergency Hospital a short time after the accident.

Dairymen Meet Today To Amend Constitution

Special to The Washington Post.

Manasas, Va., Dec. 17.—Officers and directors of the Piedmont Virginia Dairy Festival will meet in Manassas at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow to discuss future plans and amend their constitution.

The most important amendment, according to Richard S. Hynson, president, would set back election of officers from April to a date closely following the annual festival in October.

City Vote 4 Months Off Interests Martinsburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Dec. 17.—With the local municipal primaries only four months off possible candidates for mayor are being discussed at great length.

Mayor Chris H. Dailey, Republican, is to be a candidate for reelection and is likely to be opposed for the G. O. P. nomination by former Mayor G. W. Appleby, jr., and possibly by Dr. J. A. Duff, a former national vice commander of the American Legion. Former Mayor P. R. Harrison is among those mentioned as the Democratic nominee.

Utility Body Grants Bus Line Changes

Semiweekly Meeting Held Despite Vacancy of Hartman Post.

The Public Utilities Commission held its semiweekly meeting yesterday despite the vacancy created by the resignation of Harleigh H. Hartman, and approved several bus line changes.

The application of the Blue Ridge Transportation Co. to operate its five buses up Fourteenth street to the Union Depot at 1336 New York avenue on the condition that the Greyhound bus line reduce its trips by 23 down Thirteenth street from New York to Pennsylvania avenues, was approved.

An application of the Capital Traction Co. to continue its Chevy Chase loop bus line via the Episcopal Home at Nebraska avenue and Rock Creek Ford road was granted. This route was originally adopted as a detour when Thirty-second street was closed for repairs. The Southside Transportation Co. was authorized to operate buses in and out of Washington to Petersburg, Va. The Washington Rapid Transit Co. also was authorized to run its line down Fifteenth street and west on Constitution avenue when the new Commerce Department Building opens.

Hopewell-Charles City Ferry Line Planned

Hopewell, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Officials of the Hopewell-Charles City Ferry Co. today applied to the Federal Government for a permit to operate a ferry across a navigable river.

A charter for the company was recently granted by the State Corporation Commission. The new line is expected to be in operation by March 1.

TWO HELD IN DEATH OF YOUNG MOTHER

Woman and Man Charged With Murder After Inquest in Fatal Shooting.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Mrs. David Sherwood and E. E. Albertson, companions of Mrs. Essiemay King when she met her death from a pistol shot wound under mysterious circumstances early yesterday morning in Princess Anne County, this afternoon were arrested and formally charged with murder in connection with the case.

The arrests were made by Norfolk County Officers R. H. White and W. W. Carr, as the fatal shot was reported to have been fired in Norfolk County, although the 18-year-old victim, mother of a 3-year-old boy, is supposed to have died in Princess Anne County, where her body was viewed some time after death by Dr. R. E. Whitehead, Princess Anne County coroner.

Dr. Whitehead, after hearing evidence of Mrs. Sherwood and Albertson at the inquest conducted yesterday, returned a verdict in which he held the young woman "had come to her death from a gunshot wound, the cause unknown to the coroner."

Formal Charges Made.

Princess Anne and Norfolk County authorities conferred today, and after an investigation the formal charges of murder were filed against Mrs. Sherwood and Albertson.

Mrs. King was riding in an automobile late Tuesday night with Mrs. David Sherwood and E. E. Albertson, the latter of Norfolk, according to testimony given by Mrs. Sherwood and Albertson at the inquest.

While on the Ingleside road, between the Virginia Beach boulevard and Ingleside, a pistol was discharged in the car, it was testified, the pistol being in the hands of Mrs. King. When Albertson asked Mrs. King if she was injured, she replied that she was not, and the pistol fell to the floor of the machine, Albertson said. He added that he believed the bullet had gone through the floor of the car.

Ewell Joins Party.

After being told Mrs. King was not hurt, the party proceeded to London Bridge, and there picked up a man named J. O. Ewell, after which the four rode toward Creeds, in Princess Anne County.

Harry Munden, who lives near Creeds, in whose home Dr. Whitehead was called to view the body of Mrs. King yesterday, testified that about 12:30 a. m. yesterday a car entered the yard of his home and that Albertson, Mrs. Sherwood and Ewell alighted from the machine and then helped Mrs. King from the car. Munden testified they told him they were cold and would like to go into his house and get warm. They entered the house and placed Mrs. King in a chair, Munden said. He started a fire. He said he thought Mrs. King had been placed in the chair to "sleep it off."

Ewell testified that after the party entered Munden's house it was discovered that Mrs. King was dead. Ewell said that Mrs. Sherwood then drove him back to London Bridge in the automobile.

Alcohol Permits Subject of Quiz

Board of Inquiry Meets in Baltimore in Case of Two Firms.

Baltimore, Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Meeting here secretly behind closed doors, a board of inquiry from the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol at Washington, is conducting hearings here this week on the renewal of Government permits to the United States Industrial Alcohol Co., Maryland division, and its subsidiary, the United States Industrial Chemical Co.

The sessions are expected to continue several days longer and neither officials of the company nor of the Government will discuss any of the details. The headquarters of this division of the alcohol company are located in Baltimore, while the chemical company headquarters are in West Virginia.

The companies, two of the largest manufacturers of industrial alcohol in the country, were among sixteen corporations indicted here last July along with 36 individuals on charges of conspiracy to convert industrial alcohol products into beverage alcohol.

Farmer Is Found Dead on Highway

Auto Blamed in Death of Hampton Overstreet Near Bedford, Va.

Bedford, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—Hampton Overstreet, a well-known farmer, was found dead in the road today. The body was discovered lying on the hard surface road approximately 100 feet from the gate of his farm, which is located about 4 miles south of Bedford on the Moneta road. Officers Pentecost and Hubbard, with Dr. M. P. Rucker, went to the scene.

Examination disclosed a broken leg, severe head injuries and other bruises, and the position of the body indicated that it had been struck by an automobile going in the direction of Moneta, probably as much as an hour before. There was no clew as to the car which caused the accident.

Navy Department Asked To Pay Men's Fire Loss

(Associated Press.)

The Navy Department yesterday recommended to Congress the reimbursement, at a cost of $3,500, of enlisted men who lost personal effects in the fire of February 21, 1927, at the Naval Training Station, Hampton Roads, Va.

"The men whose effects were lost were either on duty fighting the fire or on guard, in the hospital or sick quarters, or otherwise unable to assist in saving their effects," the report said.

Round Hill 4-H Club Elects.

Round Hill, Va., Dec. 17 (Special).—The Round Hill 4-H Club has elected the following officers for the coming year: Frances Poston, president; Evelyn Chamblin, vice president; Anna Adams, reporter, and Helen Adams, treasurer.
